WEST VIRGINIA JOINS PARADE AS WET STATE

California Rolls Up Wide Margin for Repeal of Prohibition.

(Associated Press.)

West Virginia joined fourteen other States last night which have favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment, while returns from California, although incomplete, gave antiprohibitionists a wide lead.

Dry for more than twenty years, West Virginia rolled up a repeal lead of more than 70,000 with two-thirds of its precincts reported.

On the opposite end of the continent, meanwhile, as tabulators raced to tally California's vote, opponents of the prohibition amendment enjoyed an advantage of nearly 200,000 votes on the early returns.

Vote Light in West Virginia.

First returns from southern California centers gave those opposed to the prohibition amendment a 3-to-1 lead, and although this percentage was not maintained, repealists led by 297,286 to 108,507 after 2,427 of the State's 9,347 precincts had reported.

The vote was comparatively light in West Virginia, but long before any final tally had been reached a repealist lead of 161,431 to 91,475 had been recorded.

The Pacific Coast State's referendum gave opportunity not only for a popular mandate on repeal, but also on whether parimutuel betting on horse races should be permitted.

Returns Favor Betting.

Returns from 202 California Precincts on the proposition to legalize betting on races gave 16,359 votes for and 9,871 against.

The 14 States that have gone on record previously in favor of repeal are Michigan, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Wyoming, New Jersey, New York, Delaware, Nevada, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Iowa.

Albany, N. Y., June 27 (A.P.).—New York, home State of President Roosevelt, today ratified repeal of the eighteenth amendment at a convention of 150 wet delegates, including 26 women.

The gathering in the huge Assembly chamber at the Capitol, was marked by a vigorous attack on government by "organized minorities," delivered by former Alfred E. Smith, and a declaration by former United States Senator Elihu Root that "there will be no 13 States" to block repeal.

Smith, unanimously chosen president of the convention, declared the New York convention "will stand out as a lesson and a warning for all time to come for the people of this and every other State to be very careful in the future and never allow anything like the eighteenth amendment to get into our Federal Constitution."

German Creditors Accept Debt Plan

London, June 27 (A.P.).—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, came to an agreement today with Germany's long-term creditors for six months' arrangement, after which it was understood that the Germans hoped to pay interest in full.

Dr. Schacht proposed to block off the unpaid portion of interest in marks. The creditors demurred on this point, asking that the unpaid part should be in currencies called for by loans. This point is to be ironed out by a subcommittee of the creditors, including an American, which will meet in Berlin soon.

Interest on the Dawes and Young plan loans will be met, but the question of the Young sinking fund still is unsettled.

Secret Notes Bare Prolonging of War

Diplomatic Files, Locked Since 1918, Reveal U. S. Insistence on Own Terms.

(Associated Press.)

Secret diplomatic correspondence of the turbid closing days of the World War yesterday was uncovered with a revelation that the conflict had been prolonged for ten months after Germany and Austria-Hungary had sought peace.

Decoded messages, dust-laden in locked files for a decade and a half, disclosed that the central powers—foreseeing and fearing ultimate defeat—petitioned for peace nearly a year before the final signing of the armistice, only to be met by insistence upon full capitulation to American peace terms.

The year 1918, which the State Department correspondence covered, began with the central powers feeling more and more the pinch of the allied blockade. The complete force of America's men and millions had yet to be thrown into the fray. The outlook in Berlin and Vienna was bleak. On January 8, President Wilson outlined his famous 14 points.

A fortnight later, Chancellor Hertling told the German Reichsbank that he could agree upon all but those points having to do with colonies, evacuation from occupied territories and the creation of a free Poland.

Simultaneously, Chancellor Czernin told the Austro-Hungarian Parliament he found in the Wilson attitude a "close approach to the Austro-Hungarian point of view."

But behind these formal expressions and surface manifestations there was developing a constant effort to discuss peace, which on the part of Austria-Hungary eventually took on a frantic tone.

The Vienna government was willing, even anxious, to make a separate peace, and on one occasion was encouraged by an informal offer of American financial assistance should she break with Germany.

Franz Josef was dead. The Emperor Charles had succeeded to the throne. He foresaw the approaching disintegration of his empire. His people were war weary. Peace, constitutional concessions to his subjects, and the end of the alliance with Germany was his aim.

He forced Czernin, ardently Prussian, to adopt his conciliatory tone and meanwhile a trusted adviser, Prof. Lammasch, of Vienna, was seeking these objectives in informal negotiations in Switzerland.

Later, the Austrian government utilized the good offices of the Spanish and Swedish sovereigns to dispatch notes to President Wilson asking a conference for the discussion of his peace terms.

Wilson's reply was that his peace points had been made sufficiently

GOLD BLOC DECIDES TO FIGHT REFLATION

England Refuses, at Least Temporarily, to Join in Stabilization Plan.

London, June 27 (A.P.).—The representatives of France, Holland, Switzerland and Belgium are understood authoritatively to have decided at a meeting late today to take concerted action through their central banks to defend the gold standard and fight the American reflation program in the World Economic Conference.

Great Britain, it is said, refused at least temporarily to strengthen the gold bloc by stabilizing the pound sterling with the French franc, so the four countries took steps to rely upon themselves.

The gold standard group held two secret sessions today, one in the early morning before the other delegates arrived at the conference hall and the second late this afternoon.

An effort was made during the day, it was learned, to convince Great Britain that she should line up definitely in favor of the stable money group in defense of gold and in opposition to the American price-raising plan.

The British delegates and financial authorities, it was said, took a noncommittal attitude and declined to make a statement favoring stabilization as urged by the gold bloc.

A unilateral declaration by Great Britain, gold bloc spokesmen said, would strengthen continental currencies, but would not prohibit Great Britain from dickering later with America relative to an ultimate fixed ratio for the dollar and the pound if the dollar should be devalorized to a point which the British thought harmful to their currency.

The gold bloc asked the British to make this declaration in case they felt that they could not hitch the pound to the franc.

Great Britain's equivocal policy, British authoritative quarters said, should be interpreted as a refusal to permit the gold bloc to drive a wedge between England and America.

The gold countries, however, have not given up hope of obtaining the

Moley in London To Aid Delegates

London (Wednesday), June 28 (A.P.).—Raymond Moley, Assistant United States Secretary of State, ended a long journey to London early today to inform American delegates at the World Economic Conference of the latest developments in the administration's policy at home and to receive a report to carry back to President Roosevelt.

Looking somewhat haggard, the chief Presidential adviser arrived on a train from Plymouth shortly after 1 a. m., to be met by a throng of newspapermen despite the hour.

He referred his questioners to a statement issued previously at Plymouth which said he had come to acquaint the delegates with happenings since they had left the United States, but under a persistent barrage of queries concerning the domestic recovery program he said it was progressing well.

Oklahoma House Votes For Session on Repeal

Oklahoma City, June 27 (A.P.).—The Oklahoma House of Representatives voted, 63 to 34, today to ask Gov. W. H. Murray to permit the special session of the Legislature to submit the question of prohibition repeal to a vote of the people.

The request, in a concurrent resolution, now goes to the Senate for action.

MURRAY HUMPHREYS, successor to Al Capone, indicted in Chicago on tax counts.

CAPONE SUCCESSOR INDICTED IN CHICAGO

Murray Humphreys Alleged to Have Dodged Taxes Totaling $26,108.

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—The Federal Government today obtained indictments against Murray Humphreys, public enemy No. 1 and successor to Al Capone.

The same prescription used to exterminate Capone from the Chicago underworld was applied by the Internal Revenue Bureau against the big business racketeer, indictments charging that he dodged payments of $26,108 income taxes for the last three calendar years.

Capone went to prison for 11 years and was fined $80,000.

Humphreys, if convicted under the three felony and one misdemeanor counts returned today, would be eligible to a fine of $40,000 and 16 years in the penitentiary.

The Government said nothing of the sources of Humphreys' wealth. The prosecutors merely alluded to the profits of racketeering in the comment that "the defendant apparently was interested in a great many concerns and levied tribute upon a great many enterprises, some engaged in local business and some in illegal businesses."

One of the enterprises was suspected to be the Meadowmoor Dairy, a nonunion price-cutting milk distributing concern, whose secretary-treasurer, Morris I. Gordon, was indicted simultaneously with Humphreys on a charge of perjury. He was accused of giving perjured testimony in connection with the hunt for Humphreys' income.

Gordon was in the Federal Building at the time the indictments were returned and was arrested. Humphreys, however, was out of sight. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest and bond fixed at $35,000.

Sacrifice Motives Seen in Kidnap Try

Honolulu, June 27 (A.P.).—Police advanced a theory today the group of Filipinos sought for an alleged attempt to kidnap the child of Capt. Robert F. Bradish Saturday night may have wanted to sacrifice the baby for superstitious reasons, rather than to obtain ransom money.

Officers found gashes in screens apparently made by sugar cane knives with which a maid, Agnes Rosario, said the men attempted to force entrance into the Army officer's beach home.

Bradish's home is at St. Albans, Vt. He is stationed at Schofield Barracks, near here, with the Eleventh Medical Regiment.

Thermometer Hits 100 At Century of Progress

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—The temperature reached 100 degrees today in Chicago.

The official Government thermometer said 98.8. At the World's Fair Grounds it was 100, and at the municipal airport 102, the latter two unofficial but considered authentic.

CHILD WORK DISPUTE SNAGS TEXTILE CODE

Manufacturers and Labor Protest Sections of First Draft.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

Contending interests moved toward modification of the cotton textile code yesterday as hearings were begun by the national industrial recovery administration on the first industrial code of the new deal in the economic life of the Nation.

Minority groups and various branches of the cotton industry expressed or indicated their desire for changes in the proposed code while labor representatives made it plain that they were satisfied with neither the maximum work week nor the minimum wage provisions of the code proposed by 75 per cent of the loom and spindle operators.

The code proposed by the manufacturers provides for a maximum work week of 40 hours with a minimum wage of $10 and $11 per week in the South and North, respectively, the differential having been allowed because of differences in living costs.

Determination of the cotton manufacturers to resist demands of labor for less than a 40-hour work week and more than the proposed minimum wage was reiterated following a meeting of the manufacturers in the Mayflower Hotel last night.

The work week they have offered, they contended, will increase their labor costs 35 per cent, and to this increased expense must be added increased raw material costs which some estimated would be another 35 per cent. Further decrease in working hours and increases in pay, the

DECISIVE BLOW GIVEN MARRIED U. S. EMPLOYES

Patronage Gains Further in New Public Works Office Shifts.

By Robert C. Albright.

Another blow for patronage was struck yesterday, as the new Federal emergency establishments got down to the serious business of perfecting internal organization plans.

About 50 temporary employes of the new Public Works Administration, all with Civil Service background, either were dismissed outright or transferred back to bureaus from which they had been "borrowed."

Although the Public Works Administration and the Interior Department in which it is located withheld official comment, the move was seen as damaging to the Council of Personnel Administration's plan to save jobs through transfers to the new emergency set-ups.

Day of Rapid Developments.

Word of the shake-up climaxed a day of rapid developments variously interpreted as "favorable" and "unfavorable" to the cause of Government workers, under fire of the Federal retrenchment barrage.

Briefly, they were:

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings dispersed the last stand of those fighting the so-called "married workers" clause of the economy act. He ruled it is "permanent legislation" and still law, although not reenacted for 1934. Dismissal of married workers, where their mates also are employed in the Federal service, will continue.

The General Accounting Office decided it has no authority to furlough. The independent offices act authorizes furloughs "in cases in which the number of officers in any particular service is in excess of the number necessary for the requirements of such service." The General Accounting Office held this is not true of that agency. One hundred employes have been dismissed and 50 more will go next month.

90-Day Payless Furloughs.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, which Monday announced there would be no dismissals from that unit at the close of this month, yesterday sent letters to 613 employes in its Bureaus of Valuation and Accounts, placing them on 90-day payless furloughs commencing Saturday. At the close of that period they will

Hungarian Party Backs Hapsburgs

Budapest, Hungary, June 27 (A.P.).—A group of legitimists during a night session of Parliament tonight announced the formation of a National Peoples Party with the aim of restoration of the Hapsburgs to the Hungarian throne.

Hungary is now a constitutional monarchy under the regency of Admiral Nicholas Horthy.

There have been rumors recently of moves to restore the Austro-Hungarian empire under Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, son of the late Emperor Charles and claimant to the Hungarian throne.

Catholics Only Party Outside Fold of Nazis

Nationalist Leaders Merge With Fascists and Hugenberg Resigns During Stormy Cabinet Session, Gaining Point on Hitler.

Berlin, June 27 (A.P.).—The Catholic Center party tonight remained as the sole political organization without the Nazi fold following dissolution of the National Front, comprised of the Nationalist party and affiliated organizations.

The Nazi press bureau announced that leaders of the National Front, after a conference with Chancellor Hitler, had decided to dissolve voluntarily under an "amicable agreement" under which all Nationalist deputies would become affiliated with the Nazi party.

"This leaves the Centrists the sole surviving party in Germany," a communique telling of the decision concluded.

Confirmation of reports that Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, minister of agriculture and economics in the Hitler cabinet and Nationalist leader, had submitted his resignation to President von Hindenburg had previously been given by the Wolff (German) News Agency.

Political observers considered that the existence of the Centrists would be short-lived and that the self-dissolution of the Nationalists was a vain, hollow gesture.

Dr. Hugenberg's resignation was in no sense unexpected and it was considered most likely that it would be accepted inasmuch as it came as the climax of bitter inter-cabinet feuds.

Almost from the moment of his appointment, the minister was in hot water.

First, it was opposition from farmers because of what they characterized as his dilatory tactics. Labor then criticised him for raising margarine prices. Industry, formerly friendly, deserted him when it considered he was giving way before autarchic demands.

Finally, the government repudiated him before the world for his speech

MAN AND WIFE DIE IN AUTO COLLISION

G. P. O. Worker and Mate Killed as Car Hits Truck on Curve in Storm.

Crashing head-on into a truck during the height of yesterday's storm, George W. Harvel, 64, 2109 Water street southwest, and his wife, Cyreene J. Harvel, 67, were killed instantly late yesterday on the Defense highway near Vista, Md.

Marion Nies, 35, of Baltimore, driver of the large truck belonging to the Consolidated Gas & Electric Co., Baltimore, was exonerated from blame by a coroner's jury, meeting a few hours later.

Nels, unhurt, told the jury that he met the Harvel sedan on a sharp turn near the Bowie road. The car, apparently driven by Harvel, was on the left side of the road, Nels said.

Turning suddenly to gain the right side, the car was demolished in a head-on collision with the truck. Webb Barnes, 50, Baltimore, a passenger on the truck, who was unhurt, bore out the driver's statements.

Immediately after the accident a naval officer, giving his name as Lieut. Morgan, jr., reached the scene. Placing Mrs. Harvel's body in his car he rushed to Hyattsville in search of a hospital.

There he contacted members of the Bladensburg Rescue Squad, who removed the body to the Gasch Funeral Parlors. The body of Mr. Harvel was also brought to the funeral parlors. William C. Krietzer, Bowie, Md., constable, took charge and removed Nels and Barnes to the town for the in-

Roosevelt Delays Return to Capital

President Roosevelt is enjoying his vacation so much that he has postponed, for several days, his return to Washington on July 2, Stephen Early, of his secretariat, said yesterday.

The President now plans to return to Washington either on the night of July 4 or on July 5. He has canceled a tentative speaking engagement at Charlottesville, Va., on July 4.

Mr. Early, who has been accompanying the President on his cruise, flew back to Washington yesterday afternoon. His place with the President's party will be taken by the other two secretaries, Louis M. Howe and Marvin H. McIntyre. Mr. Early reported that President Roosevelt is in excellent health, and looks forward to an extension of his cruise into the Bay of Fundy.

SHIPS IN COLLISION AT SEA NEAR LIGHT

Coast Guard Cutter Speeding to Rescue Damaged Trawler "Flow."

Boston, June 27 (A.P.).—Coast Guard headquarters tonight reported a collision of the steamer Corner Brook and the trawler Flow 4 miles northeast of Highland Light, near the tip of Cape Cod. Coast Guards said the trawler was calling for immediate assistance and that the cutter Acushnet had been sent to her aid.

The Acushnet would require approximately four hours to reach the scene, headquarters said.

It was not known how badly either vessel had been damaged.

The Flow is a Boston fishing vessel. The freighter, of 5,756 gross tons, is owned by the International Paper & Power Co. of Newfoundland. She sailed tonight for New York and had come here from Dalhousie, N. B.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—A collision at sea between the steamer Corner Brook and the trawler Flow 4 miles northeast of Highland Light was reported in a message picked up by Radio Marine Corporation tonight.

The message, addressed to the Coast Guard at Boston, asked for "immediate assistance."

Democrats Pay Off 1932 Party Deficit

The 1932 Democratic national campaign deficit has been liquidated.

This was the announcement last night from the Mayflower hotel headquarters of Frank Walker, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, who came to Washington from New York to spur collection of the District's quota. Fifteen thousand dollars is expected to be collected here from loyal Democrats.

Approximately $480,000 remains to be collected, but it was pointed out that this figure represents the deficit inherited from the 1928 campaign. Ambrose O'Connell, special assistant to the Postmaster General and assistant national treasurer, is supervising the party's drive for funds here.

Court Denies New Trial For Former Klan Head

Indianapolis, June 27 (A.P.).—The Indiana Supreme Court today dismissed the petition of D. C. Stephenson for a writ of error coram nobis, by which the former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, now serving a life term in State prison, sought to obtain a new trial on the charge of murdering an Indianapolis girl, of which he was convicted in 1925.

The court also denied Stephenson's petition for a rehearing on his original appeal from the conviction.

Hitler Cabinet Approves Reich Budget Estimates

Berlin, June 27 (A.P.).—The Hitler cabinet approved today the Reich budget estimates for 1933-34 balancing at 5,900,000,000 marks (currently, $1,746,400,000).

"I Don't Care If I Am Smoked Out," Says Envoy-at-Large.

Admits, En Route to President, Helping to Float Loan.

By Harold J. T. Horan.

While President Roosevelt loafed off the coast of Maine yesterday waiting for Norman H. Davis, the name of his ambassador at large was brought dramatically into the Senate investigation of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. here as recipient of $35,000 fees from the underwriters of a Chilean loan in 1925. The revelation marked the resumption of the Senate investigations conducted by Ferdinand H. Pecora, and which will continue today, with Otto H. Kahn, senior member of the famous Wall street banking house, on the stand.

The name of Ambassador Davis was casually disclosed by Mr. Kahn in response to the queries of Mr. Pecora regarding the $90,000,000 loans made to the Chilean Mortgage Bank, loans which were offered to the public at par and are selling now at $14.

Davis "Doesn't Care."

Ambassador-at-Large Davis returned from Geneva last week and left at once to report to the President. The circumstances under which the services of Mr. Davis were secured were clarified in a formal statement read into the record by Mr. Kahn yesterday and which he stated had been prepared at the request of his firm by Joseph R. Swan of the Guaranty Co., of New York.

Mr. Davis last night, en route to see the President, told newspapermen that he recalled assisting in floating a loan of about $25,000,000. He said his fee might have been around $25,000.

"They are trying to smoke me out," he asserted, "and I don't care if I am smoked out."

Flanked by Associates.

Today Mr. Pecora will take up the details of Mr. Kahn's income tax payments.

The famous American Maecenas was the personification of the Old World banker yesterday in dress and manner. His 66-year-old figure was clothed in a dark blue suit with soft blue shirt. He smoked cigarettes from a handsome gem-encrusted holder. He was flanked by his attorneys, Crawth de Gersdorff, Swayne and Wood, and members of his banking firm, including Sir William Wiseman, imperturbable and serene former head of the British Intelligence Service here during the war, and Benjamin J. Buttenwieser, "baby" member of the firm who admitted a sensational rise from licking postage stamps in 1918 to admission to the three generation banking firm last year. Jerome J. Hanauer, arbitrage expert of Kuhn, Loeb who retired January 1, after 42 years had also appeared in the present emergency and frequently advised his former associate.

Mr. Kahn's testimony was so suavely offered and so graciously phrased that at one point in the testimony, Senator Barkley turned to Chairman Fletcher after the German-born banker had neatly turned a compliment for the senators present and facetiously said:

"Is there a vacancy in the diplomatic corps?"

The Sicilian-born Inquisitor, and his German-born vis-a-vis were at all times studiously polite. After Mr.

Ejected Sculptor Plans Career Based on Conceit

Borglum's Boy With Soul, Now "Thumb" Tourist, Turns Poet.

"I am the most conceited man in America."

Julian Lee Rayford, budding sculptor and poet, and accomplished thumb tourist, who was hailed several years ago by Gutzon Borglum as "the boy with a soul," made this remark in all seriousness when interviewed yesterday in Lafayette Park.

Judy, as he is known throughout the South, has been noted for his outspoken comments on life and manners ever since he told reporters, after meeting the late Calvin Coolidge, that "the President's B. V. D.'s were too tight."

Having been ejected from the Art Institute of Chicago by the sculptor, Albin Polasek, for being too conceited, Rayford revealed that he has decided to devote the rest of his life to being the most conceited man in America.

Polasek told Rayford he was entirely too conceited ever to become a sculptor, that he had better devote himself to the pursuit of poetry, so Rayford devoted himself to the pursuit with a vengeance.

He wrote 85 free-verse poems in six months. He says they are the greatest free-verse poems since Walt Whitman. He quite frankly admits that Carl Sandburg in his best days never approached the quality of Rayford's verse.

In addition to writing poetry, the young man devoted himself intensely to the fine art of reading it. He adopted the method of Southern Ne-

FEES PAID TO DAVIS REVEALED AT PROBE

Kahn Will Testify Again Today at Senate Committee Hearing.

Pecora, however, had insisted on probing a little deeper into the details of the Chilean Mortgage Bank loans, Mr. Kahn yielded his place to Mr. Buttenwieser, a chubby-faced young man with assurance and poise. Mr. Pecora changed his tactics with him. The examination involved the circumstances under which the Chilean loan had been made and Mr. Buttenwieser, who had been the assistant of the late Mortimer Schiff at the time the loan was made, was hard pressed by Mr. Pecora to justify the circumstances of the loan.

Mr. Pecora brought out that the Chilean client had been "found" for Kuhn, Loeb by the French banking firm of Louis Dreyfuss et Cie, of Paris. They received a commission. Then when the Chilean government agreed to guarantee the principal, interest and amortization of the loans the Guaranty Co. of New York went in with Kuhn, Loeb and another commission was paid. This time to Norman H. Davis. The citation under which the Davis payment was made read as follows:

"Upon conclusion of the deal the bankers, without previous consultation with Mr. Davis, decided that the fee for his work in connection with the successful conclusion of the negotiations should be fixed at $15,000, to be paid by the banking group, and an additional $10,000 was paid by the Guaranty Co. of New York, with which Mr. Davis had originally discussed the matter."

Kuhn Watches With Interest.

Another subsequent fee of $10,000 was paid Mr. Davis on a second loan.

Mr. Pecora brought out that the counsel of Kuhn, Loeb in Santiago, Manuel Foster, had described the government existing in Chile at the time the loan was made as a military council, but that the term had been subsequently changed to governing council after exchange of cables between the Chilean office and the New York office of Kuhn, Loeb.

The Pecora attack was savage and unremitting. Mr. Buttenwieser blanched several times in his first experience under the fire of direct examination. Mr. Buttenwieser refused to admit, however, that this change had been made to enhance the bonds, but had been done merely in the interest of accuracy.

Mr. Kahn stated earlier with apparent ruefulness that his own firm had lent an additional $8,000,000 to the Mortgage Bank and that on this loan also there had been default. Under the Pecora questioning, the actual loss to the bankers dwindled from $8,000,000 to less than $4,000,000 and then finally to less than $1,000,000. Other "friends" of the firm had bought up the bonds, Mr. Kahn declared.

Into the hearings yesterday was woven the tale of American frenzied finance in the years of the boom market. Mr. Kahn at one moment was explaining the position of the bankers with regard to the mania for speculation.

"We had the bear by the tail and we naturally had to handle him that way," was his manner of expressing it.

Senator Barkley interrupted:

"You may call it a bear, but other people thought it was a bull."

Pecora asked the banker if it were possible for the banking community or other agencies to stop the speculative mania.

Reply By Banker.

"No one can exert that influence except the President or the Reserve Board. In England, where they are old and wise about such things, the Governor of the Bank of England could exert corrective measures." Later in his testimony Mr. Kahn praised the British banking system and in particular the extraordinary powers of the Governor of the Bank of England.

The influence of the Federal Reserve Board had been tried late in 1929 but nothing had been done earlier, Mr. Kahn charged. "The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, in early 1929, tried to raise its discount rate, but the Reserve Board in Washington forbade it. Why, there were opportunities then to loan money for market operations at 15 per cent. Many corporations used their funds to compete with banks for this business."

"Yes, but didn't they do this through their own banks?" asked Mr. Pecora tartly.

The former chairman of the Metropolitan Opera Co. seemed to be as perfectly at home in the mazes of the financial operations of his firm as he would have been at a performance of "Traviata." He skimmed through yards of financial statements after deliberately poising his pince-nez on the end of his nose, and then with a Heidelberg accent, he would reply to Mr. Pecora calm, unruffled and benign.

Defends Present System.

While Mr. Morgan, of the banking house which bears his name, was forced to leave the explanation of his firm's operations to George Whitney or Thomas W. Lamont, Mr. Kahn was perfectly at home in describing the international ramifications of his firm's operations. Assets of Kuhn, Loeb in 1931 were placed at $66,974,845. For the same period the Morgan bank had assets of $319,405,848. Deposits of corporation clients of Kuhn, Loeb amounted to $69,449,016 in 1931 and in 1929 to $88,549,766. However, in the boom year of 1929 the assets of Mr. Kahn's firm were $120,402,103.

Mr. Kahn defended the present system of financing railroad or other bonds through private bankers and without competitive bidding.

The famous underjaw of Mr. Pecora shot out:

"But the Interstate Commerce Commission require the issuance of railroad equipment bonds to be issued only after competitive bidding."

Mr. Kahn waved a deprecating manicured hand:

"That may be, but the final cost to the public is always greater."

Shuns Cut-Throat Tactics.

Pecora then read ostentatiously from the records of the I. C. C. to show that the average cost of the financing of this category of security had declined from the time that competitive bidding had been required. Mr. Kahn still refused to admit the value of competitive bidding. He said crisply:

"My firm does not go in for cut-throat tactics. Our reputation is our shop window * * *. We employ no salesmen. Competition among bankers creates one of the most undesirable conditions. It is bidding at the expense of the public."

MRS. COLL INDICTED IN SLAYING OF GIRL

2 Men Accomplices Also Held as One Admits Guilt; Holdups Charged.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Lottie Coll, widow of Vincent Coll, slain gangster, and two accomplices were indicted by the Bronx County grand jury today on charges of slaying a 21-year-old woman pedestrian.

Police contend the young woman, Miss Mollie Schwartz, was killed by a stray bullet fired at Isadore Moroh, a jewelry peddler, when he resisted kidnap attempts allegedly made by Mrs. Coll and her companions, Albert Guarino and Joseph Ventre.

Indictments also were returned charging the three with a series of Bronx drug store holdups. They were indicted in New York County yesterday for illegal possession of revolvers.

The indictments were handed up a few hours after police said Guarino admitted he had fired the bullet which killed Miss Schwartz as she stood talking with a friend across the street from her Bronx home.

Kiwanians Told to Aid Youths Select Careers

Los Angeles, June 27 (A.P.).—Economic necessity which forces children to remain longer in secondary schools because they can not obtain employment, offers Kiwanis International greater opportunity for an enlarged scope of vocational guidance work, Lawrence H. Wheelock, Hartford, Conn., told the annual convention here today.

"One of our main jobs is to help young people choose and prepare for a suitable vocation in which they can make the proper use of their mental and physical power, and have the opportunity for self-improvement and advancement," Mr. Wheelock said.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman Rents Residence to Kahn

Otto H. Kahn, opera patron and international banker, has taken the home of Mrs. J. Borden Harriman in Georgetown for the week that the Senate investigation of his firm will last. Mr. Kahn arrived with his own chef, valet and physician Monday night and took up his residence there. Mrs. Kahn may motor down from their Long Island home in Cold Spring Harbor to join him here.

Sir William Wiseman, member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., is living with Mr. Kahn at the Harriman home. The other members of the firm, the lawyers and stenographers have taken a whole floor at the Carlton Hotel.

Washington Man Mooseheart Head

Mooseheart, Ill., June 27 (U.P.).—J. J. Sartori, of Tacoma, Wash., was elected supreme dictator today of the Loyal Order of Moose, at a national convention held at the Mooseheart School for Children.

Other national officers elected were Dr. William Buehler, Chicago, vice supreme dictator; Walter Ruff, Canton, Ohio, supreme prelate; Malcolm R. Giles, Aurora, supreme secretary; Harry W. Mace, Philadelphia, supreme treasurer; William J. Hamilton, Oakland, Calif.; Edward Vogel, Brooklyn, N. Y., and William F. Tannhauser, Milwaukee, supreme trustees, for three-year terms; Frederick N. Zihlman, Cumberland, Md.; William Broening, Baltimore, Md.; Fred W. Zabel, Davenport, Iowa, and John E. Turner, St. Louis, supreme counselors, for two-year terms.

John Meikle, Washington, D. C., a graduate of Mooseheart, was elected Moseheart governor for a six-year term.

BANK CLOSING LAID TO ADMINISTRATION

Groesbeck Says Government Sole Cause of 2 Institutions' Suspending.

Detroit, June 27 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck, now receiver for one of Michigan's largest financial holding companies, has added his testimony to that of half a dozen others who have declared the Federal Government solely responsible for closing two national banks here following the Michigan banking holiday.

The former governor made his statement today in testimony before the grand jury investigating the city's banking troubles. He charged that depositors in the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, unit of the group of which he is receiver, "can and should" receive 85 cents on the dollar.

"The time has come to tell the depositors the truth," he said, "to remove all bunk from the situation, and to lay the full responsibility for the failure of the banks to pay out the money belonging to the depositors at the door of the comptroller of the currency, where it belongs."

While the former governor was offering his testimony, word came from other sources that the receivers of the two closed banks—the Guardian National and the First National Bank-Detroit—had applied, at the request of the comptroller, for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Whether the money would be used to reorganize the banks or to make an additional payoff to depositors was not determined. Neither was the amount asked from the R. F. C. The banks already have paid 40 per cent of deposits, or $131,000,000.

San Francisco, June 27 (A.P.).—Investigation of the prebank holiday affairs of the California National Bank of Sacramento, with a view to possible grand jury action there, was ordered today by United States Attorney H. H. McPike.

The action was taken on direction of Attorney General Cummings, who had received a complaint, McPike said, from depositors charging irregularities prior to the bank holiday last March and large withdrawals shortly before the Federal Treasury suspended the $20,000,000 bank.

PROLONGING OF WORLD WAR IS BARED BY SECRET NOTES

clear in his speeches to Congress. When the Teutonic powers were ready to agree with them then there could be peace.

Meanwhile, as early as January 4, Grant-Smith, the American charge in Denmark, told the State Department that "a Teutonic peace offensive is making itself felt on every hand." Correspondence of the period is filled with similar references.

On February 19, Vice Consul McNally, at Zurich, Switzerland, cabled Secretary Lansing:

"The German offensive is being held back by the influence of the Kaiser, who urges that the terrible slaughter which must follow should be withheld, as he is certain that Lloyd George, the only person now preventing peace, will soon be deposed. The Pan-Germans are exceedingly incensed and have informed him that the offensive will not be withheld later than very early March."

Again, on February 28, Minister Morris cabled from Stockholm that an unofficial representative of Germany had told him "that the contemplated great offensive on the western front was being held in abeyance to see what result would be obtained from this speech of Hertling's affirming that the German government accepted in principle" a second enunciation of peace terms in which President Wilson had reduced his 14 points to 4 points of principle.

But no agreement could be reached. The German offensive of the spring of 1918 was launched, with resulting tremendous casualty lists, and even setbacks for the allied forces.

Eventually, however, it was halted and the allied drive of the summer, which led ultimately to victory in the fall, was begun.

The offer of financial aid to Austria in the event of a separate peace was surrounded by the greatest secrecy. It was put into written form only in a ciphered message to the legation in Switzerland with instructions that it be decoded only by Hugh Wilson, then Charge d'Affaires and acting head of the mission.

Offer to Austria.

It said:

"Concerning the possible need of Austria to obtain financial aid after the war under certain conditions I think that it would be wise at this time to convey secretly, unofficially and orally to Lammasch or his agent, that, in the event of Austria being deprived of German financial support through acting contrary to the wishes of the German government in independently arranging a cessation of hostilities and negotiations for peace at the present time, person conveying information has strong impression amounting to conviction that Government of the United States will exert its influence to the end that financial assistance may be obtained in the United States as nearly as possible to the extent that Germany would have furnished it if there had been no breach in their relations.

"As to the most expedient channel to convey this secret and unofficial information to Lammasch, I rely wholly upon your discretion, though I think that it would be unwise to employ Herron (an American historian then in Switzerland who had previously taken part in unofficial discussions with the Austrians) whose relationship with Lammasch should in no way be embarrassed by making him the agent of delivery of even the most unofficial message. * * * Please act promptly and discreetly in this matter and report fully."

The message was signed by Secretary Lansing, and dated February 15.

Secret Message Delivered.

Hugh Wilson's reply, on February 21, follows:

"Lammasch has no agent in Switzerland and I hesitate to confide this message to any neutral. It was therefore imperative to confide it only to a person of confidence who could deliver the message secretly, orally and unofficially to Lammasch in Vienna. I therefore summoned York-Steiner, an Austrian who often calls at the legation * * *. He is a close friend and warm admirer of Lammasch and a disciple of his in political matters * * *.

"I asked him whether he could proceed to Vienna on a confidential mission of benefit to his country. He replied that he could proceed as soon as the necessary three days of passport formalities had elapsed. I told him to obtain the necessary visa and then return to me.

"He returned on the nineteenth instant, having obtained permission to visit Vienna on the ground of his desire to bring his daughter back to Switzerland, a season which really exists and a mission which he will accomplish.

Peace Agreement Delayed.

"I then delivered your message which he repeated to me in exact wording. He expressed himself as profoundly moved by this opportunity to be of service to his country and assured me that having delivered his message he would wipe it from his memory. He has arranged to inform me by a harmless telegram to his wife on Tuesday, who will know nothing of its import when message has been delivered.

"Dulles (a legation attache) and I are ciphering this message and the matter is known to no one else."

Four days later Wilson reported:

"The telegram agreed upon has been received, indicating that message has been delivered to Lammasch."

With this sentence, all reference to the financial offer ended. Austria-Hungary and the United States never reached agreement on peace terms until November 3, hardly a week before the general armistice, and consequently the Vienna government was never in position to ask that the offer be carried out.

GOLD BLOC DECIDES TO FIGHT REFLATION

powerful aid of England. The Bank of France and French treasury experts are working night and day to plug holes in their battle front in the struggle on one hand against a speculative ring alleged to be playing against the abandonment of gold, and on the other hand against the American antidepression campaign which they fear.

The arrival of Raymond Moley, American Assistant Secretary of State, is stirring the greatest interest among Europeans, many of whom will probably seek to interview the professor and to impress their viewpoint on the presidential adviser.

"We are now convinced that it is not what Mr. Moley can bring from Washington, but what he takes away from London that will count," a representative of the gold bloc said tonight.

The French are pinning their hope upon convincing Mr. Moley that President Roosevelt's program is "dangerous" and unlikely to bring the desired results.

While the monetary drama was being played behind the scenes of the conference, the four-power wheat deliberations for restriction of production and export encountered stubborn difficulties and called a recess for its meeting some time in July, when the size of the 1933 crop may be more definitely known.

Threats Useless In Wheat Parley

London, June 27 (U.P.).—Indications that the United States and Canada might be willing to dump millions of bushels of surplus wheat onto the markets of the world unless Argentina and Australia are willing to reduce wheat acreages for two years failed tonight to break the deadlock facing the International Wheat Conference.

The Australian delegates remained firm against definite acreage cuts pending stability in price levels and also held out for the right to alter their plantings the second year of the "wheat moratorium" in the event of drought or bad crop conditions.

Argentina's delegates appeared ready to bolt the parley entirely, believing that the prospects of dollar-a-bushel wheat would result despite the surplus.

Forest Corps Called "Wood Ticks."

Helena, Mont., June 27 (A.P.).—Civilian Conservation Corps is much too long a name for Uncle Sam's forestry workers, in the opinion of Helena railroad men, who for the sake of brevity have dubbed the boys the "Wood Ticks."

WHEAT PROCESS TAX IS EFFECTIVE JULY 8

Levy of 30 Cents a Bushel Will Be Used to Pay for Curtailing Acreage.

(Associated Press.)

Upshooting grain prices notwithstanding, a processing tax of 30 cents a bushel on wheat, effective at midnight, July 8, was formally proclaimed yesterday by Dr. R. G. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, after approval by President Roosevelt.

The tax, to be collected from millers and other manufacturers converting wheat into food products for human use, will be in effect for the ensuing marketing year. The rate, however, is subject to changes, which, Secretary Wallace has said, "will be as infrequently as possible."

Import Tax Raised.

In terms of an average one-pound loaf of bread, the tax will amount to .423 of a cent. For all flour except whole wheat and graham, the tax would come to .704 of a cent a pound.

The proclamation will automatically put into effect at the same time compensatory import taxes of 30 cents a bushel on wheat brought into this country, in addition to the present duty of 42 cents a bushel.

The rise in wheat prices during the last week was reported to have been ignored by farm administrators in determining the rate of the tax, which is expected to yield about $150,000,000. This would be used to pay cash benefits to farmers agreeing to curtailment up to 20 per cent of wheat acreage for harvest in 1934 and 1935.

Cotton to Be Taxed.

The wheat processing tax plan was sent by wire to President Roosevelt as he cruised up the New England Coast on his first White House vacation. He signed it Monday and returned it immediately.

A processing tax on cotton is to be ordered into effect about August 1, to defray costs of a production control drive now underway in Southern States. Cotton prices recently have risen rapidly and their increase also may be ignored in determining the tax rate, which, on the basis of early June price relationships, could be at a maximum rate of 4.1 cents per pound.

It is estimated that about 460,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels of wheat is required each year to meet human food needs in this country.

SCULPTOR PLANNING CAREER OF CONCERT

gro preachers, who, in the course of a sermon, will talk in a conversational tone, abruptly turn to chanting, then sing, then pray, then return to casual voice. Rayford reads his poetry in this fashion, except that he does not pray.

He says he is undoubtedly the greatest reciting poet ever known in America, that the reading of poetry is one of the greatest of the fine arts, and that to read it in a conversational tone in the fashion of Edna St. Vincent Millay, Robert Frost, John Masefield and Edwin Markham is absolutely wrong—that they do not understand the real mission of the reading of poetry in America.

His song, called "The Ballad of Shreveport Sarah," is said to have Frankie and Johnny backed off the map. It created a sensation in Chicago.

Rayford unabashedly admits that he will be one of the great poetic forces in America. He has written a poem which appeared in the magazine, Poetry, May, of this year, which he says establishes him immediately as the poet laureate of the thumb tourists of America.

But there are others who do not agree that he is destined to be the great immortal of twentieth century verse. Harriet Monroe, editor of Poetry, told him after publishing his poem that she would never publish him again; that she thinks he was never a poet, is not a poet now and never will be.

But Sterling North, of the Chicago Daily News, is quoted as saying that Rayford's prose poem, "Lucifer," is one of the most magnificently sustained poems in the English language.

Rayford is now thumb touring to New York, where he predicts he is going to sell his novel, "Satin Is a Perfect Gentleman." This novel, he says, is more colossal in religious tone than all of the works of Milton, Dante or Homer. In New York he is going to study sculpture. In fifteen years he says he will be the greatest sculptor in America.

Jews to Enforce German Boycott

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Exhorted by Samuel Untermyer to stop striking back with a "feather duster" and seize up a more effective weapon, representatives of 236 Jewish women's organizations today resolved to enforce a boycott against German goods.

"If only we Jews had in us some of the fighting spirit of the Irish," Untermyer said at the meeting, "no bigoted fanatic nor his deluded followers would have dared visit upon our people this tragedy that has shocked the conscience of the entire civilized world.

"The trouble with us is that our influential, self-appointed leaders, who do not know how to lead, are such confirmed, timid, cowardly pacifists that when our persecuted, defenseless people are knocked over the head with a club, they retaliate with a cry of pain and strike back by shaking a feather duster in the faces of their tormentors."

VALLEY PLANS HOLD WORK FOR MILLION

Lower Fertilizer and Power Prices Also Are Expected, Dr. Morgan Says.

Lowered costs of fertilizer and possibly electric power, the employment of about 1,000,000 men, and a chance for sociological experiment will be among the ultimate benefits of the Tennessee Valley development, Dr. Arthur Morgan, chairman of the valley authority, said yesterday.

Though cutting the cost of fertilizer, its use may be increased, thereby reducing the present surplus, he pointed out. The effect on private power rates of a successful low-cost production at Muscle Shoals is "obvious," he said.

The reduction of the labor supply of the country will result from putting a million men to work in this region. Some of these men will be employed at the Cove Creek Dam on a part-time basis. The rest of the time they will spend in trade schools to be established at the dam. When the construction is finished, they will go back to their neighboring villages and start small industries which will employ other local workers, it is planned.

Members of the Valley Authority stressed the fact that no jobs will be open to outsiders. Only local labor will be employed in the development. Speculative values placed on real estate in the vicinity after the passage of the development bill will not be recognized by the Authority when making purchases, Dr. Morgan warned.

First steps to be taken by the Authority include the building of a road and railroad to the Cove Creek Dam site. Plans for this dam are now being completed by Army engineers. Preliminary surveys for the dam must be made, and State laws governing the construction must be studied. An inventory also is being made of the Muscle Shoals plant so the Authority will know what it is taking over from the Army engineers who built it.

The offices of the Authority will probably be moved to the development itself when administrative difficulties are ironed out. These include the taking over of the fixed nitrogen laboratory, which was merged with another Government unit before the Authority was organized. Other matters to be settled are the relations between the Authority and the various Government agencies with which it will work. Francis J. Carr yesterday was appointed comptroller of the Valley Authority. Mr. Carr is president of the Comptrollers Institute of America.

Wallace Is Silent On Grain Prices

Des Moines, June 27 (A.P.).—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace returned home to ask questions rather than answer them, he indicated today in conferences with farmers and farm groups.

The youthful Secretary, who spent yesterday visiting his mother, Mrs. Henry C. Wallace, and reviewing work on his farm north of Des Moines, was noncommittal about the sharp rise in grain prices.

Mr. Wallace pointed to the discrepancy between prices of hogs and corn as proof of the need for planned production in the future. The price of corn is too high in comparison with hogs selling below $3 a hundredweight, he said.

MRS. PERKINS PLANS JOB HEADQUARTERS

Labor Secretary Plans for Absorption of Workers in Recovery Program.

(Associated Press.)

In a move to extend aid to the various States through the new Federal job-finding machine, Secretary Frances Perkins announced last night the United States employment service would "soon establish several regional clearing houses with field supervision." In an addresss discussing unemployment and general business conditions, the Labor Secretary asserted that "We have the machinery with which to mobilize workers," and that it appeared "very likely" a call would be made upon it soon through the needs of the public works program.

Seeking Construction Work.

"We are looking to construction work of this sort," she said, "and I think you can do likewise, as an immediate aid in the emergency program which is now under way under the supervision of Gen. (Hugh) Johnson.

"This service will organize the labor market of the whole United States," she said, "that people may find opportunities for work when such exists, in the easiest, most effective way. Never has the need for such a system of public employment offices been greater than in the present situation."

State Offices Combine.

Under the new law, Miss Perkins explained, the employment offices of any individual State would no longer be independent, but would operate as part of a network throughout the country. Federal funds to match State funds will be provided, she said, for those States where employment offices comply with the standards prescribed.

Of the general business situation, Miss Perkins said, there were "definite signs of improvement indicating that the turn has come."

"But that might be misleading," she added. "It is true that employment, pay rolls, building, car loadings and certain other operations have increased in the last few months, but you should remember that they are still a long way from what they were in our days of prosperity."

Rent Woe

James Ring Has Trouble Convincing Visitors of His Identity.

James Ring, the newly appointed rent investigator for the Public Utilities Commission, is having a hard time establishing his identity to all the numerous commission visitors.

Crowded into the general offices in the midst of a group of pretty stenographers, Mr. Ring has found to his dismay that the large majority of his callers are taxicab operators bent on taking out new licenses. He learned yesterday that his desk was formerly used by the clerk in charge of these licenses.

To ease Mr. Ring's burden, the commission placed a large pasteboard sign marked "Taxicabs" in another part of the office yesterday. The commission also approved the complaint forms which Mr. Ring has prepared.

Haizlip, company officials said, will compete in the Thompson Trophy race, the climactic event of the races July 4.

The ship is the secretly built racer designed and constructed by Larry Jamieson, Richmond, Va., mail pilot, who crashed to his death in his mail plane 12 hours after putting his racing plane through its test flights.

Family Heads Favored For Public Works Jobs

Heads of families probably will get first chance at jobs on Federal public works, and for this reason it is unlikely that members of the Civilian Conservation Corps will be transferred en masse to these projects, Secretary of Labor Perkins said yesterday.

There is no reason that the corps should not be transferred, she said, and no discrimination will be made against men without families in giving out the public works jobs. It is the general impression, however, that men with families will be given the first jobs. The corps is comprised of men without families of their own, and was formed partially to allow men with families to get jobs without so much competition from unmarried men.

Fog Keeps President in Harbor; Davis on Destroyer Is Nearing Spot.

Lakeman's Bay, Roque Island, Me., June 27 (U.P.).—Still delayed by the cold mists rolling in from the North Atlantic, President Roosevelt tonight remained close to the warm cabin of his schooner Amberjack II to await the arrival of Norman H. Davis, chief of the American delegation to the Geneva Disarmament Conference.

Davis was en route to this isolated cove close to the Bay of Fundy aboard the destroyer Bernadou, which was reported picking her way slowly through the fog. When he arrives he is scheduled to join the President immediately and give him the complete picture of the world disarmament situation. Also on the Bernadou were James Roosevelt, returning from the Massachusetts repeal convention; John Cutter, a member of the Amberjack's crew, and Marvin H. McIntyre, White House secretary, who is replacing Stephen T. Early on the cruise.

The President's two days of enforced idleness because of the inclement weather put a damper on some of his vacation plans, which called for a trip to Nova Scotia as well as to his old summer home at Campobello, New Brunswick. The sail to Nova Scotia now is unlikely, it was said. A visit may be made, however, to Grand Manan Island, in the Bay of Fundy.

Woman Returns Crow That Frightened Her

The huge black "raven," which frightened Mrs. Isabel McNamee into sliding "clear across her back yard" at 35 Longfellow street northwest, was returned to its owner yesterday. However, the "raven" proved to be a tame crow raised by Joseph D. Gleason, 14 Nicholson street northwest. On leaving for a tour of the neighborhood Monday, the pet decided to visit the McNamee home.

Mrs. McNamee was in her back yard doing a bit of gardening. The playful bird skimmed across her back and perched on a nearby fence post. Recovering her composure, Mrs. McNamee made friends with her visitor and instituted a search for its owner.

THE FEDERAL DIARY

By George D. Riley

WHEN you have occasion to enter Veterans' Administration headquarters we suggest you take along your birth certificate and any other papers to aid in proving you have legitimate business in the building.

All of which may sound a bit frivolous until a guard (and there are lots of them at every entrance) stops you and fires a lot of whys and wherefores. "Whom do you wish to see?" And if you resent this question it is followed by "Well, will you tell me what floor you're going on?"

They don't go through that rigmarole even at the Treasury and that is where they keep the money in storage. And even at the National Museum they don't require that you prove you don't have bombs in your handkerchief pocket.

Unofficially, it is explained Veterans' Administration does not want any war veterans ankling through the corridors nursing wild ideas that Uncle Sam still owes them their bonus.

So, if you get stopped, too, you can remember who told you so.

HERE is the third installment of the National Civil Service Reform League's annual report:

"It is manifest that in any program for economy in public administration one vital and fundamental consideration must be the efficiency of the Government's personnel. We believe that through extension of the merit system and through rigid application of that system, with improved methods of administration, the country could save at least $500,000,000 annually—enough to take care of all the relief resulting from disorganization of private employment.

"The growth in the public service has been out of proportion to the real need. With only nine States and the Federal Government operating under civil laws, there have been countless opportunities for the political organizations to create patronage. Pay rolls are padded to take care of political workers at the expense of the public treasury. Thousands of positions are mere sinecures, and have been created and continued primarily to provide a means for political leaders to pay political debts with public funds. The public service is everywhere cluttered with mediocre, incompetent, inexperienced officials and employes. The American taxpayers are giving the political organizations a subsidy of probably $500,000,000 a year to help them maintain their organization machines through official patronage.

"NOT since Grover Cleveland's administration has the merit system had to face such a serious challenge to its existence as it faces now upon the late change of administration. We are witnessing an upheaval, not only in the Federal service, but in most of the States where changes of administration have occurred. The demands of the spoilsmen for turning out incumbents and replacing them with their own political workers, regardless of efficiency, will ultimately lead in the future to greater waste, corruption and extravagance.

"Unless the President sets an example for State executives to follow, and unless under his leadership the merit system is extended and its administration improved, there is little hope for keeping governmental expenditures within reasonable bounds.

"The callousness of Congress to the popular demand for an extension of the competitive system in the public service can be attributed only to the tenacious control by the political organizations who use members of the Congress as instrumentalities for the creation and distribution of party patronage. It is a notorious fact that the Postmaster Generalship is usually filled by the appointment of the political manager of the successful party, and that virtually all of his time is spent in acting as the patronage czar. Indeed, the political organizations in the present Congress have become so concerned over spoils that congressional 'patronage committees' have been appointed.

"The Congress has an opportunity to redeem itself when it reconvenes by placing in the competitive service such positions as collectors, deputy collectors of internal revenue, collectors and deputy collectors of customs as well as thousands of court positions."

FROM Ireland comes a postal "official organ," and a discussion on wage-slashing proposals carried the following excerpts:

"I believe what the deputy said today was just part of the supercilious, superior nonsense that emanates from people who talk about doing things with a high public spirit, but who make sure that they themselves are well fortified with this world's goods behind all their protestations of public spirit.

"If cutting wages could ever have made the world prosperous, the world of the last ten years should have been a very prosperous one, indeed.

"Instead of the government facing up to their responsibility by implementing the Christian social policy we hear spoken of so often outside the House, but which is never implemented in this House, we find the government patching up today a system of society in this country which is neither Christian nor Irish, nor moral."—National Rural Letter Carrier.

Reply to Austin Cunningham, 2057 Park road northwest, former United States Supreme Court page:

Thanks for your communication. This column is intended to be a Federal employes' forum, where views on subjects of current interest are welcomed. You seem to have caught the purpose correctly. Your letter proves, also, that you read the column and this is especially pleasing. Since your position is singly taken, we are unwilling to act as you suggest, lest perhaps we may incur the enmity of the majority, silent group. Letters such as yours, however, are mighty helpful as reflecting a contrary sentiment and assisting an editor to better appraise the public mind. The Federal Diary trusts that as occasion arises hereafter you may write again.

FRIENDS ASK HAWKS HUNT FOR MATTERN

Round-World Flier Believed Alive; Noted Speed Pilot Undecided.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Jimmie Mattern's Chicago backers asked Frank Hawks today to fly to Alaska in search of the round-the-world aviator, but the noted speed pilot reached no immediate decision.

Hawks and officials of the Texas company, for which he is technical adviser, took under advisement the request made by S. J. Sackett, Harry Jamieson, Hayden Mills and Jack Clark, all of Chicago.

"We are confident Mattern has not perished," Sackett told Chicago newspapermen. "He was capable and had a good plane. Most important of all, he was not foolhardy. There might have been a mishap, but we all believe Jimmie would have been able to make a landing under any conditions.

"I believe Hawks is well equipped for such an undertaking. He probably could fly from the United States to Nome, Alaska, thence northwestward over the route Mattern intended taking from Russia to America."

Mattern has been missing since he took off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, two weeks ago.

Meanwhile, plans went forward for an expedition to leave here for Nome within two or three days to take part in the search, which has been led by Naval planes and Coast Guard vessels.

William Alexander, a pilot familiar with the Alaskan region, will use a plane belonging to Hugh Herndon, who flew around the world with Clyde Pangborn. Irving Friedman, of Brooklyn, is financing the trip, it was announced.

Sir William Clark Reappointed.

London, June 27 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today that Sir William Clark's term of office as high commissioner in Canada for the United Kingdom had been extended until September, 1934. Sir William was appointed to the post in 1928.

Leaders Planning Texas Repeal Tilt

Austin, Tex., June 27 (A.P.).—Leaders on both sides of the prohibition question in separate conventions today laid plans for the August 26 election which will determine Texas' attitude on repeal of the eighteenth amendment and legalization of beer.

C. C. McDonald, of Wichita Falls, was elected permanent chairman at the antiprohibition meeting. James E. Ferguson, former governor, withdrew his name when Representative Joseph W. Bailey and others questioned his eligibility because of his impeachment as governor in 1917. Ferguson's stand for repeal has been in direct conflict with that of his wife, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

Under the leadership of Senator Morris Sheppard, coauthor of the eighteenth amendment, the dry forces met harmoniously and elected A. W. Keeling, of Austin, former State attorney general, permanent chairman at the World Economic Conference, advocating new German colonial policy.

NEW PLANES TO CUT TIME TO NEW YORK

Eastern Air Transport Will Put on Fleet Saturday, Saving 35 Minutes.

Air travel time between Washington and New York will be reduced from 130 minutes to 95 minutes Saturday, when Eastern Air Transport begins to fly ten round trips daily, using the new and faster Curtiss Condor transport planes.

Four of the new fleet of Condors ordered by the company are ready for daily use. Cruising speed is 145 miles an hour. Five of the daily trips will be on nonstop express service. Tests have proved that the noise level in the new ship is the same as that in the average Pullman car.

Another additional service inaugurated the same day will be three round trips daily between Philadelphia and Atlantic City, connecting with Transcontinental and Western Air to the West and Eastern Air's service to the South. Three round trips daily between New York and Atlantic City will be inaugurated, instead of one as now scheduled. Condors only will be used on the New York-Atlanta trunk line, increasing available passenger facilities by one-third.

The frequent service between New York and Washington represents the most intensive use of big airliners on a given route anywhere in the world.

Increasing traffic necessitates the additional schedules, according to Thomas B. Doe, president of the line, who revealed that a new "high" in passengers has been recorded in each of the past four months.

United Air Lines Add 3 Chicago-New York Trips

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—Three more round trips daily will be added to the United Air Lines schedule between Chicago and New York Saturday because of increased traffic, the company announced today.

This will bring the scheduled flights to 11 daily in each direction. Officials announced one additional flight from Chicago to the Pacific Coast, speeding up the transcontinental flight. The changes are effective July 1.

Ireland to Pay U. S. Debt.

Dublin, June 27 (A.P.).—A bill authorizing the payment of loans raised in the United States at the rate of $1.25 for every dollar passed the second stage in the Dail Eireann tonight.

Another Tag

If Rover Runs on Streets, You Must Buy New Dog License.

After Friday, Rover will be running on "dead tags."

So says the District license clerk, who announced yesterday that dog licenses issued since July 1, 1932, will expire June 30.

The new tags are being distributed, and whether it be a poodle or great dane, all canine pets must have a license or face impoundment. The poundmaster has been instructed to watch for infractions.

Dogs running at large with tags procured during the past fiscal year will not be impounded until August 1, however. This extension will enable pet owners now out of town to procure the licenses in ample time.

June 1 was the deadline for muzzles. Each pet appearing on the street must comply with regulations for a period of four months.

Detectives Guard Home Of Libby H. Reynolds

Westerly, R. I., June 27 (A.P.).—Chief of Police George H. Champlin said today that two private detectives are on guard at the Watch Hill estate occupied by Libby Holman Reynolds, but that no police guard has been assigned.

The chief denied reports that heavily armed police guard had been placed about Rim Rock, palatial 25-room house overlooking the Atlantic, to which Libby came recently with her infant son.

PUBLICITY RACKET TO BE SIFTED HERE

Police Think U. S. Employe May Have Given Names to "Federal Bureau."

The possibility that there are local confederates in the recently uncovered alleged racket of the "Federal Publicity Bureau" is being investigated, it was announced by police yesterday.

Albert H. Welton, 35, who was arrested in Philadelphia two weeks ago on information forwarded by Washington police, and who was charged here with false pretenses in connection with the publicity bureau, is being held for the grand jury under a bond of $4,500.

Circulars asking for $2 for placing the names of persons who took a Civil Service examination before the appointment clerk of the commission, led to Welton's arrest. Police are attempting to discover how Welton obtained the names of those taking the examinations, and it is thought that some one connected with the Government service may be implicated.

In addition to the charges of false pretense, police will present charges of bad checks before the jury, it was said yesterday by Captain of Detective Bernard W. Thompson. The Postoffice authorities will present charges of using the mails to defraud, it was stated.

Hay Fever

Experts Clear Goldenrod of Blame; Ragweed Is Culprit.

Goldenrod—bedecker of the hedgerow in late summer and autumn—has regained its lost innocence.

Indicted as a starter of sneezes, found guilty by popular opinion as a cause of hay fever, the yellow blossoming plant has been acquitted by the Department of Agriculture.

The goldenrod's pollen, an official bulletin issued yesterday declared, does not float in the air as does that of ragweed on which the blame for 90 per cent of autumnal hay fever in this locale was placed.

Family on Stand In Murder Trial

Cleveland, June 27 (A.P.).—Ray I. Turk, accused of murder in the wake of the fatal Ellington Apartment fire a year ago, brought his wife and two children to the witness stand today as alibi witnesses.

Turk is charged with murder in the perpetration of arson in the fire, which burned 12 persons to death. The State contends he hired a Pittsburgh arson gang to burn the building in which he had a barber supply business.

Mrs. Turk and the two children said Turk came home at 6:30 p. m., remained home all evening and retired about midnight, an hour before the blaze was reported to the fire department.

WELLES NEARS TIME FOR PARLEY IN CUBA

Meetings to Pacify Warring Political Factions May Begin This Week.

Havana, June 27 (A.P.).—The several factions of the opposition to President Machado almost solidly behind him, Sumner Welles, United States Ambassador, today was almost ready to carry his friendly meditation in Cuba's political life into the stage of direct negotiation.

Barring unforseen developements, this week-end, political observers believe, will see the opening of conversations.

Agreement today by the Nationalist Union's directing board and the representatives of Miguel Mariano Gomez, former Havana mayor, left Welles lacking the suport of only two important opposing elements.

They are the Havana University students and former President Mario G. Menocal, exiled in Miami, who has been noncommittal himself, although spokesmen for him have said he will place no obstacles in Welles' path.

The students are not willing to accept definitely until the status of several of their directors, either exiled from Cuba or imprisoned, is cleared up, it was reported reliably.

Filipino Strikers Return to Work.

Honolulu, June 27 (A.P.).—All Filipinos working on sugar plantations were back on the job today, ending the one-day strike of 300 men at Waimanalo yesterday.

Wife Sues to Save Federal Job, Imperiled by Economy

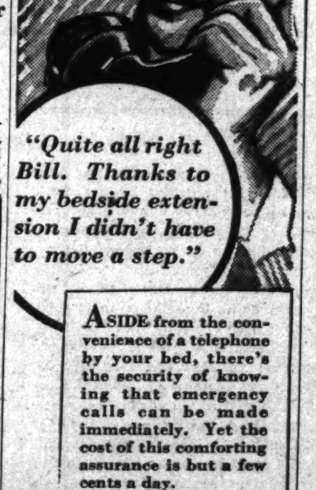
G. P. O. Employe, Whose Husband Is in Naval Air Corps, Seeks to Restrain Dismissal by Carter; Would Retire Next Year.

Threatened with the loss of her job in the Government Printing Office unless her husband, a machinists' mate in the Naval Air Corps, resigns his position, Mrs. Pearl G. Stansbury, 44, of 330 Rhode Island avenue northeast, yesterday sought the aid of the courts.

She petitioned the District Supreme Court to restrain Public Printer George Carter, permanently, from discharging her June 30, the date which has been set for her dismissal. Mrs. Stansbury charged that the Public Printer's action was "capricious, unreasonable, unjust and invalid."

The petition set up the fact that Mrs. Stansbury has been employed as a machine operator at 65 cents an hour. She was hired in August, 1918, and has worked regularly. Unless the courts restrain the Public Printer, she claimed, she will lose her privilege to go on a retirement basis next year.

The case is the first that is scheduled to test the ability of Government chiefs to cut down their staffs, a move made necessar by reduced appropriations.



"I'm sorry to call you so late at night, Harry."

"Quite all right Bill. Thanks to my bedside extension I didn't have to move a step."

ASIDE from the convenience of a telephone by your bed, there's the security of knowing that emergency calls can be made immediately. Yet the cost of this comforting assurance is but a few cents a day.

WORLD WHEAT RESTRICTION.

Three Australian states having peremptorily refused to agree to the proposed world wheat-restriction plan, the London conference of delegates dealing with that subject has adjourned. It is expected that Mr. Bruce, Australia's delegate, will confer with representatives of small wheat-producing states in an effort to bring them into line with the "big four"—Canada, the United States, Argentina and Australia—in which case it is believed that Australia may accept the proposal.

The American delegates are said to have held over the other wheat producing countries the threat of dumping America's surplus upon the world market for whatever it will bring, as a means of holding up wheat prices in this country. A direct intimation that this action might be taken was conveyed by Secretary Wallace recently to western wheat-growers, and his remarks were instantly cabled to London.

Australia is dependent upon wheat exports for the financing of its public debt, and three of its states are unable to convince themselves that restricted exports could be arranged on an effective scale without deranging their finances.

It is also possible that great stretches in Australia, as in the Canadian Northwest, are peculiarly adapted to wheat-growing and can not be economically devoted to other crops or live stock. The special adjustment of a country's economy to its major crop products presents a domestic problem when efforts are made to reshape its economic policy to conform to international agreements. Former Premier Bruce is sincerely endeavoring to bring Australia into the world restriction plan, but it is evident that his country faces serious difficulty in trying to change from its system of uncontrolled production of a single indispensable staple to co-operate in a world system of regulated and restricted production.

A world restriction agreement may be desirable in the interest of all wheat producing countries, but it may be questioned whether the threat to dump America's surplus on the world market will be persuasive. What is the world market? It is made up of countries which possess effective means of preventing dumping of any kind. The United States itself would prevent wheat dumping to the injury of domestic farmers, and it may expect other countries to pursue the same policy. One of the objectives of the London conference is to put a stop to dumping.

It is one thing to decide to dump America's surplus wheat "abroad," for whatever it will bring, and another thing to make the action effective against the wish of countries which are compelled to look after the interests of their own wheat growers.

AGE OF THE EARTH.

An age old question—the age of the earth—has been revived at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in connection with the Century of Progress Exposition. There was no sharp controversy on the subject, although estimates of time since the earth became a separate planet vary from 100,000,000 to 5,000,000,000 years. The scientists sat down and put their calculations together. All of them admit the probable inaccuracy of present estimates and are anxious to work out the most correct measure of the globe's senility that present knowledge permits.

For eight years a detailed study of measuring rods for the earth's antiquity has been in progress. Most of the earlier indicators of the geologic time have been discarded as too inaccurate and contradictory to be relied upon. Thus the rings on trees, the deposits of clay in river beds and the strata of rock exposed by canyon streams permit somewhat accurate calculations of recent geologic periods. But their usefulness is limited. Measurements of the salt content of the ocean have also been used, but this method is based on many assumptions that science can not prove.

More recently attention has been concentrated on uranium as the most consistent clock of time on this sphere. The findings of science indicate that uranium disintegrates at a constant rate regardless of its surroundings. In the end it reduces itself to lead. Science has been trying to determine how many millions of years uranium which has now become lead required to expend all of its energy. When that figure is arrived at, science believes, the approximate age of the earth will be known.

Studies by the National Research Council, however, have developed the fact that at least eight different kinds of uranium are disintegrating at different rates. Which shall be used as the clock of geologic time? Fortunately scientists are able to trace each different kind of lead to the particular kind of uranium by which it is produced. Yet only one kind of lead has figured prominently in the investigations up to date.

Within a few years the research council may be able to make an estimate of the earth's age that will represent the best scientific thought on the subject. But it is always probable that a new group will upset such findings by turning upon the problem floodlights of knowledge that are not now available.

DISTRIBUTING PUBLIC WORKS.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has turned over to the Public Works Administration 96 projects of a self-liquidating character, involving estimated expenditures of $500,000,000. Some of these projects have been carefully examined, and perhaps they will win approval of the administrator of public works, Donald H. Sawyer, who is anxious to speed up operations in order to relieve unemployment. He contemplates an allotment of about $100,000,000 for non-Federal projects which can be undertaken immediately.

The Public Works Administration will appoint State administrators by July 1, who will first pass upon projects that have not already been scrutinized by the R. F. C. Secretary Ickes, chairman of the Cabinet committee dealing with public works, has addressed letters to governors, senators and chambers of commerce, asking them to submit names of suitable administrators, having regard for ability, public standing, and freedom from entangling alliances with concerns that might be interested in public works projects. Secretary Ickes adds in his letters: "Suspicion of any political aspect to his appointment must be avoided in both spirit and letter."

A flood of requests for public works has reached the Washington office, coming from every State. These requests will be sifted out and returned to the respective States for consideration by the State authority before being considered by the public works administration.

Upon the character and firmness of State administrators will largely depend the quality of public works to be undertaken. The Washington authorities may be expected to take into account the tremendous pressure exerted upon each State administrator by the people of his State, both on account of unemployment distress and the eagerness of each State to obtain all possible Federal money for local improvements. A fair distribution of public works funds throughout the States is necessarily the objective of the Public Works Administration.

MASS-PRODUCED HOMES.

A great deal has been written about the theory of mass production applied to housing, but only in recent months have prospective home owners had opportunity to inspect dwellings of this kind and to try living in them. A number of concerns are now offering prefabricated houses in various parts of the country. The dwellings are made in factories in such form that they may be easily assembled anywhere and may later be moved without great difficulty. Prices range from about $3,500 to $7,200, depending upon the size of the house, the fixtures, arrangement of the rooms, &c.

Many advantages are claimed for the new structures. For the most part they are built with steel frames. Some wall panels are of asbestos composition and others are of steel with proper insulation. Roofs are frequently of rolled steel, with aluminum insulation. Houses of this type are virtually fireproof, and some manufacturers guarantee their houses against any invasion by vermin. The plumbing, of course, is modern. Heating for the most part is automatic. Many of these houses are also equipped with humidifiers and with cooling apparatus for summer. Apparently the manufacturers are taking advantage of every modern device that makes homes more comfortable with a view to overcoming the widespread prejudice against uniformity in home construction.

Not much effort has been made as yet to beautify these prefabricated houses. Most of them are flat-roofed, rectangular and smooth-surfaced. They are obviously built for service rather than beauty. Efforts are being made, however, to vary the plans and shapes of these houses to avoid too much monotony. An astonishing number of variations may be worked out with a limited number of panels by changing the position of porches, roof decks and other exterior features. As the business develops more pleasing varieties may be expected to appear.

The prefabricated house has not been in use long enough to justify any conclusion as to the future of this business.

PROFIT IN FREE GOODS.

While the American delegates to the World Economic Conference are discussing plans for reducing tariffs to stimulate foreign trade, observers here see the possibility of a considerable expansion of foreign commerce without the necessity of any tariff changes. The upturn of business in the United States naturally stimulates the importation of commodities which this country needs and does not produce in abundance. In turn the countries furnishing these raw materials are in a position to buy manufactured goods from America.

Most of the raw materials that must be imported for use in American manufacturing plants are on the free list. Of the imports from Central America 98 per cent enter without duty. From South America 87 per cent of the imports are free; from Asia, 80 per cent; from Oceania, 63 per cent, and from Africa, 81 per cent. There are no barriers whatever to larger importation of commodities of this kind as soon as the domestic demand is accelerated.

It is interesting to note in this connection that free imports have fallen off about as much since 1929 as have dutiable imports. A recent study by the Tariff Commission showed that in 1932 the value of dutiable imports amounted to 30.2 per cent of the 1929 figure, compared with 30.9 per cent for free imports. The importation of goods on which no duty is charged has a wide field for expansion, regardless of what steps are taken to restrict or facilitate the flow of dutiable goods.

Those countries which supply the United States with large quantities of raw materials are also good customers for manufactured goods. The American Exporter points out that 71 per cent of our exports to South America are finished manufactures. Sixty-one per cent of our exports to Central America, 81 per cent to Africa, 75 per cent to Oceania, and 68 per cent to India, Malaya, Ceylon and the Dutch East Indies are also finished manufactures. Here is an excellent example of profitable trade that is not seriously impeded by tariff barriers. Many of the commodities which these countries have to export are needed but not produced in volume in the United States, and the finished goods which the United States sends them do not compete with their domestic enterprises. The profits to be derived from commerce of this kind are large compared with anything that might be expected from the highly competitive trade that might result from a lowering of tariffs.

NEW CALVERT STREET BRIDGE.

Budget Director Douglas has before him the recommendations of the District Commissioners for public works to be financed out of the gasoline tax surplus. Mr. Douglas' approval must be obtained before this District revenue can be expended for District highway improvements.

The most important project in the list is construction of a new bridge across Rock Creek at Calvert street. The existing bridge is antiquated and decrepit. Engineer Commissioner Gotwals has testified that the bridge is in a dangerous condition. But even if it were not dangerous, it is now inadequate to the demands of traffic.

Standing as it does not far from the Taft bridge, the Calvert street bridge should be replaced by a modern masonry structure in harmony with the splendid structure that carries Connecticut avenue over the valley. A steel bridge has been suggested, on the ground that it would be cheaper and equally as lasting, but a steel bridge would not be in keeping with the greater neighboring structure. The cost of upkeep is said to be in favor of masonry as against steel.

But whatever the material used, construction of a new bridge should be ordered without delay. Traffic via Calvert street is rapidly increasing, and the old bridge is a traffic danger as well as an eyesore. Washington has outgrown the old bridge, and since local funds are available, a new structure should be authorized.

Homer Cummings is trying to find out how machine guns come out of the nowhere into the here.

Jim Couzens certainly voices world sentiment when he urges debt relief for everybody.

NAVAL BUILDING

From the Hartford Courant.

Announcing the plan to construct some 30 naval vessels with funds set aside for public works, as the law provides, the Secretary of the Navy properly emphasizes the relief that will be given by such construction. According to Mr. Swanson, 85 per cent of the cost of building warships goes for labor, which means that, if $238,000,000 is spent, more than $200,000,000 will go into the pockets of workers in the shipyards, who have for the most part been idle for the last three years. The secretary also points out that naval construction stimulates industry in many lines, not only among the manufacturers of steel, but among the railroads, the lumber yards, the makers of equipment generally.

Few will question that Mr. Swanson has built up an impressive argument for naval construction as a means of relief, but at the same time few will believe that relief is the primary reason for it. The case for naval construction rests on other grounds. At present, as for three years past, the Navy is far below the strength assigned to it by the London Naval Treaty based on the minimum defensive needs of the United States. During the last three years no effort has been made to build up the Navy to its full strength, and since no calamity befell in consequence many may wonder why the effort is made now.

The reason that action is desirable now is that in less than three years the London Naval Treaty expires and with it the present agreement among the naval powers. Were the prospect that the agreement would be continued unchanged, the United States might view the situation with equanimity, but the prospect is otherwise. Already Japan has notified the world that in 1935 it will seek the right to increase its naval strength above the present limitations, and its demand unquestionably will compel the other naval powers, including Great Britain, to ask for increases. Unless the United States is to accept permanent inferiority on the seas, which is not likely, it must be in a position to speak with authority at the conference, and it can not do so unless it has bargaining strength in the form of a fleet measuring up to its pretensions as a naval power.

A fleet approximating its claims, in short, is required if the United States is to exert a ponderable influence in behalf of the present distribution of naval power. Without such a fleet, the United States can have no effective voice in the coming negotiations, in which case it will be obliged to accept a redistribution of naval power unfavorable not only to it, but to the present international order. The building about to begin consequently represents, not merely relief for the unemployed, but insurance against upsetting developments at the naval conference of 1935. But to build navies down, not up, is the goal to work for if nations are to be saved the expense that vast armaments make necessary. If all nations had less pretentious military establishments equality would be as well preserved and peace would be made more rather than less secure.

That wicked smile of the bootlegger is due to his plan to sell the smuggler's code to the outlaws of a hundred industries.

If any one is interested in spoiling good cream and good liquor by mixing them, repeal-booster Farley is predicting eggnog by Christmas.

As the academicians are transmuted into experimental legislation, it is our idea that Barney Baruch's job is to stand at the door of the law factory and start them off in charge of practical administrators.

If Hitler's authority over the Nazis is slipping it is dangerous news. International complications may be forced to restore his prestige.

It's now a pretty criss-cross race to see which will be most effective—Prof. Moley, the nationalist, preaching economic self-sufficiency at London, or Ambassador Davis telling of international necessities on the Amberjack.

The revoltlet of the Luray foresters showed their experience. If they wanted better food they should also have struck for more pay and shorter work hours, and then compromised.

Industry prepares its codes. They will be decoded by Gen. Johnson to be sure they are codes of honor and contain no mystic cabala.

France is helping the conference over London bridge by putting a gold bloc before the wheels.

REMINISCENCE.

They'll be reading later on when these troubled days have gone
What we did and how we managed in our times of stress and doubt,
Men grown old and silver gray will be called upon to say
How we faced our difficulty; how we worked our problems out.

Just the other night I heard one recall what had occurred
Through the progress of his service and the journey of his years,
And he talked of trying days, when the future seemed a maze
Of despair and disappointment and a wilderness of fears.

"Yet to us, somehow," he said, "we still kept our eyes ahead;
Kept our faith in one another and the panic came and went
And we saw our city grow, to the splendors which we know
And we learned through bleak disaster just what courage really meant."

As I listened there I seemed to behold as one who dreamed
The youngest at the table five and twenty years away
Standing head erect and true naming men courageous who Kept their faith and bravely mastered all the problems of today.

You Can't Stop Crooked Gambling by Changing the Spots on the Dice.

By Robert Quillen

IN the simple social system of old Japan, the highest class was composed of farmers—those who collaborated with nature to produce the necessities of life.

Next in rank were the artisans who produced useful or beautiful articles and sold them to get their reward.

And at the bottom were the traders—men who reaped where they did not sow—leeches who contributed nothing to society, but increased the cost of living by purchasing the product of one man's labor and selling it to another at a higher price.

In our complicated civilization the situation is reversed. The highest caste is composed of traders. But it isn't their calling that gives them superior rank.

An American's class is determined by the money he has, and his choice of callings determines in large measure whether he shall be rich or poor.

That is the flaw in our social system. That is the basic cause of our economic woes and social injustices. And no law or tax or dole or any other measure can mend matters until the cause is removed. You can't make a faulty machine work by adding brass trimmings.

That our system is basically wrong and absurd would be obvious to a student from another world. There is no justice in a scheme of things that gives the smallest rewards to those whose service is greatest—that enriches the useless and impoverishes farmers, teachers, physicians and scientists.

Mankind must learn that the laborer is worthy of his hire—that men equally useful to society deserve equal reward.

This is not an argument for communism. To give equal reward for unequal service would be no less absurd than our present system.

And it isn't an argument that a shiftless and ignorant farmer who works three months in a year should be paid as much as a highly-trained specialist who directs a railroad.

But each necessary calling should afford equal opportunity, so that men of equal intelligence and equal industry could count on equal reward—as physicians, bankers, farmers or railroaders.

Our present system isn't based on fairness or sanity. It is a product of favoritism and exploitation. And if one class can be enriched by means of a tariff law, other classes can be raised in the social scale by means of other laws.

Present efforts to cure our economic ills treat the symptoms instead of the disease.

To establish economic equality would require complete reorganization, and that would require vision and courage. But Panama canals aren't built by timid men who think in terms of spades.

POLITICAL COMMENT

France Is Shocked.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Roosevelt administration's firm stand that the debtor nations must pay before they can discuss a new war debt settlement has shocked France, according to a Paris dispatch. It is in the nature of an ultimatum. It upsets all the calculations of the French government. It produces an impasse between the two countries.

Particularly is this the case regarding the payment due December 15. When the Chamber of Deputies overthrew the Herriot ministry because it championed the acknowledgment of this obligation the French argument for default was a complicated bit of reasoning. According to this, the Hoover moratorium linked reparations and war debts and it precipitated the Lausanne conference and the virtual abandonment of German reparations. With reparations wiped out, the source of debt payment was consequently wiped out. The interdependence of reparations and war debts is tenaciously held to. Now with the payment of the December 15 installment France would admit that reparations and war debts are separate.

Menace of Spoils.

Baltimore Sun.

What the public seems to fear is that, unable to satisfy the demands for patronage in the regular departments of the Government, owing to civil service restrictions, and the economy program, which has reduced the number of available positions, the administration may yield to political clamor and give over to the spoilsmen the operation of the new bureaus that have been created, in which there is a great opportunity for dispensation of favors. It would be difficult, indeed, to overstate the menace to the Nation of such a surrender to jobmongers.

What Price Gold?

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In the opening days of the economic conference currency stabilization overshadowed everything else, and rumors of impending stabilization pacts resulted in sharp fluctuations in exchange rates and American security prices. Although there is little dissent from the proposition that the currencies of the world should be stabilized in terms of gold, the question as to the rate of stabilization, the time of stabilization and the understandings necessary to insure the permanence of a new international gold standard, present problems of a complex nature.

An attempt to stabilize the dollar at the old rate of 23.22 grains of gold would, unless there were a strong upward movement of prices in terms of gold, necessitate a reversal of the price trends of the past three months in the United States; an attempt to stabilize the pound at its old parity would involve a similar deflation. On the other hand, stabilization of the dollar and pound at a gold value lower than prevails today would undoubtedly increase prices in the United States and England.

Child Labor.

Los Angeles Times.

The country seems slow about adopting the child labor amendment. On the Pacific Coast, all three States—California, Oregon and Washington—have approved. The mountain States—Arizona, Colorado and Montana—have also acted favorably. North Dakota, Wisconsin, Arkansas and Ohio are the only others that seem interested. Evidently the other States want their children to support them.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. Phillips

THE EGO-NOMIC PARLEY.

It looks as if the Ego-nomic Conference will end in a tie. No hits, no runs, all errors.

• • • •

So far the boys have agreed on nothing except that the No Smoking signs should be ignored and that there should always be enough negative votes on hand to defeat any progressive action.

• • • •

Only a few delegates seem to know what it is all about, and are already expressing indignation because the program does not include a ball game between the married and single men.

• • • •

They hardly expected an economic conference during the height of the summer picnic season.

• • • •

President Roosevelt was at sea when the conference began, and the world will be at sea before it is ended.

• • • •

But it hasn't been a complete failure. It served the purpose of checking up on the nations of the earth still able to get out of a sickbed and attend a smoker. And it gave the world an international supply of newsreel pictures of the planet's most important double chins.

• • • •

Nothing has helped public confidence more than the realization that there were 66 nations that could pay a hotel bill.

• • • •

One of the main purposes is to stabilize money, and everybody is willing to stabilize the other fellow's. The tariff is brought up every little while, but the boys run out to a movie whenever this is discussed. So far the Ego-nomic Conference has agreed on only the following proposals:

1. Lighter Sunday newspapers.
2. The 8-inch golf cup.
3. Restoration of the lively ball in baseball.
4. Standardization of the types of metal caps on whisky bottles.
5. Rigid refusal to import any American beer at its present strength.

• • • •

The conference has been continually slowed up by the fact that America kept sending over new kibitzers.

• • • •

The official score card furnished by America to the other nations had to be discarded the first week because of so many changes in the line-up.

• • • •

Roosevelt has sent more new men into the huddle than Mal Stevens used in the last year's Harvard football game.

• • • •

Everybody of any importance has been let play on America's side for a few minutes, except Ma Ferguson and Jafsie.

• • • •

It begins to look as if the Democrats were sending all deserving Democrats to London instead of distributing all those postoffice jobs.

NOT IN THEIR LINE.

"Amberjack II Has Engine Trouble."—Headline. And we'd like to see those professors get the President out of that kind of fix.

The rotogravure pictures of the crowds aboard the Amberjack II indicate that the President would have had just as much fun riding in the subway.

SOUNDS ALL RIGHT.

Representative Snell says the Democrats are on the greatest of all "spending sprees." Well, it's the land of the spree and the home of the brave, isn't it?

VELOCIPEDE HAS COME TO STAY.

"We had a lot of fun last night riding brand-new bicycles rented from the Bicycle Club, Columbus Circle."—New York Herald Tribune personal column.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Petworth Citizens Urge Sewer Project Be Included in Public Works Program.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I want to thank you for the editorial in The Post of recent date entitled "Local Flood Conditions," and for the fact that you gave notice to my letter of June 8 advising you of the flood on June 7 and previous ones for the past six years.

It is also gratifying to learn that you gave space in this morning's paper to the storm of yesterday. Cellars were flooded as usual and once more it proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that the sewers are not large enough to handle the situation at Fifth and Ingraham streets. I understand that the Engineer Commissioner has plans on his desk to rectify this flooding and that it will cost $500,000. This project should be incorporated in the public works program.

So much protest was registered yesterday that the sanitary section of the Sewer Department promptly arrived on the scene and did more than it has ever done in the past in erasing the damage for the passerby, yet the unhealthful atmosphere of the overflowed sewers is still a menace to the community's health and happiness.

The flood of last September caused damage to 400 homes in Petworth and shows conclusively that the money which would be expended on this project would more than justify itself.

Thank you again on behalf of the residents in our community for your help in this deplorable situation.

PARLEY SURPRISED AT TARIFF SCHISM

Delegates in London Unused to Discussion of Internal Affairs at Sessions.

London, June 27 (A.P.).—A contrast between the Republican and Democratic positions on tariffs was drawn today by Representative Sam D. McReynolds, of Tennessee, in a speech before the commercial policy committee of the World Economic Conference.

Introduction of this topic caused a lifting of eyebrows by members of other delegations who are unaccustomed to discussion of internal affairs in an international forum.

Attaches of the League of Nations secretariat, which forms the staff for the conference, remarked that nothing of the sort had ever happened to their knowledge in 14 years of international conferences.

Colleagues Surprised.

The same belief was held by colleagues of the Democratic representative from Tennessee, although they were careful not to comment publicly.

The McReynolds speech was made in private sessions and afterward made public at American headquarters. It contained a statement that:

"The tariff act of 1930 was bitterly opposed by the rank and file of Democrats, but the Republicans were in power at that time and passed that bill."

The speech also said that an "important contributing factor" in the election of President Roosevelt "was considered to be the high protective tariff."

The chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee went on to say that any tariff agreements reached here which President Roosevelt approved "will be ratified by Congress," as, he said, "our Congress is entirely behind our President."

Recovery Aid Suggested.

The address included a statement that reduction of tariffs and removal of quotas would help recovery and an assertion that temporary currency stabilization by only three or four countries would be "like chaff before the wind."

Mr. McReynolds stoutly backed his fellow Tennessean, Secretary of State Hull, who is fighting for tariff reforms while some of his colleagues have chosen monetary and other questions for the greatest emphasis before the conference.

Raymond Moley, Assistant Secretary of State, who will arrive tonight with the latest news from Washington and President Roosevelt, has said there is little hope for tariff reduction now, although this is desirable, and has stressed other objectives.

Representative Stephen W. Gambrill will preside over the meeting. The approximate amount of Maryland's share of this fund has not been announced.

After a wedding journey to the continent, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will go to the United States.

MAUROIS DESCRIBES WOMEN AS REALISTS

Surpass Men in Politics In This Respect, Author Declares Here.

Women in politics become more of realists than men in the same position, Andre Maurois, famous French author, journalist and biographer who is in America for a few weeks, told the members of the Women's National Press Club at a luncheon in the new Willard Hotel yesterday where he was the guest of honor.

"In this field," the distinguished visitor continued, "women are far less abstract than are the members of the opposite sex. They go at things in a simpler, clearer way and I look for them to achieve greatly in this direction."

M. Maurois, who came to the United States to accept an honorary degree from Princeton University and to bring to his publishers the manuscript of his new book "Edward the Seventh and His Times," declared that he was proud of his newspaper work and considers the man who writes the headlines is the man who runs the world nowadays.

In introducing M. Maurois, Mrs. Genevieve Herrick, president of the club, described him as the "perfect reporter" and an interpreter of the English and French worlds to each other.

M. Maurois indicated that his problem for the moment was to find the French equivalent for the words "New Deal." He has heard the phrase "Pork Barrel" rather frequently during his stay in Washington and would like to translate that also into his native tongue.

Budget Endangers Schools in Virginia

Richmond, Va., June 27 (A.P.).—Dr. Sidney B. Hall, State superintendent of public education, today predicted the virtual collapse of public school education in Virginia under Gov. Pollard's recent order reducing all general fund appropriations 30 per cent.

"If the 30 per cent reduction is applied to the appropriations of the State department of education," he said, "the public schools of Virginia will doubtless have to close about the month of February and public school education, as administered by the State board of education, will be practically wiped out."

He indicated that the State board of education would address a protest to Gov. Pollard, and said that in his opinion the reductions provided for under section 30 of the appropriations act are "permissive rather than mandatory."

BEER POSSESSORS ACQUITTED BY JURY

Alexandria Dealers Cheered as Decision Presages 3.2 Approval.

The three Alexandria merchants, fined in police court on charges of having in their possession beer containing more than one-half of 1 per cent, and who appealed to the corporation court, were found not guilty yesterday. Unusual interest in the case was manifested by a large audience due to the recent petitions submitted to the city council asking that the local dry ordinance be amended to permit the sale of 3.2 beer. Merchants had been claiming that business has suffered because beer can be purchased legally in Washington and not in Alexandria.

There was a general outburst of applause in the courtroom when the verdicts were announced, but Judge William P. Woolls, presiding, promptly rapped for order and informed the audience that similar outbreaks would result in clearing the courtroom.

The first case heard was that of Tony Harris, charged with possession of 38 bottles of beer. The jury consumed eight minutes in deliberation.

James M. Cunningham was foreman and his associates on the jury were D. L. Rubin, W. J. Werner, Charles M. Stump and Jacob Siegel.

CUMMINGS DEALS DECISIVE BLOW TO MARRIED WORKERS

be dropped, if jobs have not been found for them in the interim, Secretary George B. McGinty announced yesterday.

Director of Prohibition A. V. Dalrymple yesterday ordered dismissal or furlough of more than 1,300 administrators, attorneys, investigators, special agents, secretaries, stenographers, typists and clerks, to save $4,000,000. These included 42 in the District.

Director L. J. Briggs of the Bureau of Standards ordered dismissal of 50 clerks and indefinite furloughing of about 330 others. He admitted the furloughs may run as high as a year.

Bureau of Mines Transfer.

War Department officials announced there will be no dismissals from their Washington departmental force with the possible exception of temporary workers. A furlough program is being studied.

Interior Department officials announced they would hold dismissals to a minimum by use of every other known method of easing job pressure. Secretary Ickes also announced that the Bureau of Mines will be transferred at once from the Commerce to the Interior Department.

Representative Ernest W. Gibson (Republican), Vermont, bitterly attacked so-called Democratic "raiding" of the Civil Service, under an extension of remarks appearing yesterday in the Congressional Record. He said competent Government employes furloughed or dropped from old established agencies should be given positions in the new emergency agencies. He charged thousands of persons will be appointed as "the spoils of Democratic victory."

"Col. Spalding's Employes."

Although no official comment was forthcoming on the release of 50 workers with Civil Service status from public works administration, it was said in one authoritative quarter that they were "Col. Spalding's employes."

Col. George A. Spalding reputedly was selected by National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson as public works administrator.

He took up offices next to Gen. Johnson in the Commerce Building. Then the appointment of Col. Donald H. Sawyer as public works administrator, unexpectedly was announced.

Navy Machinists Elated At Escaping Short Week

Gratification at Navy Department suspension of the order placing Navy field workers on a five-day week with a full day's pay reduction was expressed yesterday by N. P. Alifas, president of the International Association of Machinists.

Working with John P. Frey, secretary of the metal trades union; Charles L. Rosemund, representing the draftsmen's union, and James McDonagh, the electrical workers, Mr. Alifas was instrumental in obtaining cancellation of the order.

He pointed out his organization will welcome the five-day week, when the cost is not saddled upon the worker. The group held numerous conferences with Navy officials and the Secretary to the President, leading up to suspension of the order, Mr. Alifas said.

House Group Hits Extra Work of U. S. Employes

(Associated Press.)

Contending that some Government workers were absorbing more than their share of employment, a special congressional committee of the House yesterday agreed unanimously to ask the Civil Service Commission for an order causing all civil service employes "to refrain from engaging in other occupations."

Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, chairman of the committee, said Government employes "should be willing to allow the unemployed a free hand in seeking available positions without this kind of unfair competition."

He said rural carriers were not allowed to engage in other businesses and that "this is a precedent sufficient to warrant an order which will help take care of many who are unemployed."

SEE THE Gas REFRIGERATOR BEFORE YOU BUY

"We bought a New AIR-COOLED Gas REFRIGERATOR and we're simply delighted with it!"

Five Years Free Service

Electrolux has no "price leaders." Every refrigerator is built to the same high standard of quality, thoroughly backed by its maker. There is hardly any need for service on Electrolux, even for minor adjustments, but if you do need service—and it's a long "if"—your Gas Company is willing to render the labor free. This service is guaranteed for at least five years.

A small down payment will install your Electrolux and you have 30 months to pay the balance, on your gas bill. Drop in and see the new air-cooled Electrolux. Or let us send you complete details by mail.

"This will be easy with your Electrolux"

Strawberry Ice Cream

1 cup condensed milk ½ cup water
1½ cups strawberries 1 cup cream

Mix milk with water thoroughly. Crush strawberries well and add to other mixture. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Turn into refrigerator freezing trays and freeze 3 to 4 hours. Fills 2 pint trays. Preparation time, 8 minutes.

VARIATIONS: Raspberries, cut peaches, or bananas with 1 tablespoon of lemon juice may replace the strawberries.

"We had just about decided to give up our idea of buying an automatic refrigerator—until we got our breath after seeing so many . . .

"But we saw one more—the new air-cooled Electrolux. The others all seemed so much alike, except for incidental features. It was hard to decide. But I'm glad we saw the gas refrigerator—it's so entirely different! Why, when the man at the Gas Company told me that it had no machinery, it seemed incredible. Of course, I'm no judge of machinery, and there may be no comparison, but if all machinery costs as much for upkeep and repairs as our automobile, it seems to me that we'll save an awful lot on our refrigerator.

"It's so simple! I don't see how it will ever wear out. And you'd be surprised how little it costs to operate . . . less, they say, than other automatic refrigerators, because the only thing that costs is the small gas flame that operates it."

Users everywhere heartily recommend Electrolux, the gas refrigerator. Its lack of machinery means perfect silence. Simplicity of operation assures long and dependable service.

ARMY WAR COLLEGE GRADUATION IS HELD

Woodring Points to Need of Military Strength for Prevention of War.

"Our military strength should be used to prevent war," the Assistant Secretary of War, Harry H. Woodring, said yesterday at the graduation exercises of the Army War College.

"The most successful army is one that is never required to fire a shot. But when our national honor and our heritage of free institutions are at stake, then the Army must be used swiftly and with its greatest might," Mr. Woodring added.

Pointing out the value of the Army schools system, the assistant secretary said, "It is a significant fact that so many of the officers who made such outstanding success during the war were graduates of Leavenworth and the Army War College. We have but to look over the men that Gen. Pershing gathered around him, Harbord, Dickman, Nolan, Fox Conner, W. D. Connor and others.

"The Army has many opportunities never before presented to show that it is a priceless possession of Government and adaptable to the requirements of any emergency," Mr. Woodring said, referring especially to the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Seventy-seven officers of the Army were graduated from the War College at the exercises. In addition diplomas were granted to six Naval officers and four Marine Corps officers.

Report of Spanish Aviators Crash False, Mexico Admits

Man Who Spread Stories of Discovery of Bodies in Tabasco Is Arrested When He Fails to Substantiate Information.

Mexico, D. F., June 27 (A.P.).—The city was thrown into confusion tonight with a report that an official government announcement last night confirming the finding of the bodies of Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, Spanish transatlantic fliers, in the wreckage of their plane in the State of Tabasco, was incorrect.

The report came from Minatitlan, Vera Cruz, where Julio Alvarez del Vayo, Spanish Ambassador, after interviewing Manuel Balcazar, who reputedly found the bodies in the wrecked plane, notified his embassy that Balcazar could not substantiate his story.

Acording to this report, Balcazar denied saying that he had located the plane, or indeed, had even heard an airplane near the Machona lagoon in Tabasco. He declared he was merely repeating reports he had heard. He was arrested and taken to Minatitlan to face a charge of giving false information.

Barberan and Collar have been missing a week. They took off last Tuesday to fly here from Havana, Cuba, after crossing the Atlantic Ocean nonstop from Seville, Spain, to Camaguey, Cuba.

The Mexican government did not comment except to say that Balcazar's story was reported to be untrue.

Meanwhile, an official party of approximately 100 government officials and Spaniards who set out from Puerto, Mexico, aboard the tugboat Coloso to return the bodies were en route back to that port. Officials did not wait for Balcazar to return by the boat, but took him from the craft at Santa Anna, placed him in an airplane and took him to Minatitlan, where he was jailed.

Del Vayo remained tonight in Vera Cruz, where he halted his return trip here by plane.

GENEVA BODY ASKS RECESS UNTIL FALL

Geneva, June 27 (A.P.).—Adjournment of the World Disarmament Conference until October 16, with private conversations among powers continuing in the meantime, was recommended today by the steering committee.

The conference will meet Thursday to confirm this decision.

That disarmament received a death blow was the comment of spokesmen of some smaller nations on the agreement and there is a possibility that they will raise objections Thursday. The conference originally planned to resume its work next week.

The attitude of Great Britain and France is that it is useless to continue until major problems are settled in private conversations. These are to be carried on with the governments by Chairman Arthur Henderson, the former British foreign secretary.

Germany amazed many by refraining from an expected vehement protest. Her spokesman, Rudolf Nadolny, had opposed postponement from the start, but accepted on formal assurance by Chairman Henderson "that private political conversations would be held with France, Great Britain and the United States."

The chairman read an imposing list of questions at the meeting on which there was no agreement. The Americans received no instructions from Washington and therefore were silent.

Delegates representing the big powers pointed out that Mussolini's four-power pact provides for consultation among Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy providing the conference does not achieve results. Therefore, they said, disarmament is not a lost cause.

"Planet-Gazing" Loan Is Granted by R. F. C.

The most unusual self-liquidating loan brought before the Reconstruction Finance Corporation since its organization more than a year ago was approved yesterday when the corporation agreed to buy not more than $650,000 worth of bonds for the construction of a planetarium in New York City.

The planetarium, to show graphically the movement and location of the stars, will be built by the American Museum of Natural History Planetarium Authority. It will be financed by a small admission fee. The construction will provide work for 850 men for 15 months.

GRANGE CHIEF SEES BETTER FARM DAYS

Brighter days are ahead for the farmer as a result of farm relief legislation passed under the new administration, Louis J. Taber, master of National Grange, told delegates at the sixth Young Friends Eastern Conference, at Howard University, last night.

Mr. Taber, a Quaker, pointed out the necessity for cooperation among farmers in order to make domestic allotment work satisfactory.

The conference is holding meetings at the university daily until Sunday. Clarence Pickett, secretary American Friends service committee, will speak this morning on "The New Social Order." Tonight Ella Gardner, Children's Bureau recreation specialist, will address the conference on "Ideal Uses for New Leisure Time."

Mrs. Mannes Sues for Divorce.

Reno, Nev., June 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Edith V. M. Mannes, New York social registerite, filed suit for divorce today against Leopold Damrosch Mannes, 118 East Eighty-first street, New York, charging cruelty. They married May 13, 1926, and have no children. The court is asked to approve a property settlement.

Music Halts

"The Halls of Montezuma" Is Henceforth Denied to Police Cars.

No longer will "The Halls of Montezuma" come crashing through the receiving sets on the police radio patrol cars.

Musical scores were accompanying every police radio broadcast and the technicians started to wonder where the music originated.

They discovered that the highly sensitized microphone in the broadcasting booth at police headquarters was picking up the practice sessions of the Marine Reserve Band.

So now the broadcasting booth will be placed in the Tenth Precinct, where the transmitter is located.

Pilot Giving Lesson Dies in Plane Crash

Faribault, Minn., June 27 (A.P.).—One man was killed and another injured slightly today as an airplane crashed near here. Charles Gilmer, 24, the pilot, who friends said came here a year ago from South Carolina, was killed.

Dale Anderson, taking a flying lesson, suffered bruises and a broken arm.

France Retains Quota System

Paris, June 27 (A.P.).—The government of Premier Daladier has no intention of abandoning the quota system which has produced numerous complaints by American business interests, Louis Serre, minister of commerce, indicated today before the tariff committee of the Chamber of Deputies.

(The quota system is one of the objects of a resolution presented at the World Economic Conference by the American delegation calling for elimination of import discriminations.)

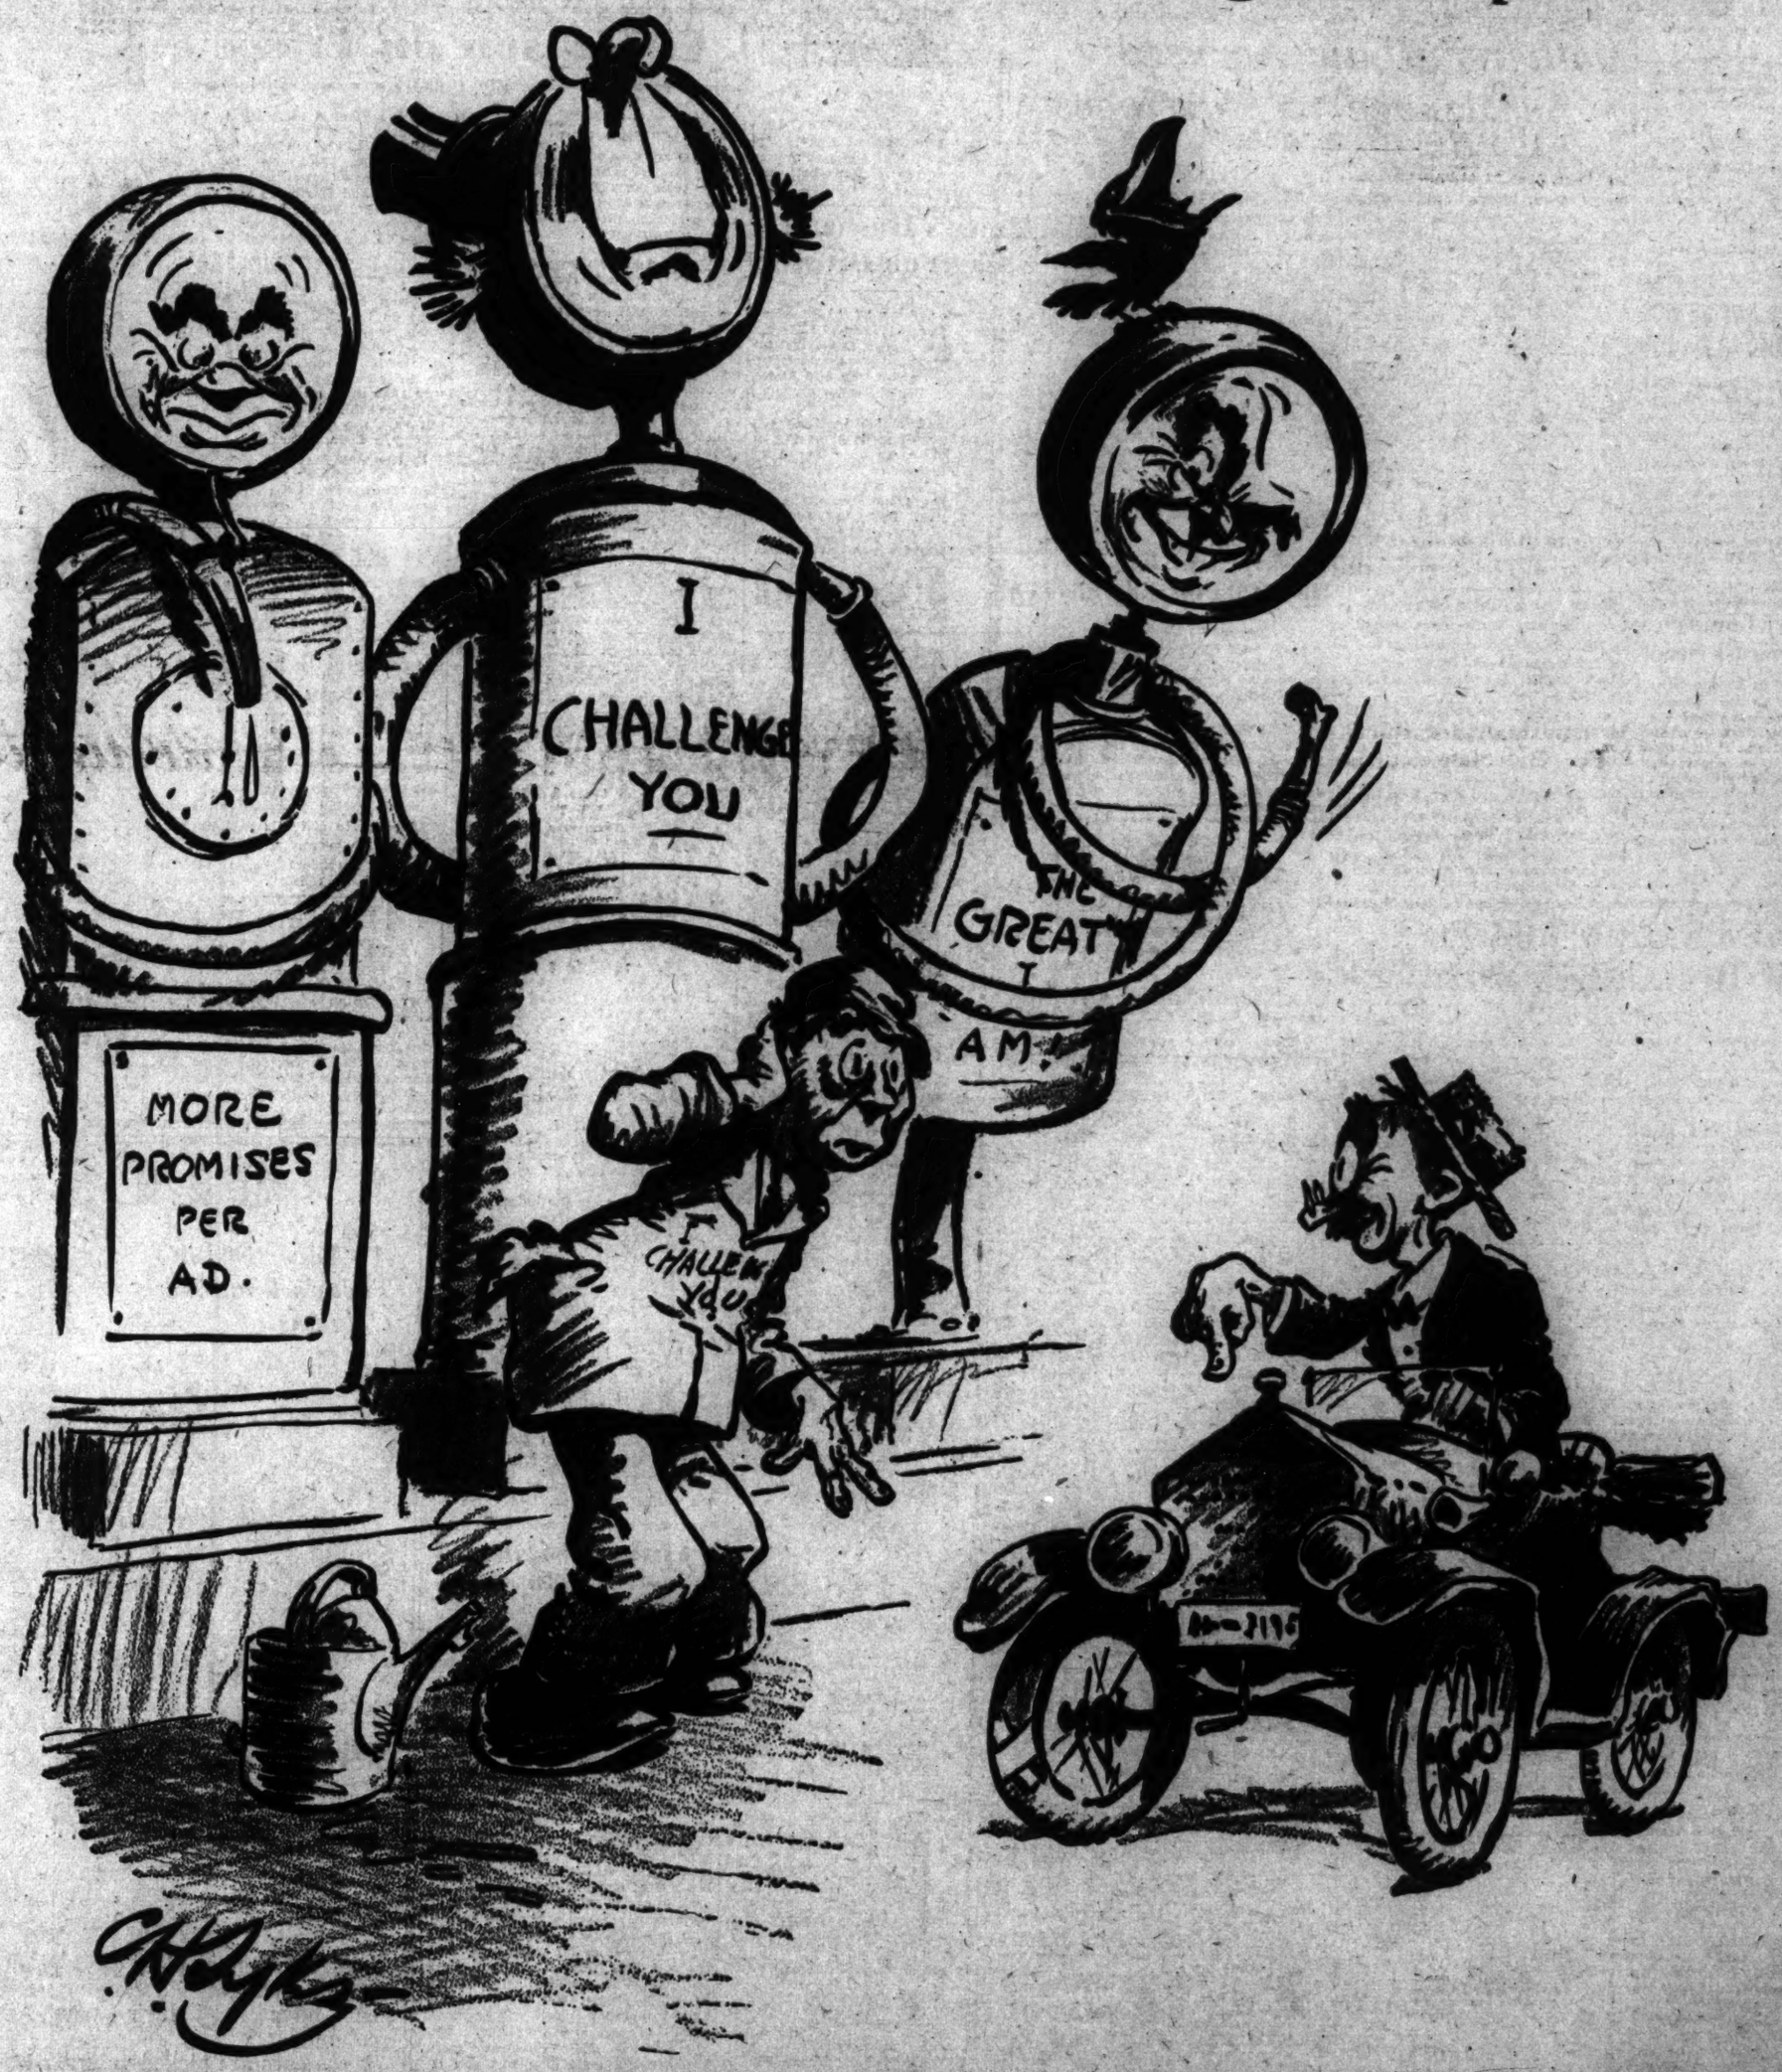
The French government, M. Serre said, does not plan to replace existing quotas except for a small number of products on which temporary surtaxes will be imposed.

Slaying of 3 Filipinos By Sentry Starts Inquiry

Manila, June 27 (A.P.).—Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy today ordered an inquiry into the slaying of three Filipino prisoners by an American sentry on Corregidor Island.

The shooting was last week, but had been kept secret until today by Army and insular authorities. The unnamed sentry was reported to have shot the three as they tried to escape. Army officers announced court-martial charges have been preferred against the sentry.

"Will my motor thrill to new heights of power?"



The little man is developing a sense of humor. He has been reading the gasoline ads. He has been smiling at all the challenges, counter-challenges, guarantees, and what have you. . . . . The little man even memorized one glowing promise which stopped him. It read: "Your motor will thrill to new heights of power." The little man didn't know the gas but he did know his motor. So he is giving the station attendant a bad moment by using the oil company's own words on him. . . . . When the little man has had his fun, he will drive on to the pumps of honest values--honestly described. Amoco-Gas--the original special motor fuel which sells at a premium because it is worth it. John Grey Dead at 60; Made Millions Laugh

Hollywood, Calif., June 27 (A.P.).—A writer of gags which made millions laugh at the pictures of Harold Lloyd died today after a lingering illness. He was John Grey, 60.

Grey was born in California, but his parents moved to new York when he was 4. He was admitted to the New York bar, but after several years as a lawyer gave it up and became a dramatic actor and later a writer.

Mothers-in-Law Accused As 'Menace to Marriages

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—Mothers-in-law were indicted as frequent menaces to matrimonial happiness before the American Association for the Advancement of Science today.

The course of true love apparently runs more smoothly without them, Dr. Leonard S. Cottrell, jr., of the University of Chicago, told a group of sociologists.

With Prof. E. W. Burgess, also of the University of Chicago, Dr. Cottrell has analyzed the cultural backgrounds and personalities of 526 married couples and compared them with the degree of happiness they have attained, as rated by themselves and acquaintances.

From the indices applied to the 526 couples, Dr. Cottrell drew these conclusions, among others:

If their parents are dead, the married couple has a better chance of living the good, harmonious life. If the bridegroom's mother is dead, the odds are overwhelmingly in favor of it; if the bride's father is not living, chances are still good.

Father, not mother, knows best, in predicting the success of his child's wedded life. If he sanctions the proposed marriage, it is more likely to be a happy one; if he frowns on it, the union may be a "flop."

Husbands and wives who love their parents, Dr. Cottrell said, are more apt to love each other. Those from homes where discord is the key-note have more difficulty in becoming adjusted.

"Marry in haste—repent with alimony," Dr. Cottrell said. His findings supported the theory that long acquaintances, long courtship and long engagements were conducive to happy marriages.

INFLUENCE IS TOLD IN POWER CHARTERS

J. Henry Roraback Testifies That G. O. P. Position Gave Him Voice.

(Associated Press.)

J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the Connecticut Republican State central committee, and power company executive, testified at a Federal Trade Commission hearing yesterday that his political position "gave some political influence" when he sought charters for his companies from the Connecticut State Legislature.

Roraback, president of the Connecticut Light & Power Co., and subsidiary companies controlling, he said, more than half the power of the State, was called to the stand in the commission's investigation of subsidiaries of the United Gas Improvement Co.

Robert E. Healy, commission counsel, questioned Roraback at length regarding his political affiliations and also on power company legislation in the State. The witness was asked, too, about his stock purchases in other power companies and circumstances surrounding the rejection of the nomination of Prof. Richard J. Smith as a member of the Connecticut public utilities commission in 1931.

"Aren't you one of those to whom Morgan & Co. sold stock in the United Corporation at a low price?" Healy asked.

"Yes," Roraback replied, "and I would like to get back what I paid for it."

"When you bought the stock did you not know the United Corporation was deeply interested in the United Gas Improvement Co?"

Roraback replied he was not aware at the time of the relations between the two companies.

Aimee's Husband Silent on Divorce

Los Angeles, June 27 (A.P.).—Returning to Angelus Temple after an absence of several days, David Hutton was noncommital today concerning divorce rumors about him and Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist, now in Paris.

"I've learned a lot in the past couple of weeks and as a result I'm not going to either deny or affirm anything," Hutton said.

"Probably, if I got a divorce, I wouldn't go as far as Nevada. I might stay right here. But mind, you, I'm not talking about anything."

THE MEANDERER

Writes of Extra Frills and Furbelows Making for Smartness.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

A "pussy cat bow" may be just what the shopper needs to give her an airy independence toward Washington's midsummer days. "Pussy cat bows" are nearly always of plaid ribbon in dark colors, tied in huge loops placed somewhere on the front of a dress, coat or suit.

Then, again, a purple linen hat, purple linen gloves and ditto pocketbook complementing a white linen sports frock may give that insouciance so valuable on a sultry day. The Meanderer saw a shopper so armored against hot weather and will run down the source of the armor of purple, or exhaust herself in the effort to do so. More anon on matching hats, gloves and bags of linen.

"Angel skin" ribbon isn't new. The Meanderer has written about it before. But its name has such a soft, delightful, soothing sound, and some of the colors of angel skin ribbon just arrived are worth writing about. Just now sashes of 7-inch angel skin ribbon—worth the 50 cents a yard it costs, the shopper is pretty sure when the saleswoman measures off the rich folds, are matching up or contrasting with sheer frocks. The peach color, the orchid and a turquoise blue are well-nigh irresistible, Meanderings readers.

Upstanding ruchings of net, organdy or musseline de soie are something else again to help one maintain crispness regardless of temperature. Attach such arrogant trimmings to your frocks and Queen Elizabeth could scarcely outdo you in decorative effect were she to appear on the 1933 fashion scene. The cost of such frippery begins at $1 a yard and seldom extends above $1.75. A yard will do for almost any kind of neck arrangement—at least from the dressmaker's standpoint.

Wide net frillings appear on handkerchiefs to an extravagant degree. Linen centers of such handkerchiefs are their smaller part. The surprise of such fluffy bits is their low price of 25 cents. The rainbow selection of colors of such handkerchiefs is temptingly lovely.

Crisp daintiness is best achieved by sheer embroidered Swiss touches, many women maintain. Fluted embroidered Swiss by the yard, in three or four inch widths, is in flat or circular effects and may well be calculated upon to revive a frock regarded as hopeless.

Tops for bathing suits for women this year are often of exotic printed beach kerchiefs. The very large square handkerchiefs are folded diagonally and tied about the neck and waist.

SACRIFICE BIDDING.

"To sacrifice or not to sacrifice"—that is the question which confronts Bridge players at almost every session of play. Whether it is better to permit opponents to march unimpeded to game or to overbid and accept a penalty, "Ah, there's the rub!" as Mr. Shakespeare's well-known character remarked upon what was to him an even graver occasion.

Sacrifice bidding done with art is one of the finest points in all the game of Contract. I frequently stress the point that overbidding pays in Bridge. When you are sure the opponents have a game, you suffer virtually no loss by taking a set of 3 tricks to prevent it. It is true the penalty, if doubled, exceeds slightly the value of the game, but counted against this are the numerous times when opponents will fail to double or when, fearing that the sacrifice bid may be made, they will be pushed beyond their depth and take a penalty instead. Here, for instance, is an example of a good sacrifice bid, made in a recent team-of-four match in New York City. The key to the safety of the sacrifice, so far as South was concerned, was largely in the element of distribution, and the fact that a paying penalty could be taken was, no doubt, due to West's failure to bid four hearts after his partner had given a raise to two.

South, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

♠ A 8 ♡ A K Q 7 6 ◇ 9 7 ♣ Q 5 4 3	N W E S	♠ 10 7 4 ♡ J 8 5 3 ◇ A J 5 4 3 ♣ J
	♠ K Q 8 6 5 ♡ 10 9 ◇ K ♣ K 10 8 7 6

As this game was played in a team match, it was therefore played by two sets of players. The bidding in one room was:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♡	Pass	2♡
2♠	4♡	Pass	Pass
Pass

Four hearts were made and, in fact, can not be defeated against good play.

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♡	Pass	2♡
2♠	3♡	3♠	4♡
4♠	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

West made his first mistake and laid the groundwork for the profitable sacrifice by his opponents when he did not bid game after his partner had assured him of at least a fit in the trump suit. In Bridge it is often unwise to temporize. When a situation presents itself which requires a definite decision, that decision should be made, and there is

Today Means

By Mary Blake

"CANCER."

Some event may occur on this day that will cause you to "pull in your horns;" it is probable that you will suffer embarrassment, even shame, as a result. Advertising of any sort employed on this day should be unusually successful and will catch the attention of many.

The child born on this June 28 will probably develop early in life a biased outlook. Extravagant, unmindful of the comfort of others and selfish, he will be overbearing in his attitude toward others. The use of a great deal of sarcasm, clever though much of it may be, will cause him the loss of many friends.

If June 28 is the date of your birth, you are quite likely a person who gets around a good deal, knows all the people in his community and is a real good fellow. There is nothing false or insincere about you; you like to know people, they interest you and you enjoy passing "the good word" to this and that one. You are not a sharp business man, really not a good one; but you do and probably always will make money because of your friendly attitude and your ability never to hurt anyone's feelings. You are inclined at times to loaf on the job, to sit back and take it too easy.

Born on June 28, you will probably have a large family of your own; relatives, near and distant,

PLANT WORKERS GET 8.6 PER CENT MORE

Pay Envelopes Fatter With Industry Adding New Men to Rolls.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—The amount of pay in the weekly envelope of the average worker in manufacturing industries increased 8.6 per cent in May over April, the national industrial conference board reported today in its monthly summary of wages.

The number of workers increased 4.1 per cent and their hours of work a week 10.7 per cent.

Combining the increased number of hours with the increased number of workers, the board found that the total number of hours worked in the reporting establishments gained 15.1 per cent.

Purchasing Power Gains.

"As average hourly wages decreased only slightly," the board said, "probably because of the addition of new workers, these changes indicate a substantial increase in the purchasing power of the workers dependent on these establishments."

Weekly earnings of men wage-earners averaged $17.65 for all industries in May, against $16.37 in April. Weekly earnings of women wage-earners averaged $11.03 in May, against $10.09 in April.

Weekly earnings were increased for men wage-earners in 20 industries as follows:

Automobile, from $18.79 to $20.78; boot and shoe, $16.98 to $18.29; chemical, $18.91 to $18.95; cotton (North), $15.47 to $16.60; electrical manufacturing, $16.62 to $17.19; furniture, $11.96 to $13.53; hosiery and knit goods, $16.53 to $18.22; iron and steel, $14.78 to $16.81; leather tanning and finishing, $16.73 to $19.34; lumber and millwork, $12.76 to $14.42; meat packing, $20.11 to $20.76.

Paint and varnish, $19.66 to $21.17; book and job printing, $27.96 to $30.02; rubber, $18.29 to $20.62; silk, $15.97 to $16.76; wool, $15.27 to $16.73; foundries, $13.57 to $16.29; machines and machine tools, $15.53 to $16.61; hardware and small parts, $13.66 to $15.01, and other foundry and machine-shop products, $14.72 to $15.98.

Drop in Wages.

Average weekly earnings for men workers fell from $16.87 to $16.56 in the agricultural implement industry; from $18.06 to $17.63 in paper and pulp; from $22.09 to $21.62 in paper products. Women's earnings increased in each of these classes. Both men's and women's earnings fell in the news and magazine printing industry.

The average work week of all wage earners in the 25 industries combined increased from 33.6 hours in April to 37.4 hours in May.

Hours in the meat packing industry were longest, increasing from 47.4 hours to 49.3 hours. Hours in the cotton textile industry in the North were second longest, increasing from 44.8 to 47.6. The industry with the shortest hours was the manufacture of heavy equipment, which worked 29.9 hours in May, compared with 30.8 in April.

B.&O. Passenger Gains Will Provide 500 Jobs

Baltimore, June 27 (A.P.).—Officials of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad said today that more than 500 men, many of them former employes, are to be given employment over the lines due to increased passenger traffic.

Two hundred men already have been put to work at the Mount Clare shops here. Approximately 130 are to be given employment in these shops shortly, and 200 in other sections are scheduled for jobs in the near future.

The officials said much of the new traffic is the result of the Century of Progress Fair in Chicago.

HEAT CROP DAMAGES BOOST WHEAT PRICE

Minnesota, Middle West and Texas Farmers Get More for Grain.

St. Paul, June 27 (A.P.).—Blistering weather throughout the Middle West, which today had caused serious small grain loss and severe corn damage, was instrumental in bringing back $1 wheat after a three-year absence.

With little relief promised for today, crop damage in western Minnesota is so severe that "thrashing machines will not be needed," was forecast by Andrew Boss, Minnesota State agronomist.

Wheat prices jumped to $1.00½ and $1.02 at Fort Worth, Tex., yesterday, while at Chicago, May wheat sold at 90¼ cents.

Although light rains fell in parts of Minnesota, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa and Texas, the precipitation hardly afforded relief from the heat, State crop bureaus reported.

Damage to corn in Minnesota, previously not serious, was more noticeable, Boss said, while that crop in western Oklahoma appeared doomed, and failure of the crop in other sections of the State was forecast.

Winter wheat in southwestern Kansas appeared irreparably scorched. Small crops in Iowa were damaged seriously and the corn crop was beginning to show the effects of the hot, dry spell.

Southwestern Minnesota and east central South Dakota bore the brunt of the heat yesterday. Aberdeen and Huron, S. Dak., reported 109 and 107, respectively, and Pipestone, in southwestern Minnesota, had 104.5.

Corn in eastern South Dakota still shows prospect of producing an excellent crop, but other grains have been damaged extensively.

BONDS SENT HIGHER UNDER RAILS' LEAD

Three-Tenths Gain Recorded as Sales Mount to $21,027,000.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Heavy trading in railway specialties, reflecting further optimistic reports of increased traffic revenues, gave the bond market another lift today.

The sales volume expanded to $21,027,000, par value, against $13,518,000, yesterday, while the average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced three-tenths of a point to another new 1933 high at 78.5.

The more active career gainers of 1 to 3 or more points included issues of St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Chesapeake Corp., Alleghany Corp., Baltimore & Ohio, Denver & Rio Grand, Erie, International, Great Northern, New York Central, New Haven, Frisco, St. Louis Southwestern, Southern and Wabash.

The utilities were a trifle hesitant, although a few of these moved forward. Portland General Electric 4½s gained 5 points and International Telephone convertible 4½s were up 2⅜. Among the industrials, Colorado Industrial 5s were in unusual demand at an advance of 3½ points, while gains of 1 to 2 or more were held by loans of American I. G. Chemical, McCroy Stores, McKesson, United Drug and Walworth.

United States Government securities were slightly easier and foreign obligations were irregular. German government 5½s and 7s rallied more than a point each, but bonds of Denmark, Dutch East Indies and the French cities of Lyons and Marseilles were rather soft.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Better news from the United States, rising commodity prices and hopes regarding the World Economic Conference were responsible for the better tone of the stock exchange today. Good general buying improved prices, especially home rails, industrials and commodity shares. Argentine rails were higher, while transatlantic shares also participated, but lost fractionally at the close. The closing was steady.

Berlin—Prices were steady on the boerse today.

Paris—Prices on the bourse were boosted higher in sympathy with the rise of grain and cotton in the United States and speculation resulting in weakness in the florin. Firmness of metal in the London market was also a factor. The closing was firm.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Cotton goods were very firm on a higher basis today. More trading for July-August delivery was reported.

Stocks Reach Peaks In Spite of Small Rise

Demands for Commodities Still Hold Interest; Gains Average Nine-tenths; Sales Volume Increases to 5,667,225 Shares.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Grains ran away from other markets today, leaving stocks, cotton and the group of minor commodities far behind.

An enormous demand for wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley kept the financial world's eyes glued closely to those markets. Shares, on the other hand, were fairly restrained and a few leaders finished lower, net changes for the "pivotals" being moderate. Nevertheless, the closing composite made a new high.

Stocks were reasonably strong at times, but unable to match the pace of "dollar wheat." Alcohol issues did very well, while rails and motors managed to hold their ends up. There was also a smattering of robust specialties. However, United States Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Union Carbide and General Electric finished around their previous closes—some slightly up, some moderately lower.

National Distillers Products stole the show on the big board with a rise of 16½ points, to 102, which was the closing price. U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol, Celanese, Duplan Silk, Industrial Rayon, Union Bag, United States Gypsum, Drug, American Locomotive, Columbian Carbon and General Mills rose about 2½ to 5 points. General Motors and Chrysler each rose 1. Many of the active rails were up 1 to 2. Sales totaled 5,667,225 shares.

Thus the market appeared selective. Strength in carrier issues provided a good talking point for bulls who were still trying to capitalize the sustained rise in loadings and the big improvement in May earnings. Norfolk & Western's regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the common and expectations that tomorrow's traffic figures for some large Eastern systems would show substantial gains helped furnish support.

Cotton.

Another high level rise was recorded, but profit taking, realising and Southern selling trimmed gains to a small loss. The general market was down 1 to 7 points. October sold at 10.56; July at 10.25. Liverpool prices were 27 points higher.

Rubber.

Crude rubber was steady. July sold at 6.40; September at 6.65.

U. S. Dollar Loses On Foreign Marts

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Reported currency stabilization activities of the so-called European gold bloc countries today resulted in another sharp decline of the American dollar in leading foreign exchange markets.

The British pound sterling advanced 2 cents to $4.26½ for cables, another post-gold standard high, and the Dutch guilder, heavy yesterday on rumors of Holland suspending the gold base, rallied 1 cent to 50 cents. Swiss francs reached a new top for the past year or more with a gain of ¼ of a cent to 24.20 cents. Belgian belgas were up 1-10 of a cent at 17.45 cents and French francs equaled their previous year's high at 4.92 cents, an advance of .06¼ of a cent.

Moderate gains were recorded by German marks and the Scandinavians and Canadian dollars. Firmness of bar silver aided Shanghai dollars to gain ⅝ of a cent at 27⅛ cents, while Japanese yen were up ⅛ of a cent at 26⅝ cents, both rates being new 1933 highs.

INVESTORS ACCLAIM IMPROVED BUSINESS

Automobile Buying Jumps in May; Demand Laid to Higher Wages.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

The most encouraging economic situation in more than two years is reported by Investors Syndicate, with local offices, in the May figures of their monthly Consumer Index. Nearly every factor in the index registers a rising trend.

Automobile buying also showed a greater gain in May than in April, with an increase of 21.5 per cent over the preceding month, and sharply widened the gap over the corresponding month of a year ago with a bulge of 18.2 per cent.

Home building was the third factor in the syndicate index to register a gain for the second successive month in 1933. The margin of improvement over the preceding month was 38.6 per cent in May—practically double the gain of 19.4 per cent shown by April home construction figures. At the same time, this field of industry finally exceeded in volume the totals for the corresponding month of 1932, by a margin of 3.9 per cent.

After a long, unbroken decline, insurance sales showed a gain of 2.7 per cent in May over April.

Further expansion in security investments reflected the general optimism toward the future.

One of the most encouraging features of the survey, according to Investors Syndicate, is the fact that the improvement in purchasing power resulting from rising wage totals has not yet been offset by any increase in the cost of living. On the contrary, the living cost index figure again shows a slight decline for the month of May.

In past recoveries, workers have been forced to compete with increased costs of sheer necessities in the first phases of revival, thus limiting the scope of new industries and semiluxuries. The reverse is true now, and while cost of living must necessarily rise, present indications are that buying should be able to keep a jump ahead of the prices of necessities even during the early stages of recovery.

The annual meeting of the Washington Association of Credit Men will be held Tuesday, July 11, immediately following the regular luncheon, at 12:30 p. m., at the Hamilton Hotel.

WHEAT SOARS AGAIN, PASSING PRICE OF $1

Record Rise of 7 3-8 Cents Drives May Contracts up to $1.06 3-8.

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—Feverish, big speculative buying that clutched grain markets anew today forced 8 cents maximum fresh rise in values and outdid yesterday's sensational advance of 7⅜ cents.

Wheat today went far above $1, the traditional goal of thousands of farmers, and reached $1.06⅜ for May contracts. For the second day in succession the wheat market ran up a maximum new gain of 7⅜ cents, but barley today surpassed wheat with a jump of 8 cents flat.

At the extreme top today, wheat showed a rise of 21⅛ cents over last week's low and more than 53 cents gain since the beginning of the season.

Peak Since 1930.

Highest prices today, unequaled since 1930 and reached in the final quarter hour of business, were in the face of immense profit-taking sales and despite indications of showers promising at least some relief from prolonged drought and heat that have been wrecking crops.

Wheat closed wild at somewhat below the new top figures, but 5¾ to 6⅜ cents above yesterday's finish; corn, 3 to 3⅞ up; oats, 2 to 3 cents advanced, and provisions at a rise of 5 to 30 cents.

At times, temporary setbacks from wheat price advances amounted to 2 cents in less than that many minutes, but immediate broadening of purchase power on every such occasion rushed the market higher than before until almost the closing gong.

Warnings Are Unheeded.

Advice from many experienced traders that the markets were entitled to a reaction after recent violent advances went practically unheeded. Reports of nearly unprecedented crop damage continued to be the chief dominating influence.

Unofficial estimates of today's aggregate trading varied by millions of bushels, and opinion was divided as to whether yesterday's staggering total of 208,553,000 bushels had been excelled. Only on two previous occasions since records have been kept were those figures surpassed. Behind the present extraordinary speculative activity is the fact that the immediate crop situation is likened to circumstances existing in 1900, when spring wheat crop condition dropped during June from 87.3 per cent to 55.2 owing to intense heat and drought.

Barley's sensational upward flight of 8 cents a bushel today was attributed to indications that crop damage to barley this season will be greater than in 1900. Two cents of barley's gain today was lost at the finish.

Corn, oats and rye followed wheat action, and scored respective maximum gains of 4 cents, 3⅛ cents and 4¾ cents.

Provisions responded chiefly to grain strength.

Optimism Is Moderate.

Omaha, Neb., June 27 (A.P.).—Dollar plus wheat on the speculative exchanges brought only measured optimism to the wheat belt today.

To many farmers, one observer said, the spectacular upturn in wheat futures meant little because with last year's crop sold and this year's burned out by a merciless sun, they will have no wheat to sell.

Neither does it, said a holiday association leader, banish definitely threat of a farm strike.

Scattered showers today failed to bring relief to wide-flung areas in which crop damage has been serious, leading Harry Parmenter, president of the Farmers Holiday Association in Nebraska, to remark "the market has been surging upward because of adverse weather rather than through the effect of legislation."

"The idea of a farm strike has not been given up yet," Parmenter added. "There has been a lull in our activities during the busy farm season and we are holding off to give the administration a chance to see what it can do.

"Of course the farmers are pleased to see the price go up but the holiday association will not cease its efforts until assured, through legislation, of cost of production and until the principles outlined in the Frazier bill for farm refinancing are adopted."

At Des Moines, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace declined to comment on what share of the profit from dollar-a-bushel wheat he believed would find its way to the farmer's purse.

Guilder Inflation Fears Disappear; Rates Drop

Amsterdam, Holland, June 27 (A.P.).—Fears of inflation respecting the guilder, which were circulating yesterday, disappeared today. Foreign exchange rates gradually declined and the stock market was somewhat easier.

The Netherlands Bank this morning was operating actively in the exchange market, exporting again large amounts of gold—about 20,000,000 guilders ($10,000,000), according to report. The bank will continue to deliver gold as long as it had gold at its disposal, it was declared.

Exports of Grains Drop 443,000 Units

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 178,000 bushels against 621,000 bushels the previous week and 931,000 during the corresponding week of last year.

Commerce Department figures yesterday gave the following comparison between last week's exports and those for the week before: Wheat, 3,000 bushels against 4,000; barley, 103,000 against 469,000; corn, 50,000 against 125,000; oats, 16,000 against 18,000; rye, 6,000 against 5,000.

Canadian grain exported last week from United States ports amounted to 310,000 bushels against 330,000 bushels the previous week while exports of North American wheat flour were 57,000 barrels against 55,000.

Packing Houses' Business In May Sets High Record

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—Slaughtering establishments of the Nation could look back upon last month as the best in their business since January, 1922, the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank announced today.

Not only did production increase 12½ per cent over April, but it was 14 per cent greater than May, 1932, and 11½ per cent in excess of 1923-32 average for the month.

The upward trend set in during April, contrary to seasonal expectations, the bank's statement said, and was further reflected in an increase of 17 per cent in domestic and foreign sales. The May total was 10 per cent over the previous May, but 43 per cent under the ten-year average.

Employes figured in the improved condition both in the number at work and in the pay envelope. The number of workers was 6½ per cent in excess of April and hours worked and wages were 8 per cent higher.

Power Output Rise Points to Revival

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, June 27.—The increasing activity in industrial centers, which has been marked in the past nine weeks, is reflected in the net electric output of 51,891,582 units (kwh) reported by the Associated Gas & Electric System for the week ended June 17, 1933. This output is 15.8 per cent above the corresponding week of 1932 and 3.2 per cent above two years ago.

It is important to note that very large increases reported by a few of the operating properties in the system account for most of this improvement. These properties, located in Massachusetts, eastern Pennsylvania and South Carolina, report greatly increased consumption.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Flour—With prices up in proportion to the sensational rise in wheat, consumers are said to be reluctant to place new orders except in cases of urgent need. Ordering out against contact is more active.

Carpet wools—Imports at Philadelphia last week amounted to 423,934 pounds compared with 1,149,515 in the previous week.

Tin—Brokers report a more active business in the cheaper brands of the metal. The high operating rate of tin plate mills continues a sustaining factor in the market.

Sheets and pillow cases—It is reported in the trade that many mills have all the advance business they desire and are refusing new orders except under special conditions.

COTTON PRICES CUT AFTER NEW ADVANCE

October Sells at 10.56 With General Market Down 1 to 7 Points.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Although cotton rallied from opening declines, advances into new high ground encountered increased profit taking or liquidation, as well as heavy Southern hedge selling, and the market again turned reactionary in the late trading.

October contracts closed at 10.56 with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 1 to 7 points.

Opening losses of 5 to 10 points under relatively lower Liverpool cables and realizing encountered active outside buying through Wall street, wire and commission houses, with the result that before the end of the first half hour the market had rallied 23 to 27 points from the lowest and to net gains of 10 to 18 points.

Early Gain Lost.

July sold up to 10.40 and December to 10.90, carrying the general list 94 to 101 points above the closing levels of Saturday.

At the higher levels the South became a more aggressive seller and there were also offerings representing profit taking as well as reactionary selling on a theory that the advance had been too rapid.

At the beginning of the last hour, prices had rallied to within about 5 points of the earlier highs, influenced by the strength of wheat and weakness of the dollar, but they again weakened, closing 15 to 20 points from the top.

Optimism in South.

Although advices from the South of a semiofficial nature indicated optimism with reference to acreage reduction, no very definite reports were received.

At the same time Washington advices indicated some feeling in official quarters that the rise of farm commodities was complicating the problem of collecting sufficient funds from processing taxes to finance acreage control.

Part of the selling was attributed to foreign account, owing to narrower New York-Liverpool differences, and there may have been some selling on reports of beneficial rains in Arkansas, although dry portions of the Western belt were unrelieved except for a few light showers in northwest Texas. Liverpool reported that new buying there was offset by profit-taking, hedge selling and liquidation.

Exports today, 13,472, making 7,755,607 so far this season. Port receipts, 14,022. U. S. port stocks, 3,543,089.

GEORGIANS OFFERING TO PLOW UP COTTON

Official Reports Genuine Backing of U. S. Plan to Reduce Acreage.

Athens, Ga., June 27 (A.P.).—A request from some Georgia farmers that they be allowed to plow up all of their cotton was seen by Harry L. Brown, assistant director of the State Extension Service, as an indication of a whole-hearted reception of the Federal acreage reduction plan in this State.

The requests came after the Government announced farmers would be permitted to plow up 50 per cent of their acreage and an offer by the Government to let farmers holding acreage yielding 275 pounds of lint per acre to receive cash benefits up to the 275-pound figure and also obtain cotton options equal to the total estimated yield of the acreage offered.

Extension workers said messages received during the day from C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production division, indicated there was little doubt but that the acreage offered by Southern farmers would be in excess of the 10,000,000 acres necessary to insure success of the Federal plan.

Mr. Cobb today announced an agreement had been made with the Credit Administration of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporations under which farmers receiving loans from Federal agencies will not be required to receive consent agreements from the agencies in order to participate in the cash benefit and cotton option plans. He said the agreement opened the way for immediate farmer cooperation.

Rock Island Authorized To Pay Loan Interest

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, now in receivership, today announced that it had been authorized by the Federal Court to pay the interest on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans, due June 27 and June 30. Permission was also granted for payment of the interest on the Choctaw & Memphis first mortgage bonds, the Little Rock & Hot Springs Western notes, due July 1—both of which are underlying obligations—and also the equipment trust notes and interest due July 1 and July 15.

"The court authorized the company temporarily to defer the payment of the July 1 interest on the general mortgage 4s," the road's statement said. "Under the terms of the general mortgage, there is a six months' grace period for the payment of interest, and it is expected that in a very short time the company will have funds in hand for the payment of the July 1 installment."

Futures strengthened on active covering and general outside buying, promoted by the sharp advance in London and expectations of constructive developments at the meeting of the sugar industry in Washington.

Strength in the spot market was also a factor. Aside from realizing there was little for sale although this was sufficient to check the upturn around 1.60 for December and 1.64 for March, or 5 to 7 points net higher. Prices at midday were off a point or two from the best but still 4 to 5 points above the previous close. In refined a good withdrawal demand was reported and prices were unchanged at 4.60 for fine granulated.

SUGAR MAGNATES BACK QUOTA PLAN

Committee Aims to Help Stabilize Industry and Start System.

(Associated Press.)

Sugar growers and refiners yesterday voted to work for a quota plan to stabilize the industry and named a steering committee to find a system acceptable to all branches.

This action was taken at the end of a one-day conference of 150 representatives of growers and refiners from the Philippines, Hawaii and Puerto Rico as well as the United States. It was held under the auspices of the agricultural adjustment administration.

The steering committee will hold its first meeting today with John Lee Coulter, a member of the tariff commission, who is representing the agricultural administration.

No quota plans or figures were presented at the conference yesterday, each group of the industry confining itself to a statement of its particular needs and problems. The task of attempting to set forth production figures under a quota system was reserved for behind-the-door committee discussions.

This resolution was adopted late yesterday afternoon:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this informal conference on stabilization of sugar, called by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, that steps should be taken in concert by the groups here represented, to bring about a plan for the stabilization of sugar in cooperation with the Government under provisions of acts of Congress."

These men were named to the committee: Western beet processors, W. D. Lippett, of Denver, president of the United States Beet Sugar Association, with James Grant, alternate; Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands, John Bass, of the Puerto Rico Sugar Producers Association; raw cane producers of Florida, Clarence R. Bitting, of New York City, with J. J. Harrington, Clewiston, Fla. alternate; Eastern beet growers, C. R. Oviatt, East Lansing, Mich., with Frank Oberst, Breckenridge, Mich., alternate; American Cane Sugar League of Louisiana, C. D. Kemper, representing processors, with Jules Godchaux, alternate.

Also cane growers, F. L. Barker, with C. J. Bourg, alternate; domestic cane refiners, Ellsworth Bunker, of New York, with Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia, alternate; Philippine growers, Harry B. Hawes, former senator from Missouri, with Bon Geoslin, alternate, and Frank Roberson representing refiners; Cuban refiners marketing in the United States, John E. Snyder; National Beet Growers Association, Charles M. Kearney, with J. D. Pancake, alternate; Hawaiian growers, R. A. Cooke, with R. D. Mead, alternate, and Eastern beet sugar processors, W. H. Wallace, with George W. McCormick, alternate.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With Nelson B. Bell

EXPECTANT patrons of Loew's Fox, Palace and Columbia theaters in this city may look forward to some of the finest photoplays in the history of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, if reliance is to be placed in word received here last night from Rudolph Berger, M-G-M Washington branch manager, who is attending his company's annual sales convention in Detroit, Mich.

Billie Burke

Mr. Berger, whom we have known a good many years now, man and boy, in a telegram to Carter Barron, city manager of the Loew interests in the Capital, stated that he could not wait until his return to Washington to give vent to the enthusiasm engendered by "Dinner at Eight" and "Eskimo," both of which were privately previewed by the convention.

"Dinner at Eight," he declared, "is designed to make motion picture history, first because the story is highly entertaining; secondly, because it is superbly directed and, thirdly, because it has the greatest cast of stars ever assembled.

"Eskimo," Mr. Berger reports as more thrilling than "Trader Horn" and possessed of scenic shots and hair-raising action the likes of which he has never seen before, and, as I say, Rudie has been around a long time now.

The cast of "Dinner at Eight"—which, of course, is the film version of the Edna Ferber-George S. Kaufman collaboration that scored an emphatic hit on Broadway last season—includes Marie Dressler, John and Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Jean Harlow, Lee Tracy, Washington's own Billie Burke, who is about to revive her late husband's "Follies" with the aid of the Shuberts; Edmund Lowe, Phillips Holmes, Grant Mitchell, Jean Hersholt and Madge Evans.

This brilliant coterie is not far removed in distinguished attainment from the stellar group that made "Grand Hotel" so notable an achievement.

Accordnig to Mr. Berger's further ebullitions, the list of 46 regular M-G-M releases for the new season will be topped by six specials, several of which will boast multi-star casts not unlike those of "Grand Hotel" and "Dinner at Eight." This group will embrace "Hollywood Party," "Dark to Dawn," "Soviet" and an untitled Marie Dressler vehicle, "Tarzan and His Mate" and "Two Thieves."

"Hollywood Party," by Edmund Goulding and Howard Dietz—and the authorship alone is enough to insure a substantial story basis upon which to build—will have in its cast Joan Crawford, Marie Dressler, Jean Harlow, Jimmy Durante, Lupe Velez, Lee Tracy, Jack Pearl, Charles Butterworth, Nils Asther and Jean Hersholt.

The report on "Soviet" is that it will be the first important picture ever made in this country with a dramatic background that will deal minutely with the social and political aspects of the epochal experiment being carried on by Stalin and his communistic cohorts. Wallace Berry, Clark Gable and Jean Harlow are listed as the principal players in this distinctly expository film.

In addition to these highlights of the year's plans, there will be the usual quota of individual starring vehicles for the M-G-M roster of stellar and featured players, costarring pictures and short-reel subjects.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is fortunate in not yet having heard about the depression!

Speaking of Detroit, as we did somewhere back yonder, there was some curiosity in some circles a few days ago as to why Maxine Doyle, mistress of ceremonies at the Earle and one of Prexy Clifford Brooke's big dramatic actresses, should have appealed to the department of a large mercantile establishment presided over by Helen "Katisha" Mark, one of the Capital's most gifted contraltos, for an outfit of slacks that lace up the sides like a sailor's.

To every such quandary, however, there is inevitably a solution. Miss Doyle, it seems, is about to become a sailor and merely wished to dress the part in the most approved dockwalloper fashion.

With the Earle's "July Frolic" moving onto the stage this Friday, with the spheroidal Johnny Perkins as presiding panjandrum, Miss Doyle is availing herself of the infrequent opportunity to enjoy a week's vacation, which, I am told, will begin immediately after tomorrow night's last performance, when Maxine will set out on a motor trek to Detroit to be guest of honor at a house party on the shores of Lake Erie, where there are yachts and water and sunburn and things.

Reverting to our original problem, under such circumstances there necessarily have to be slacks that pinch at the top and flare at the bottom, like a sailor's. Else what does one do about reefing the lee scuppers and taking a tuck in the spanker, or something?

The Minnow, Porpoise and Whale swimming clubs of Crystal Pool, Glen Echo Park, are going over in a big way. These are for boys and girls not over 15 years of age, who are required to do various stunts in the water before qualifying for each of the various classes, which include beginners, advanced swimmers and experts, as the names of the water denizens signify.

Forty-six have met the requirements of the Minnow Club, 50 the Porpoise Club and 26 the Whale Club.

A portion of a letter from Corbin Sheild, formerly manager of the Garden, Rialto and RKO-Keith theaters in this city—but not simultaneously—dated in Modesto, Calif., June 22, 1933:

"Just to let you know where I am located. We have two theaters in this man's town, the Princess and the Modesto.

"We are playing the Baer-Schmeling fight pictures at the Modesto. We broke all house records today with them. It is a pity Washington doesn't wake up and let prizefight pictures run. They should be shown in a first-class house on the regular program."

Since the screen is permitted to display the roughest of the wrestling bouts without let or hindrance, and since no heed seems to be paid to the interstate embargo on fight films anywhere but here, I am inclined to agree with Mr. Sheild.

The local prohibition is a pointless and unwarrantedly discriminatory statute in the view of a great number of intelligent and law-abiding citizens.

It has been suggested that this department in its Saturday review of "The Girl in 419," current at Loew's Fox, was a trifle severe in stating that "Gloria Stuart was her most effective, both pictorially and dramatically, while lying unconscious on a hospital bed in the police ward, although her later scenes were well enough."

Gloria Stuart

This is not so caustic a stricture as perhaps it seems at first glance. Miss Stuart is a lovely young woman who is a comparative newcomer to parts of prominence on the screen and one who has progressed more rapidly pictorially than histrionically.

I mean to say that the epidermal experts, the cosmeticians, the hairdressers and couturiers—beauty specialists and dressmakers to youse guys—have wafted Miss Stuart nearer the ultimate than have the dramatic coaches, voice culturists and the elocution teachers.

The net result is that as Miss Stuart lies silent and suffering with her blonde beauty photographed from the most effective angles, she presents a far more appealing spectacle than when later she speaks and betrays herself as merely another young and faltering "actress."

When this promising young woman's vocal and interpretative powers have been brought to the point of perfection her beauty has already reached, she will be incomparable. But that time is not, yet.

If the Pasadena Tournament of Roses were not a traditional observance in California each year, it is perhaps more than a possibility that Jean Parker, youthful beauty to be seen with Willard Mack, Minna Gombell, Bryant Washburn and Ben Alexander in "What Price Innocence," at RKO-Keith's beginning Friday, would still be living in hope of becoming a film luminary instead of actually being one. She was observed by a motion-picture executive on one of the floats in this colorful midwinter pageant and was immediately signed to a long-term contract.

Fred Marshall, one of Columbia Pictures' ace exploitation experts, in town in behalf of "What Price Innocence," will leave Friday afternoon immediately after the first performance, to perfect arrangements for the annual sales convention of his company in Atlantic City. Columbia, incidentally, has taken its place among the major producers as one of the soundest financial structures in the industry.

When little June Preisser presents herself backstage at Loew's Fox for the first performance today, she will be confronted by a bank of flowers, a huge cake, a tiny wire-haired fox terrier puppy and other appropriate observances of her birthday. The vivacious and versatile Louisianan, who appears with her sister, Cherry, in a lively song, dance and acrobatic routine, is 19 today. Mrs. Preisser, who accompanies her daughters on tour, is seeing to it that the anniversary is suitably celebrated.

That "19" reminds me of a line Paramount is circulating about one of its new productions: "'Handlebars,' sideburns, Van Dykes, Walrus mustaches, goatees and beaver beards cover the faces of some 100 extras who are working in 'One Sunday Afternoon,' a story of the 1900's"!

Quick, boy, the almanac and let's see what century this is we're living in!

Cuban President Orders Cartoonist Out of Jail

Havana, June 27 (A.P.).—Jose Hernandez Cardenas, cartoonist for the newspaper Informacion, was released this afternoon from Principi Prison on orders issued by President Machado.

Hernandez Cardenas was arrested two weeks ago for publishing a cartoon ironically commenting on military edicts regarding the spreading of news and false rumors of alarming character.

Recovery Act Seen As Success by Woll

Atlantic City, N. J., June 27 (A.P.).—Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, told the National Association of Retail Grocers today that although he believes there is "dynamite" in the industrial recovery act, its chief virtue lies in the fact it gives President Roosevelt the power to end or modify it if necessary.

"Labor has faith in the President rather than in the act itself," said Woll, "and is confident that under his administration of it, it will prove a material aid to recovery."

Hector Lazo, of Washington, acting chief of the Marketing Service Division of the Department of Commerce, in a morning address, described the industrial act as the opportunity of a lifetime for the economic life of the Nation.

Air Cowboys

Hoot Gibson, Ken Maynard to Settle Argument by Race in Planes.

Los Angeles, June 27 (A.P.).—Hoot Gibson and Ken Maynard, cowboy actors, plan to settle a long-standing argument as to which is the better aviator at the national air races here, July 3.

Gibson and Maynard will contest against each other in an airplane race over a closed course in full view of spectators. Both are reported to be skilled pilots. Will Rogers, air-minded former cowboy, will present a special challenge cup to the winner.

Announcement of the race was made at a luncheon where Rogers entertained Maj. Ernest Udet, noted German aviator, Lieut. Tito Falconti and others, today.

CHILD WORK DISPUTE SNAGS CONFERENCE ON TEXTILE CODE

manufacturers said, would prevent them from meeting the competition of other fabric makers.

Elimination of child labor in the cotton spinning and other industries, as well, was indicated by the course of the testimony and questioning. George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, told the Industrial Recovery Board that the minimum wage provisions of the cotton code very probably would mean elimination of child labor because it would not be economical.

Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, retired, industrial recovery administrator, asked why, then, shouldn't child labor be specifically prohibited in the code.

Barring of child labor has been urged by the labor advisory committee, members of which sat on the platform through the hearings yesterday, as did the industrial and consumers' advisory committees.

The hearing was conducted by W. L. Allen, an engineer, of New York, a deputy administrator. Representatives of labor, cotton and other industries as well as plain citizens, crowded the large hearing room in the Commerce Department Building throughout the day listening closely to the proceedings. What is done about the cotton code, first to be considered, is expected to serve as a precedent in the formulation of codes for other industries.

40-Hour Week Opposed.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who is to appear before the administration today, made known labor's opposition to a 40-hour work week. The maximum should be 32 hours, Mr. Green said. He said that the minimum wage should be $14.40 instead of $10.

Sidney Hillman, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and other representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the United Textile Workers Union, are also to testify before the administration today.

Senator James F. Byrnes (Democrat), of South Carolina, urged a limitation on the so-called "stretch-out" system. By "stretch-out" is meant the practice, often resorted to by manufacturers, of increasing the number of machines one worker has to tend.

Special Committee Named.

Senator Byrnes said: "During this emergency when the object is to put men back on jobs there should be no opportunity for some manufacturers to defeat that object by stretching the machine load of employes in order to put men out of jobs."

Gen. Johnson named a special committee of three to study the "stretch-out" question. The committee was headed by Robert W. Bruere, chairman; George L. Berry, representing labor, and George Harris, of Charlotte, N. C., representing industry.

Another question which was raised in dispute between the manufacturers revolved about the maximum use of machinery in a week. The code presented on behalf of the majority of the industry by Mr. Sloan limits to 80 hours a week the maximum time a machine may be used.

Need for Restriction.

Mr. Sloan said that the code would mean employment of an additional 100,000 workers, bringing the total at work in the industry to 525,000. He urged the need for restriction on the use of machinery arose from the fact that there were more than enough looms and spindles to supply demand. If they were operating on three shifts a day the demand could be met by half of those available, Mr. Sloan said. The situation tended to overproduction and exerted a continuous pressure to cut prices without regard to costs of production with consequent elimination of profit, reduction of wages and lengthening of hours, he said.

The question of tariff protection also was brought into hearing when Mr. Sloan said recovery of the industry could not be expected if it were confronted with importation of cheap goods.

Robert Amory, of Boston, said that the code had the approval of more than two-thirds of the spindle operators. Those who had not approved it were actuated by various motives, he said. Some did not understand the law, some were opposed to the North-South wage difference and some opposed the 80-hour machine use limit, he said. Mr. Sloan had said that the 144-hour limit would ruin the smaller mills.

25 Cents per Tire Cited.

C. A. Stillman, vice president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., who represented his own concern and the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., the B. F. Goodrich and U. S. Rubber Companies, opposed restriction on the use of machinery.

But F. A. Siberling, speaking for himself and 20 other smaller tire manufacturers, urged that the machine use limit be applied to the mills operated by the "big four" among the tire makers if it were applied to the cotton industry as a whole. He explained that the "big four" made their own fabric, but he and others would have to buy from the restricted mills.

That would make a difference of 25 cents per tire, he complained. It was estimated it costs 6 cents an hour more to operate a mill on an 80-hour week basis than on a 144-hour basis.

"Would such a distinction tend to promote monopoly," asked Gen. Johnson.

"No Question About It."

"There is no question about that. It would," Mr. Siberling replied.

E. J. McMillan, of Knoxville, Tenn., president of the Knit Wear Manufacturers Association, wanted his branch of the cotton industry excluded, pointing out that many knit wear manufacturers used other than cotton, and wished to present a special code of their own. He urged that the proposed effective date of the cotton code, July 17, was too soon and said all codes should be held up pending completion of the rules for all related and affected industries.

Sylvan Gotshall, of Roseman, Weil, Gotshal & Menges, representing the National Upholstery & Drapery Textile Association, comprising 200 mills, urged that business be permitted to draft its own code.

Following close of the hearing for the day, Gen. Johnson issued a statement denying that there had been or was any friction between the officials charged with the recovery administration.

Public Works Fund Aids To Fix Wage Rates Today

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt's Cabinet board, in charge of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund, has set today for a discussion of the hours of work and dollars in pay for the men to be employed on the great construction projects.

It was made known yesterday that the board would have before it a suggestion by Hugh Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, for a 32-hour week and a 45 cents an hour rate.

Up for decision, also, will be whether workers should be taken from the reforestation camps to help with the construction.

NATS' 8-GAME STREAK SNAPPED, 7-6; YANKEES WIN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Cleveland, Ohio, June 27.

AL THOMAS is scouring Cleveland for a good-luck charm. The Nats have lost 3 of their last 18 games and Thomas was the starting pitcher in all 3 defeats. In two of them, the winning run was walked over the plate.

Heinie Manush is a convert to the law of averages belief. After hitting safely in 26 straight games he has gone hitless in 3 of the 4 games the Nats have played here. Heinie's average has shrunk like a snowball in Key West.

Sam Rice has broken into the line-up in the late innings of the Nats' last five games as a replacement for Goose Goslin. "Rice for Goslin" through the amplifiers is just another way of announcing that the last of the eighth inning is getting under way.

The Goose dragged his lame leg for two bases in the seventh inning after hitting a legitimate home run to deep center field.

Eddie Morgan is in for a long rest on the Cleveland bench if Harley Boss is no flash in the pan. The ex-Chattanooga first baseman today hit two singles and a triple, drove in two runs, figured in two others and scored three himself, including the winning run in the ninth.

Al Thomas had a no-hit game for three innings, and in the fourth it began to look like a no-out game with the Indians climbing aboard his offerings for three hits and two runs.

The Cleveland club is host to 7,000 school children every day during the summer, and if the volume of their boos for the visiting players is any indication of their sportsmanship, the younger generation in Cleveland is setting a new low.

Cleveland holds one league record. It is the only park in the circuit where the customers give up the balls that land in the stands.

Yankee Aces Wimbledon Winners

Mrs. Moody, Vines Attract Bulk of Attention.

Seven Other American Players Still in Running.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 27 (A.P.).—The American champions of Wimbledon, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Ellsworth Vines, jr., today proved their right to the title as they led the way through the second round of the famous championships, Mrs. Moody with a love set victory.

Keeping pace with their more famous compatriots were Lester Stoefen, Cliff Sutter, Keith Gledhill, Helen Jacobs, the American champion, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, but it was Vines and Mrs. Moody on whom attention centered.

Queen Helen was making her first appearance in defense of her title, having drawn a first round bye, and she gave the galleries something to talk about as she stroked her way to a 6—0, 6—0 victory over the experienced British player, Mrs. J. R. Macready.

Mrs. Moody Impresses In Match.

It was one of her best exhibitions on the famous London courts and strengthened the odds that she would add her sixth title to tie the all-time record of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, her predecessor as the leading woman player of the world.

Vines, lasing along, was impressive, nevertheless, in walloping A. T. England, British player, 6—1, 4—6, 7—5, 6—1, showing the ability all true champions have, to win even when they are having a bad day.

Sutter and Stoefen met difficult opponents in Christian Boussus, third ranking player of France, and R. Nunoi, champion, of Japan, respectively, and came through with hard won victories.

Sutter was in especially good form as he outspeeded and outthought the U. S. Golfers Relinquish Ryder Cup

British Are Winners in Battle by One-Match Margin.

Shute Misses on Putt From Eight Feet to End Competition.

By Frank H. King
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

SOUTHPORT, England, June 27 (A.P.).—America's blue ribbon golf professionals, fighting from behind to the very last putt on the home green, today bowed in defeat to Great Britain and lost the Ryder Cup, emblematic of internation supremacy, 6 matches to 5, with one foursome halved.

Two days of the fiercest competition in the annals of the team play ended on the rolling sand dune green in front of the Southport Club with nearly 20,000 spectators, among them the Prince of Wales, trying to see the exciting finish in which Syd Easterbrook defeated Densmore Shute, enabling Great Britain to keep the trophy in the land of its origin.

Shute Misses Decisive Putts.

Shute, coming from behind on the last nine to first square the match and then take the lead, missed a 6-yard putt, then one from 8 feet away to surrender the hole, the match and the series.

The burden of defeat, however, did not rest alone on the slender youngster, who fought gallantly all day in one of the tightest matches of the series, where he came from behind five times and staved off British victory to the very last putt. With him in losing matches were Olin Dutra, who went completely off his game for a time to lose to Abe Mitchell, 9 and 8; Paul Runyan, who bowed to Percy Alliss, 2 and 1, and Leo Diegel, who was defeated by Arthur Havers, 4 and 3.

Capt. Walter Hagen, all square with A. J. Lacey at the end of 27 holes, made a Garrison finish to nose out victory, 2 and 1; Gene Sarazen, who will defend his British open crown next week, defeated Alf Padgham, 6 and 4; Craig Wood, big blond from New Jersey, won from W. H. Davies, 4 and 3, and Horton Smith took a big lead, then held grimly to enough of it to defeat Charles Whitcombe, Ryder Cup captain in 1931, 2 and 1.

U. S. Breaks Even in Singles.

The United States thus gained an even break in singles, but it was not enough, as they lost two of the foursomes yesterday while winning one and halving the other and went into the second and final day of play trailing by a full point, 1½ to 2½.

The American Goliaths, only a few days off the boat and playing on hard greens, which were a big contrast to the more lush putting surfaces with which they are familiar, need make no apologies for their loss of the cup, for they made a brave fight against adversaries who were right at home on the course and who proved just a bit steadier in the pinches.

They also were battling against tradition, as the home team always has won since the series was inaugurated informally in 1926 with the British

McAfee Punches Heckler in Jaw; Indians Protest

Special to The Washington Post.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 27.—A battle between Bill McAfee and a colored fan, under the grandstand immediately following the Indians-Nats game today resulted in a one-punch victory for the Washington pitcher. Tonight the Cleveland club reported the incident to President Will Harridge, of the American League.

The fan, known only as "Baltimore" to Washington players, has long been recognized as a persistent heckler of visiting clubs, taking up a position near the bull pen. Today, he was "riding" McAfee while the latter was warming up.

As the players filed to the dugout after the game the fan continued to heap abuse on McAfee, according to the Washington pitcher. He entered the dressing room and made his way to the runway under the stands where he met up with "Baltimore." McAfee struck the Negro in the jaw. Police promptly escorted the fan from the park.

With the matter now in the hands of President Harridge, the decision hinges on whether McAfee can be penalized for striking a spectator in accordance with the league rules or whether the fact that the game was over and the attack occurred in the runway would be construed as a mitigating circumstance. Harridge is expected to take action promptly on the Cleveland club's charges.

Sharkey 6-5 Favorite as Bout Nears

Champ and Carnera Complete Work for Bout Tomorrow.

By Edward J. Neil.

NEW YORK, June 27 (A.P.).—Two months of the monotonous grind of training ended today for Champion Jack Sharkey and his heavyweight title challenger, Primo Carnera, leaving only the longest stretch of all—the nerve-tearing wait for the starting bell in the big Madison Square bowl on Long Island Thursday night.

Sharkey, getting along in years fistically, feeling more and more the rigors of conditioning that grow increasingly exacting for him with each campaign, closed out the last drill in his camp at Orangeburg with the same gusto that sweeps a football team the day it burns the tackling dummy before the final game.

He sharpened his eyes for the last time with four rounds at the small bag, shadow boxed three more, then grabbed his robe and towel and raced gleefully for his dressing room.

In Great Shape, Says Sharkey.

"I'm in great shape," he called to the handful of spectators at his final workout. "Be sure and tell Carnera that he'd better be the same."

Sharkey plans to come leisurely to

4 Walks in 9th Inning Force Over Deciding Run To Climax Tribe's Rallies

New York Gains Full Game by Defeating Tigers, 9-8.

Chapman, Combs and Lazzeri Hit Homers for Yankees.

McAfee and Russell Go Wild After Rout of Al Thomas.

3-Run Lead Wasted; Cronin Hits Triple and Double.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Sports Editor of The Post).

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, Cleveland, Ohio, June 27. The Nats' eight-game winning streak went sour this afternoon in the ninth inning when the Washington pitchers found themselves in a fine pickle.

The Indians adopted a policy of watchful waiting in the ninth and they watched and waited with such careful attention to such details as balls and strikes that their patience was finally rewarded with four walks, a run forced in, and the ball game, 7 to 6.

It seems that Washington was in possession of a fairly comfortable 6-5 lead going into the ninth, although the Indians had gone on the warpath to the extent of two runs in the eighth to put themselves back in the ball game. And then the Washington pitching exploded with a bang heard from here to there and back again, after which the Nats' winning streak was no more.

McAfee, Russell Chief Culprits.

Bill McAfee and Jack Russell, the bell cows of the Nats' relief corps, were the chief culprits in the ninth inning debacle that permitted the winning Yanks to slash a full game off the Nats' lead which is now reduced to one game.

The upshot of the matter was that with the bases full and two out, Russell couldn't locate the plate against Willie Kamm and walked him on five pitches to seal the sad fate of the Nats just when it seemed that he was going to pull out of the yawning abyss of defeat.

McAfee had relieved Al Thomas in the eighth and escaped with two runs scored, but when he walked Pinch-Hitter Porter to start the ninth and then pitched two straight balls to Galatzer, Manager Cronin suspected that he was doing the Nats no good and drafted Russell from the bull pen. Russell completed the job of walking Galatzer to put the winning run on base.

Then ensued a battle of managerial wits between the youthful Cronin and his former boss, Walter Johnson, now the Tribal chieftain.

Boss, Ex-Nat, Singles Home Run.

Under Johnson's orders, Cissell sacrificed, putting runners on second and third. And then Harley Boss, the former property of the Nats at Chattanooga, rose up to plague them with his third hit of the day, a single that dropped at Manush's shoe tops, scoring Pytlak, who was running for Porter, with the tying run, and putting Galatzer on third.

Thereupon Cronin ordered Averill walked to fill the bases and then called his outfielders closer, inasmuch

BRAVES BEAT CARDS, 1-0, ON 3 HITS

Error by Durocher Paves Way for Only Run of Game.

BOSTON, June 27 (A.P.).—Although held to three hits by Bill Walker, the Boston Braves today managed to nose out the St. Louis Cardinals, 1-0, in the series opener.

Leo Mangum, used as a relief pitcher most of the season, went the entire distance for the Tribe. He was knicked for six safeties, four of them of the scratch variety.

The Braves pushed over their big run in the fifth inning. With one out, Hal Lee grounded to Leo Durocher and gained first when the Cards' shortstop booted the hard-hit ball.

17TH BY FOXX FAILS TO WIN FOR A'S

White Sox Cash in on Passes by Cain to Score, 8 to 3.

CHICAGO, June 27 (A.P.).—Converting four passes issued by Merritt Cain into runs in the second inning, the White Sox went on to an 8-to-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics today to even the series at 2-all.

Walter Miller and the veteran Red Faber hurled for the Sox and although giving up 11 hits, the same number the Chicagoans got off a quartet of Philadelphia pitchers, were more effective in pinches.

Foxx Hits 17th to Tie Gehrig for Lead.

One of the hits off Miller was a home run by Foxx with none on in the fourth inning. It was the Philadelphia first baseman's seventeenth circuit clout of the season and tied him with Lou Gehrig for the major league leadership in that department.

Al Simmons led the Sox attack against his old mates with a double and two singles.

WATCH HIM CAPTURES FEATURE RACE AT ARLINGTON PARK

Hertz Racer Scores by a Neck

Snapback Is Second, With Big Beau, Favorite, Third.

Herowin, 8-1, Scores Handily at Aqueduct Track.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., June 27 (A.P.).—Watch Him, racing in the colors of Mrs. John D. Hertz, of Chicago, galloped to victory today in the Barrington Purse, Arlington Park's feature, at one mile in the fast time of 1:36.

Jockey Earl Steffen rode the 4-year-old, son of Friar Wind—Watch Me, to score by a neck over the Brookmeade Stable's Snapback. Big Beau, the favorite, finished third.

Morsel set the early pace, but after going six furlongs faded out of the picture. Watch Him, in fifth position rounding into the stretch, gained on the leaders and got up to grab the prize by a narrow margin. Watch Him paid $6.88 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Herowin, 8-1, Wins Feature At Aqueduct.

Aqueduct Race Track, New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Herowin, an 8-to-1 shot, gave the B. B. Stable two winners in a row here this afternoon when he scampered home an easy winner of the Colonial Purse, 5-furlong dash for 2-year-olds, which topped the program. Trailing the victor by a good three lengths was the C. V. Whitney "circus pony," Rhadamanthus, a colt which no clocker would have trouble identifying, the spotted youngster having a liberal supply of white patches on his left side. The Dorwood Stable's Miss Merriment was beaten a half length for the place after going into the air at the break.

Herowin ran a classy race. He broke well, but dropped back almost immediately. Miss Merriment, despite her poor beginning, overtook Physician in the stretch, but being rushed up so fast took something out of her. Herowin made up ground with leaps and bounds from the eighth pole and won going away. Rhadamanthus closed plenty of ground to beat tired horses for the place.

Ding Bin, Choice, Scores At Latonia.

Latonia, Ky., June 27 (A.P.).—Two-year-olds again held the spotlight here this afternoon as ten juveniles competed in the Glencove Purse, principal offering of a rather mediocre offering.

The F. L. B. Stable's Ding Bin, a consistent performer at Chicago, was installed a staunch favorite and rewarded his backers by leading home Dixiana Stud's Spartan Lad by a length. Gilbert Elston, from the establishment of Mose Goldblatt, was third.

Fast Heels, an outsider, cut out the early pace, closely followed by Gilbert Elston and Ding Bin. Turning into the stretch run of the 5½ furlong dash, Fast Heels still held the lead, but gave way when challenged by Ding Bin. Spartan Lad came from far back to capture the place from the fast-tiring Gilbert Elston.

Ding Bin covered the 5½ furlongs in 1:07 3-5 and rewarded his backers at $6.78 for each $2 investment.

60-Day Entry Papers For Mexican Ringmen

El Paso, Tex., June 27 (A.P.).—"Baby Face" Casanova and Kid Azteca, Mexican bantam and welterweight boxing champions, respectively, formally were admitted to the United States here late today under 60-day temporary entry permits granted by the Department of Labor at Washington.

Both fighters, stopped here a week ago for investigation in connection with suspected violation of alien contract labor regulations, are expected to leave at noon tomorrow, by airplane, for Los Angeles. Both have fights lined up in the California city.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON PARK, JUNE 27.

Well friend, Mrs. Bennings' lovely boy is batting exactly .500 in the picking league. The meeting has been on for two days and Bill has eight winners to his credit. Five stepped down opening day and three today. The collection for this afternoon included: Gift of Roses, $3.66; Watch Him, $6.88, and Beau Jolie, $8.92. I can't promise to keep up that average, but, believe me pal, we're going to give them a battle. The horses will know they've been in a fight before we get rid of them. Went deep into the books tonight in an effort to dig up some paying propositions. I'm passing them along. BILL.

FIRST RACE—SIR TEN gets an inside post position and has as much chance of leaving the maiden ranks as anything in this race. SINGING WOOD should take care of the place award. The possible surprise is LIBERTY OAK, one that's better than rated.

SECOND RACE—Maidens also compete here and I'm going to POMPESITAN, a Pompey colt. The clockers report favorably on this one. EARNINGS and WACOCHE are slated to complete the money picture.

THIRD RACE—ROCK POINT was fairly sharp in Maryland and I'm giving him a chance to make good for me here at big odds. SKY HAVEN, scratched yesterday, with this race in mind, is the one to beat. TIMOROUS for the show end.

FOURTH RACE—HAPPY ANNE is a speedy filly and battles it out on occasions. I have reason to believe that she is being sent for a load of the main dough tomorrow. Ask no questions. LERACK, in present form, is dangerous. SURETY, one that was played heavily in some races, may wake up to take the show.

FIFTH RACE—DARTLE was a good youngster in Florida last winter and is reported in top form again. NEW DEAL is keen and ready to run a fast race. Must be beaten. SUNADOR for the rest.

SIXTH RACE—JUNGLE KING has established a high position among the season's 3-year-olds and gets the Denning's call in this mile. MISGUIDE is now on edge and will be ready to give the top one a battle. ESSEFF is the sleeper.

SEVENTH RACE—CRAP SHOOTER will draw Eddie Steffen as the rider today and I look for a different kind of race. STRIDEAWAY and NORTHGALIS seem most likely to cause trouble.

EIGHTH RACE—The fast finishers will have their fling in the final. I look for ENGLEWOOD and BATTY to fight it out in the order named. BELGIAN LASS to take care of the others.

Carnera and Sharkey in Condition

Primo to Have Pull of 60 Pounds; Advance Sale $65,000.

New York either tonight or tomorrow and hide away in an uptown hotel, slipping out occasionally to a movie or for a walk to loosen his muscles. He weighed 209 pounds after his rubdown today and expects to weigh in at the boxing commission offices at 204 or 205 at 2 p. m. Thursday.

Carnera, who will outweigh the champion by about 60 pounds, in addition to enormous advantages in height and reach, was in the midst of a slugging match with Arthur Huttick at his camp on Pompton Lakes, N. J., when his manager, Bill Duffy, jumped between them and hollered "time."

The huge Italian, who had already fought two ruonds with Harold Mays and another with Huttick, wanted to keep going.

"Nothing doing," said Duffy. "You're on edge. Hold it."

Carnera Pounds Away At Bag.

Carnera took a few dozen belts at a 50-pound bag to show his displeasure and then trundled off to his quarters, through with his training except for limbering up exercises tomorrow. He will stay at Pompton Lakes until time to drive into New York for the weighing in.

Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion, watched the Italian monster in his last drill.

"If he doesn't win the title Thursday night, he's certain to do so his next time out," said Burns. "He's the most amazing looking fighter I've ever seen."

While that may have been Burns' way of picking Sharkey to retain his title—and Tommy has been amazingly accurate predicting the outcome of major duels—the experts were less careful. Feeling reasonably certain that Sharkey's 400-mile drive to Boston and back Saturday had helped his training by ridding him of a lot of pent-up nervous energy, instead of injuring him, there was a slight preponderance of feeling in favor of the champion.

The betting odds about reflected the consensus, 6 to 5, in favor of Sharkey.

Misty humid weather, with a threat of rain, did little to aid the ticket sale for the match and a conservative guess seemed to be that barring an overwhelming rush to the windows the last day receipts would not exceed $250,000. The advance sale is about $65,000 now.

N. C. State Cancels G. W. Grid Game

Raleigh, June 27 (A.P.).—North Carolina State College's 1933 Thanksgiving Day football game with George Washington University has been canceled by that institution, Dr. A. J. Wilson, chairman of State's faculty athletic council, said tonight.

Dr. Wilson said the game was canceled because George Washington refused to play under Southern Conference rules.

THIS MORNING:

This Milt Galatzer, the rookie outfielder from Toledo, is putting himself in solid here. His home run to right field was a smashing blow that struck the 2-inch foul line pole high up and squarely in the middle for an automatic circuit clout.

Buddy Myer contributed the fielding gem of the afternoon when he went back of second base for Burnett's hard smash and threw him out while back on his heels.

When the Nats had a 6-3 lead in the eighth, half of their runs were unearned, being the contributions of Knickerbocker and Cissell, who discovered that grounders by Thomas and Bluege weren't there when they tried to field 'em.

Cleveland is the city in the circuit most disliked by Dave Harris. The Tribe has no left-handed pitchers, and where there are no left-handed pitchers there will be no Dave Harris, according to the plans of Manager Cronin, who has followed with great disgust Dave's futile efforts against right-handed pitching.

Cronin will feed the Indians some more southpaw pitching tomorrow in the person of Walter Stewart, inasmuch as the memory of Whitehill and Burke, who allowed the Indians one run in Sunday's double-header, is still quite fresh in mind.

The Nats' only consolation this evening is that tomorrow they do not have to face either Ferrell, Hildebrand or Harder. From here, it looks like Clint Brown.

McLEAN NINE AMBITIOUS.

The McLean A. C. wants a game for Sunday and a double-header for the Fourth of July with strong unlimited teams, all games to be played on its new field. Call Manager Clarke at Falls Church 828-F-31 after 6:30 p. m.

NEE, WASHINGTON YOUTH, WINS SCHOLASTIC GOLF MEDAL

Georgetown Prep's Star Adds 79

Special to The Washington Post.

GREENWICH COUNTRY CLUB, Greenwich, Conn., June 27.—While the opening day's pacesetter, Sidney Carson, of Kiski Prep, folded up badly, Maury Nee, 17-year-old Georgetown Prep athlete, managed to recover sufficiently here this afternoon to grind out a 79 in the final 18-hole round and capture the medal championship in the Eastern interscholastic tournament.

Nee finished the two-day grind with a 155 total, one above Alec Gerard, of Peddie, and Jack Munger, of Hill School, and 3 strokes in front of Carson, whose brilliant 73 on Monday was blotched with the addition of his poor 85 today.

Billy Dettweiler, Nee's teammate, blew up and took an 86. This added to his 76 of the first day, gave him a 162, and qualified him for match play in the championship flight, beginning tomorrow. Dettweiler tied for eighth place.

Allan Fails to Make Grade.

The remaining Georgetown Prep entries failed to make the grade. Frank Allan, Maryland Scholastic champion, and captain of the National Capital team, was way off form, shooting an 86. Jimmy Ferguson, with an 85, bettered his opening day's score by 3 shots.

These two youngsters with Nee, the medalist, and Dettweiler, made a game, but futile bid for the team championship, but finished in second place, 17 strokes behind the championship Kiski Prep, of Pittsburgh. The Smokey City quartet set a new tournament record with a 642. Choate School was third with 665 and Lawrenceville, the defending team champions, fourth with 668.

Nee's medal-winning round was featured by good and spotty golf. Over par on 7 holes, he collected a birdie 4 on the long par fourteenth. Out in 40, Nee came home in 39 to finish 8 shots above par.

Dettweiler was 9 over on the first nine and 5 over on the second. Out of bounds numerous times, the Georgetown Prep entry was wild off the tee, and his short game saved him from complete disaster.

Nee Favored in Matches Today.

Match play tomorrow for the individual championship finds Nee the big favorite. The medalist meets Foster Meyer, of Kiski, in his first match, while Dettweiler engages Charles Munson, of Taft Prep.

In the second flight, Allan meets Allan Thompson, of Peddie; Ferguson faces Bill Stevens, of Hotchkins. In the third flight Jack Sewell, of Georgetown Prep, opposes James Brown, of Andover.

Western Golfwomen Stage 23-Hole Match

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—A 23-hole overtime match, won by Mrs. Robert Bullard, of Springfield, Ill., over Florence McCoy, of Chicago, featured the first round struggles of the women's Western Open golf championship at Olympia Fields today. All favorites, including the defending champion, Jane Weiller, of Chicago, were victorious.

Jane Weiller, of Chicago, opened defense of her women's Western Open golf championship with a hard-earned 1 up victory over Mrs. John Taylor, Evanston, Ill. The match was decided on the eighteenth green where the champion hit a spectacular shot out of the rough to win.

June Beebe, Chicago medalist, won an easy 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago. Mrs. Mida, one of Chicago's best known campaigners, was victimized by a stubborn putter throughout the match.

JOE SAVOLDI WINNER.

New York, June 27 (A.P.).—Joe Savoldi, 200, of three Oaks, Mich., threw Roland Kirschmeyer, 218, Oklahoma, after 32 minutes and 36 seconds of grappling in the feature wrestling bout at the Coliseum tonight.

R STREET SLUGGERS WIN.

The R Street Sluggers scored a 7-3 victory over the W Street Tigers in a well-played game yesterday. Kingery hurled for the winners and Richard, Jerome and Smith led the attack.

Crowder to Join World Fair Team

"General" Al Crowder, Nats' pitching ace, will show his wares in the Chicago World's Fair game between stars of the American and National Leagues on July 6 after all.

When his name, along with that of Manager Joe Cronin's, appeared on the list of those named by League Head Harridge to represent the junior circuit, Clark Griffith, Nat owner, immediately put his foot down as regards Crowder. "He's been complaining of a sore arm and, with my team in the thick of a pennant fight, I'm not going to have Crowder doing any extra pitching," said Griffith.

But the Nat owned changed his mind last night when both Crowder and Manager Cronin put in a long-distance call from Cleveland to ask for reconsideration. Crowder pleaded and Cronin "yessed" him, the result being that the "general" will be among those present on the American League bench when the umps yell "Play ball"—or whatever it is they yell.

Lieut. Fenno Named Navy Baseball Coach

Annapolis, Md., June 27.—That officials of the Naval Academy apparently are satisfied with the graduate system of baseball coaching inaugurated last season, was indicated today with the announcement by the Navy Athletic Association that Lieut. Frank B. Fenno, has been appointed head coach for the 1934 season.

Lieut. Fenno was assistant to Lieut. A. K. Doyle during the late season. The latter has been transferred to sea duty, his period of shore assignment having expired. Fenno played center field on the team a dozen years ago, and was one of the strongest hitters. His ability as a coach was demonstrated under Doyle.

Dodgers Pound Ball To Rout Reds, 11 to 2

Brooklyn, June 27 (A.P.).—The Dodgers opened with a terrific batting raid today and drove Silas Johnson to cover in two innings to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 11 to 2. Johnson was nicked for five hits and as many runs before he retired and Ray Kolp also was hit hard for a while.

Ray Benge took advantage of the clouting to coast to his sixth straight victory. He yielded ten hits, scattered through eight innings. Jim Bottomley made three of them. Joe Stripp led the Dodger assault with a triple, double and single.

3d Association Pilot Banned by President

Chicago, June 27 (A.P.).—President Thomas Jefferson Hickey has declared an open season on American Association managers and players guilty of umpire baiting.

For the third time within a week President Hickey today indefinitely suspended a manager in the league for using strong language in disputing an umpire's decision. Today's victim was Manager Nick Allen, of Kansas City, who became enraged at Minneapolis yesterday at a decision.

Last Tuesday, Hickey suspended Manager Ray Blades and Catcher Bill Delancey on the same charge. Yesterday, he indefinitely barred manager Bruno Betzel, of Louisville.

Mangan and Charest in Victories

Latona Also Triumphs in District Tourney Tennis Matches.

TWO veterans, whose names have been linked with the favorite stars, and a youngster with championship aspirations, forged into the quarter finals of the District of Columbia tennis tournament yesterday at Army and Navy Country Club's courts.

The most remarkable player of the trio, Clarence Charest, who won the 1932 national veterans' singles title the same day Ellsworth Vines captured the American crown, continued his methodical plugging with an easy, 6—2, 6—0, victory over W. Bostrom, the Swedish minister, the one-armed star removing the only foreign threat in the competition.

Tom Mangan followed Charest into the fourth round by brushing aside Dean Judd, 6—3, 7—5. Mangan missed numerous shots in the second set, but unraveled strong finishing powers.

Major Dorst Beaten.

Anthony Latona, local prep school athlete, polished off Maj. J. A. Dorst handily, 6—1, 6—1, showing versatility in many departments of the game in his victory.

Each of the winners waited until the rain had ceased yesterday evening before playing their matches. Charles Blanchard was leading Harvey Lake, 6—3, when rain snapped their efforts. They did not resume play, but will go at it today.

Rain played havoc with several feature singles and doubles matches, particularly the much-looked-for battle between Gwyn King and Dooly Mitchell, rivals since schoolboy days, and doubles partners in the present conflict. They are slated to meet at 5 o'clock.

In the only doubles match of the day Gilbert Hunt and Jock McLean teamed to defeat Hugh Trigg and Stoddard Johnson, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4. After a bit of loafing in the first set, Hunt and McLean settled down to business to capture the remaining two.

SINGLES.

Third round—4:00, Lake vs. Blanchard; 5:00, King vs. Mitchell; Hermann vs. Staubley; 4:30, Deck vs. Shore; 5:30, Hunt vs. Blade.

DOUBLES.

Second round—3:00, Hunt and McLean vs. Stone and Bostrom; 5:15, Gould and Garnett vs. Loney and Haney; 6:00, Deck and O'Neill vs. Hill and Ritzenberg. Dorst and Blade vs. Ballard and Dumas, Mangan and Graves vs. Moorehead and Doyle.

Baltimore Match To Mrs. Martinez

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 27.—Mrs. Ruth Martinez was the only District tennis player who survived the third round of the Maryland State singles tournament at the Baltimore Country Club today.

Mrs. Martinez, ranked third, advanced to the quarter-finals by defeating a District companion, Mrs. Dorette Miller, 6—1, 6—2.

Frances Walker, of Washington was eliminated by Cary Mason, of Baltimore, by 7—5, 6—4. The other District entries who fell by the wayside were Abbie Sard, City of Washington champion, who bowed to Edwina Cruikshank, of New York, 6—3, 6—2; Alice Rose, who lost a pair of love sets to Mrs. D. Hopkins, of Baltimore, and Marion Butler, who was defeated by Mrs. Laurison Riggs, of Baltimore, 6—4, 6—4.

The seeded women held their own in the tournament. Women's and mixed doubles will begin tomorrow.

Tri-State Racqueters Enter Third Round

Cincinnati, June 27 (A.P.).—Arriving a day late for the thirty-third annual tri-State tennis tournament, Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., eliminated Richard Uible, of Cincinnati, 6—1, 6—3, today.

In second round contests, Wilbur Hess, of Fort Worth, Tex., defeated Bryan Huffman, of Cincinnati, 6—4, 6—2; "Lefty" Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., eliminated Warren Roos, of Cincinnati, 6—1, 6—1, and Dick Covington, of Asheville, N. C., defeated John Lurhman, of Cincinnati, 6—2, 6—1.

National Net Stars Will Invade

Louise Hofneister Is Among Group; Play Opens Sunday.

ASSURANCE that Louise Hofneister, of Chicago, defending champion, and five feminine stars of the East would come down to participate in the District of Columbia's women's tennis tournament which opens Sunday at the Columbia Country Club was received last night by the tournament committee, headed by Mrs. Dorette Miller.

In addition to Mrs. Hofneister, others who have definitely decided to enter are Charlotte Darling, Mrs. Harrison Smith, Marion Crozer and Allaine Crozer, all of Philadelphia, and Reba Kirson, of Baltimore, former City of Washington title holder.

Mrs. Thompson May Compete.

There is a strong possibility that before the battle begins Mrs. DeLloyd Thompson, of Pittsburgh, former Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia champion, ranked No. 1, will be a contender. She has tentatively agreed to take part, as have Mrs. Laurison Riggs and Mary Clare Cottman, both of Baltimore.

The Nation's Capital will be represented by all of its luminaries, outstanding among whom are Ruth Martinez, Miss Frances Walker, Abbie Sard, Marion Butler, Alice Rose and Mrs. Dorette Miller.

Entries should be sent to Mrs. Miller at 2918 Eighteenth street northwest. She may be reached by phone at Adams 6829.

Mrs. Gross Leads Capital Golfwomen

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 27.—Mrs. J. F. Gross, of Indian Spring, set the pace today for the District women golfers, entered in the two-day Baltimore Country Club invitation tournament over the Five Farms course.

She was within five shots of the medal leader, Mrs. Jerome Sloman, of Suburban, and one stroke behind the low net leader in class A, Mrs. A. Herman Stump, of Green Spring Valley.

Mrs. Gross negotiated the stiff layout in 94. This, with her 15 handicap, gave her a 79 net. Mrs. Sloman, Gibson Island and Baltimore district champion, the only woman in a field of 75 to crack 90, carded an 89—10—79, while Mrs. Stump posted a 94—16—78.

Mrs. Jerome Meyer, of Woodmont Country Club, finished with 97—10—87, while the three other District contestants soared over the 100 mark. Mrs. Don Scott, of Indian Spring, had 102—9—93; Mrs. Joseph Dowdall, of Congressional, 106—11—95, and Mrs. H. A. Knox, of Congressional, 104—12—92.

The tournament will be completed with eighteen holes tomorrow.

Girls' Championship Golf Draws Slim But Star Field

A SKELETON field, featuring Washington's three young feminine stars—Virginia Pope, of Kenwood; Virginia Williams, of Congressional, and Helen Dettweiler, of Manor—will vie for honors in the 36-hole District women's junior championship tomorrow and Friday over the Columbia Country Club course.

Miss Pope is the defending champion. She won the title last year in a battle with Miss Williams at Woodmont. Since then a new star has arisen on the horizon in the person of Miss Dettweiler, who has made meteoric progress since taking up the game a little more than a year ago. Miss Dettweiler, 18, reached the finals of the recent District championship at Kenwood, losing to Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes by 7 and 5.

Virginia Pope, however, carried Mrs. Haynes to the eighteenth green before bowing, 1 up, in a match that furnished the high explosives in the tournament.

Virginia Williams won the 1932 Star Cup and is a capable player. Her 91 in the District women's event was 1 shot shy of tying Mrs. Haynes and Mrs. Katherine May.

These three lassies are leaving no stone unturned in an effort to be in top form. Sandy Armour has been smoothing over the rough spots in Miss Williams' play; Al Treder has been working diligently with Miss Dettweiler and Al Houghton is assisting the champion.

Nellie May Neff, of Manor, has filed her entry.

Any girl not over 21 is eligible. Play will begin at 9:30. The entrance fee is $1. Entries should be sent either to Mrs. Douglas Tschiffely or Mrs. H. R. Quinter at Columbia.

Record 28-26 Game In Collegiate Tennis

Haverford, Pa., June 27 (A.P.). Establishing what officials said was a new record in a national tournament, Joseph Coughlin, of Stanford, and Julius Axelrod, Pennsylvania, played 54 games in one set of their third-round match in the intercollegiate tournament today. Coughlin finally won the match, 28—26, 6—1.

U. S. GOLFERS LOSE RYDER CUP MATCHES

hosts the victors. It has been contested formally four times since that year with each country twice victorious. Counting in the first informal matches Great Britain leads with three victories to two. The next series will be played in the United States two years from now.

Only Match to End on Final Green.

The Easterbrook-Shute match was the only one which carried to the final green for decision, but every one of the singles was closely fought. Shute's encounter just happened to be the next to the last one out and when Horton Smith ended his contest with Whitcombe on the thirty-fifth green the burden of victory or defeat was squarely on Shute.

The biggest surprise of all was the 9-to-8 defeat inflicted on Dutra by the veteran Mitchell. The gay caballero of the links caught the British veteran in one of his brilliant moods and, after taking a three-hole lead on the first ten holes of the match, then lost eight to be 5 down at lunch. When Mitchell started out in the afternoon by winning five of the first six holes played, Dutra had to say enough. The Californian, except for his wild streak on the second nine, was playing better golf than any of the others, except Hagen and Sarazen, but he could not compete with his 47-year-old opponent.

Sarazen, scoring the most decisive American victory, justified his lead-off position with a brilliant display. Right on his game, he always was just a little ahead of the methodical Padgham, one of Britain's newest stars, and served notice he was in good form for defense of his title at St. Andrews.

Hagen's Putting Touch Wins.

Hagen had his old wizardry around the greens, which just about explains his victory, and Wood played a general all-around game, making few mistakes and outlasting the "baby" of the English side.

Hagen will lead his teammates toward St. Andrews tomorrow where the British open will begin July 3.

Enthused by their success in turning back the threat of George T. Dunlap, jr., in the amateur at Southport last week and in the Ryder Cup matches yesterday and today, British golfdom is looking forward to a clean sweep and the first British victory in the open since Arthur Havens won in 1923.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl

THE revelation made to the Institute of Radio Engineers at Chicago of the invention of the "Iconoscope," which duplicates the human eye and which is believed to make the use of television in the home at last practical, is significant, to say the least. Especially when it is known that no less a person than Uncle Dave Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, is behind it.

This is probably what Mr. Sarnoff had up his sleeve and said he couldn't talk about at that time when he last visited Washington.

The inventor of the "Iconoscope" is Dr. Vladimir K. Zworykin. His idea was so revolutionary, involving an entirely new principle in television, eliminating all mechanical parts, such as scanning disks, motors, optical systems and similar devices now employed, that industrialists would have nothing to do with it.

The story is told by Orrin E. Dunlap, jr., how some one suggested that Mr. Sarnoff was the man to see in order "to sell" the idea. For half an hour Sarnoff listened intently to the magic tale.

"It's too good to be true," he replied. "What will it cost to develop the idea?"

"About $100,000," Zworykin answered.

"All right," said Mr. Sarnoff; "it's worth it."

The Y. M. C. A. Glee Club will make the air ring with melodies over WOL at 8 o'clock tonight.

ALTHOUGH it will be the first time he has ever faced a microphone over a national network (WJSV, 10 p. m.), we'll venture to say that Judge Sykes, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, will be as cool as a cucumber.

The only time we ever saw him get excited was years ago when a delegation came down here in behalf of WEVD, the Debs Memorial Station in New York. Norman Thomas, who was sitting in a spectator's seat, made some remark to the commission. Judge Sykes, who was presiding as he had formerly presided as chief justice of the Supreme Court of Mississippi, proceeded to address himself to Mr. Thomas.

Sparks flew from both directions, but after that the meeting continued to its conclusion without any further interruptions.

According to The Post sports department, the best in the city (adv.), the indications are, up to this writing, that the Sharkey-Carnera fight will not be broadcast. Station WOL will read fight bulletins beginning at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

Col. K. H. Berkeley has made an eleventh hour clearance in order to handle the Rotary International Convention from Boston this morning (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock).

Having produced musical numbers on everything from a washboard to a saw, the Corn Cob Pipe Club at Richmond now goes itself one better and announces a milk bottle solo. "Pop Goes the Weasel," as one of the featured numbers on the program to be heard over Station WRC at 9 o'clock.

NOTICING Strickland Gillilan's name at the head of the cast of the All-Star After Dinner Club (WJSV, 9:30 p. m.), sponsored by a well-known cheese manufacturer, a wag remarked to Gillilan that it made him think of Leigh Hunt's poem which does not say: "And Lo! Ben Edam's name led all the rest."

Radio Joe will have as his guest Oliver Hard, of the One Cent Cafeteria. (WMAL, 6:30 p. m.)

One Man's Family will not be heard over WRC at 8:30 tonight, but probably can be picked up over outside WEAF stations.

The presentation of the Guggenheim Award to Juan de la Cierva, inventor of the autogyro, will be broadcast over WRC at 10:30 a. m. from Soldier Field in Chicago. Senor de la Cierva's dramatic arrival at the field in one of the planes which his research made possible will be described, followed by his introduction to the chairman of award officers.

Nocholas Roosevelt, Minister to Hungary in the Hoover administration, who has just returned to this country, will warn Americans to keep their eyes on eastern Europe during the next few months when he speaks over WMAL, at 5 p. m.

"The Chocolate Soldier" will be revived in "Curtain Calls," with Charles Carlile and Rhoda Arnold, over WJSV, at 7:15 p. m.

The radio studios of Winthrop-Brown will originate the inaugural program of what has been titled "Radio Opportunity Night." This program will be broadcast through the facilities of WOL at 7:30 o'clock tonight and will offer the local talent of Washington an opportunity to demonstrate it's ability.

THE appearance of Robert B. Smith, of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, who writes the "97th Senator" in The Sunday Post, on the radio today (WRC, 5:30 o'clock), brings to mind this anecdote. "Red" Smith, as he is known to the trade, Don Macgregor and some others had just wound up covering the Cox Presidential campaign. The boys were sitting gloomily at breakfast in the hotel in Dayton the morning after election, for Cox had been overwhelmingly defeated.

In walked "Red" Smith. Giving a perfect imitation of Gov. Cox, he said:

"Good morning, gentlemen!"

"Good morning, Governor!" replied the newspaper correspondents, arising.

Then one of them said:

"Governor, have you any comment to make upon the election returns?"

"Yes," the 'Governor' replied: "Take this down. 'The people have spoken, but they need not have spoken so loudly.'"

A new series of weekly broadcasts by distinguished medical and public health leaders will be presented during the National Farm and Home Hour, beginning at 12:30 p. m., over WMAL. Dr. Fred O. Tonney, director of laboratories and research, Chicago Department of Health, will introduce the weekly periods.

GERTRUDE NIESEN, known as the "exotic personality of song," will be heard in a talking role when she is interviewed by Bob Taplinger on the "Meet the Artist," over WJSV at 5:00 p. m.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By Mark Barron.

New York—Since those hot afternoons when I drifted into the habit of dropping by the North River for a bon voyage cup of oolong with that doughty skipper, Cap'n Anderson, I've always found New York's waterfront an irresistible lure.

Cap'n Anderson is master of one of those rugged freighters that ply out of Manhattan into the tropics, into those banana ports where one encounters swift adventure and, mayhap, mysterious death.

Hulks of the Night.

You run into some sudden and upsetting characters over there around those Hudson River piers. It was the other night that I saw a packet boat of my acquaintance drift out to midstream and then I turned toward a nearby lunch counter, one of those cheap, countless number that you find over in that neighborhood.

A couple of stools away sat a nondescript, hulk of a fellow who undoubtedly was mostly Negro, with a dash of half a dozen nationalities thrown in.

No one had said anything, but he suddenly started talking aloud, obviously talking to the three or four of us huddled in there, yet seeming to talk to himself.

"I don't like New York," he said, and no one answered him and so he went on.

"I've shipped out of N'Orleans, been stranded in Caracas, had fever in Tampico, had a knife stuck in my back in Vera Cruz, thrown in jail in Havana, gone hungry in Boca Chica, swagged tankers out of Port Arthur, beach combed in Nassau—I've had tough luck in every port from Hatteras to Ain Sligh's in Martinique.

"I never complained about those, but I'm against New York. There's too much noise here, too much dirt, too much heat, too many cops, too many people, too many rules. I'm heading South tomorrow, and you'll never get me north of the Hatteras again. I don't even like New York as a port of call."

And Then Farewell.

With that he swung himself off the stool, tossed a coin on the counter and, with neither gesture nor word, disappeared in the outer darkness.

There's no moral to this story, unless you can pull one out for yourself from between the lines. It's just a simple incident that happened over there beyond Tenth avenue. Over there where deep sea sailors find themselves strangers on the biggest waterfront in the world.

Pranchot Tone comes from an extremely wealthy family.

All of the original Floradora girls are now happily married.

More and more sidewalk cafes are springing up around Manhattan. The first one to appear in Times Square is doing an overflow business.

Two Boys Reported Fugitives.

Two 10-year-old colored boys were fugitives from the Board of Public Welfare yesterday. They are Frank Branson and Peter Williams, missing from their foster home at 1045 Forty-eighth street northeast.

$250,000 Rock Creek Span to Be in Schedule

A new $250,000 bridge over Rock Creek at P street northwest will be included in the schedule of District public works to be financed with Federal funds, the District Commissioners have informed the Fine Arts Commission.

The bridge will be a part of the development of Rock Creek Parkway from the river to P street. This development already has begun, with the construction of a smaller bridge and the grading of a road from below Pennsylvania avenue to P street. The paving of the road, which will be done by the Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, will cost an additional $60,000.

TWO GIVEN POSTS ON COUNTY BOARD

Dr. George Edmonds and A. W. Souder Appointed in Montgomery.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie yesterday appointed Dr. George L. Edmonds, of Rockville, and Archie W. Souder, of Damascus, to be members of the board of county commissioners of Montgomery County, Md. County Commissioner Frank Ricketts, of Gaithersburg, yesterday tendered his resignation as a county commissioner to accept a post with the State roads commission.

Miss Lavinia Engle, member of the Maryland House of Delegates from Montgomery County, is slated to be appointed a member of the county board of education to assume Dr. Edmonds' place on the board. Miss Engle is an outstanding social worker of Maryland and is known nationally in her social work in connection with the League of Women Voters. She is a resident of Forest Glen.

Dr. Edmonds is chairman of the county delegation to the House of Delegates. He was appointed to the Board of Education in 1923, and has been reappointed twice. Dr. Edmonds, who is a well-known dentist in Washington, was born in Warrenton, Va., August 17, 1874 and attended school in Virginia and Washington. He was graduated from the school of dentistry of the National University of Medicine, which later became part of George Washington University. He moved to Rockville in 1901, and has resided there since that time. He served a term as member of the Town Council of Rockville in 1907.

Prominent in Masonry.

Dr. Edmonds is a member of the Christ Episcopal Church, Rockville, and has been prominent in Maryland Masonry for many years. He is a past grand master of the Grand Council of Maryland; past master of the Montgomery Lodge, 195; past high priest of James F. Allen Chapter; past thrice illustrious master of King Solomon's Council and past eminent commander of Montgomery Commandry. Dr. Edmonds succeeds Commissioner Frank Ricketts, resigned.

Mr. Souder has been a resident of Damascus since his birth 49 years ago. He is the son of P. B. and Emma Souder. He was educated in the public schools of Montgomery County and the Shenandoah Institute of Virginia. He is cashier of the Bank of Damascus and president of the Montgomery Government Club for Damascus. He has been a life-long Democrat and consistently has supported the Democratic organization in the county. He is married and has five daughters and is a member of Damascus M. E. Church. He succeeds the late Commissioner Sherwood Duvall, who died recently.

Commissioner Ricketts will assume a position as supervisor of county road maintenance for the upper district of Montgomery County, which is a part of the Frederick jurisdiction under District Engineer Linthicum, of the State Roads Commission. He will assume office July 1.

R. I. Phillips on Police Force.

Garner W. Duvall, son of the late County Commissioner Duvall, will be designated by Supervisor Ricketts to continue as foreman of county road maintenance in the Damascus-Clarksburg election district.

Robert I. Phillips, 7305 Arlington avenue, Woodmont, Md., was appointed yesterday by the Montgomery County Commissioners to fill the vacancy on the county police force caused by the death of Policeman Webb Hersperger, who was killed in an accident a week ago. He is 28 years old and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Phillips. His brother, Andrew W. Phillips, formerly was a member of the county force. Phillips, who is a member of the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department, probably will be assigned to the Bethesda substation.

Police Car Brings In Startled City Employe

"All Alexandria police cars look out for Joe Baume, assistant city engineer, and bring him to police headquarters," was a message broadcast yesterday afternoon just after the thunderstorm, on the District police radio. Speculation was rife as to why police were so eager to catch Mr. Baume, but—

When the police car arrived at headquarters, bringing the wondering Mr. Baume, he was informed that the storm had blown down a tree in the street, and his services were desired in its removal.

FAIRFAX SCHOOL JOB PRESENTS PROBLEM

Contractor Relinquishes Bid; Lack of Facilities in Fall Feared.

The school board of Fairfax County, Va., will meet this morning to consider what shall be done in regard to the erection of the new school center at Groveton on the Washington-Richmond highway 3 miles south of Alexandria. H. D. Moring, of Farmville, Va., who was awarded the contract to erect the new building, about two weeks ago, has notified Supt. Wilbert T. Woodson that he was relinquishing his bid and discontinuing work.

When the bids were awarded the School Board was given to understand that the school would be ready for occupancy about September 15, when the county schools will open for the term. Supt. Woodson was notified yesterday of the discontinuance of the work by Moring, who gave ill health as the reason and inclosing a certificate from his physician who forbade his working.

Supt. Woodson stated yesterday that he hopes a solution can be worked out so the new center, which is to take care of all elementary school children from Mount Vernon District, can be completed this fall.

It is probable that the bid of the next lowest bidder, J. H. Bennett, of Richmond, Va., will be given consideration today. State Architect Raymond V. Long and Bennett will attend the session this morning. It is hoped that the contract can be arranged so as to continue construction of the new building and avoid confusion this fall. To readvertise and call for new bids would require some time.

Moring had not executed bond to insure construction but had deposited $500 at the time he submitted his bid and this is being held pending action of the board today. Moring's bid was $23,897 while the bid of Bennett was $27,689.

Former Fire Chief Charged With Theft

Climaxing a two-year search, Prince Georges County police early yesterday arested Robert E. Mahoney, prominent Branchville, Md., citizen, on charges of larceny and nonsupport of his wife and four children.

Mahoney, former Government Printing Office employe and chief of the Branchville Fire Department, when arrested in Silver Hill, Md., by Policeman William E. Clifton, did not disclose where he had spent the intervening years.

At the time of his disappearance he was charged, in a warrant sworn by Mrs. Mahoney, with the theft of a diamond ring valued at $100. Another warrant charged him with nonsupport of his wife and children. He was released yesterday on $1,000 bond.

Liquor Raid Nets Arrest of 5 Men

Five men were arrested yesterday when Montgomery County, Md., police swooped down on a house at Seeks Corner in search of liquor. The police, led by Chief Alvie A. Moxley, found that most of the contents of a number of jars had been emptied when they arrived, but found enough to charge two men with possession of intoxicants.

Frank Moore, Silver Spring, Md., and George Clarke, 7075 Georgia avenue northwest, were charged with possession of intoxicating liquor with intent to sell before Justice of the Peace David Mears and were released on bond of $500 for their appearance in county police court July 11.

Three other men, said to be customers, were charged with disorderly conduct. They gave their names as George Barnes, Dale Wilson and Alfred Ray, jr., all of Silver Spring. They deposited collateral for their appearance in police court.

KEYS LEAVES POST AS COUNTY CLERK

Member of Maryland House of Delegates to Become Mt. Rainier Postmaster.

William F. Keys, 3616 Perry street, Mount Rainier, Md., county transfer clerk and auditor to the county commissioners of Prince Georges County, Md., resigned yesterday to accept the position as acting postmaster of Mount Rainier.

Keys, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates, will succeed Thomas W. Baldwin, who has been acting postmaster for the past several months. Keys will assume his duties July 1.

For approximately 29 years Keys has lived in the vicinity of Mount Rainier. For the past 16 years he has been a trustee of Brentwood School. Prominent in the Democratic circles of the county, he was elected councilman for the Fourth Ward of Brentwood in the last election.

After accepting his resignation the county commissioners named Mrs. Grover Cleveland Buck to succeed him. Other business to be brought up at the regular weekly session of the commissioners included the hearing of a delegation from Laurel, Branchville, Beltsville and Berwyn, which asked that the Edmunston road be extended from College Park to the Bowie road. The matter was taken under advisement.

Representatives of the County Welfare Board also appeared before the body to ask that the board be retained as a permanent organization. The organization was formed for the purpose of recruiting Civilian Conservation Corps men.

Arlington Streets May Be Renamed

The Arlington County Board last night held a public hearing on the plan to rename all streets in the county, but deferred action until its meeting on July 14. Monroe H. Dockett, head of a group which has been studying the renaming plan since March, 1932, outlined the proposal, pointing out its advantages. Considerable opposition was voiced to the plan, particularly as to the proposed changing of some streets to places.

The opponents contended that places and alleys were practically synonomous.

Harry A. Fellows, president of the county board, indicated that a vote would be taken on the proposal at the meeting on July 14.

The small attendance at the Windmill Hill ground is due to the fact that this was not opened until Friday of last week, and the foregoing figures are for only two days.

$7,707 Offer of Wreckers Saves Goverment $77,707

"A penny saved is a penny earned," and undoubtedly the same applies to $70,000. The larger sum, plus $7,707, went to the credit of Uncle Sam yesterday.

The architect of the Capitol, David Lynn, was allotted $70,000 with which to raze buildings where the Library of Congress annex will stand and to the west of the Capitol where the park area will be extended.

Yesterday Mr. Lynn opened the bids from the seven firms desiring the work. Six of them, he said, wanted varying sums of money. The seventh, the Heckinger Housewrecking Corporation, wanted to pay $7,707 for the privilege.

Although the bid was not officially awarded, Mr. Lynn said that the proffer of the Heckinger firm would be accepted—one of Capitol Hill's contributions toward budget balancing.

Arlington Branch For Seals Formed

Formation of an Arlington County branch of the Virginia Tuberculosis Association was decided upon at a group meeting last night at the courthouse.

Mrs. Norbert Melnick, county chairman of the Christmas seals sale committee, will name a committee to draft a set of by-laws and to name also a nominating committee. Both committees will report in September.

Miss Sula Fleeman, a field worker, pointed out that by creating a branch to the State association that the county will receive 80 per cent instead of 75 per cent of money from the sale of Christmas seals.

Moxley Is Elected Brentwood Mayor

Lloyd V. Moxley was elected mayor of Brentwood by a 40-vote margin, it was announced yesterday. Election returns which were the largest in the town's history gave Moxley 264 votes while his rival, William N. Mahaffey, councilman for the Third Ward, polled 224 votes.

Mr. Moxley, who succeeds Mayor James E. Sampson, who was not a candidate for reelection, will assume office Monday night for a two-year term.

Martin Oxyer received 95 votes to win over W. S. Crawford as councilman of the First Ward. James E. Dennary triumphed in the Second Ward race, polling 55 votes to 14 received by Hiram L. Wohlfarth. Elmer C. Helm was unopposed for reelection as town treasurer.

Changes in Street Names Again Up

The Alexandria Park and Planning Commission Monday night received suggestions for changes in the names of Alexandria streets, which will be used as a basis for recommendations to the city council. The only changes decided upon were that of Lee street, the old name of Water street to be restored, and Russel road, which is to be renamed Custis road.

Street names suggested included Adams, Bacon, Carlyle, Dalton, Fitzgerald, Herbert Leadbeater, Snowden and Warfield.

The matter of changing street names has been before the city council several times in the past, it being shown that many duplications exist, the same name being used, in some cases, for as many as three or four streets.

Young Democrats Receive Charter

John J. Galleher, of Leesburg, Va., State president of the Young Democrats, last night presented the recently organized Falls Church Club with a certificate of organization.

In his presentation address, Mr. Galleher commented on forecoming issues in the State stressing particularly the referendum on beer. He urged the club's whole-hearted support of party policies.

Representative Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, also addressed the meeting and stressed the need for party loyalty. James Duncan, chairman of the Alexandria Club, and James King, president of the Fairfax Club, made brief addresses.

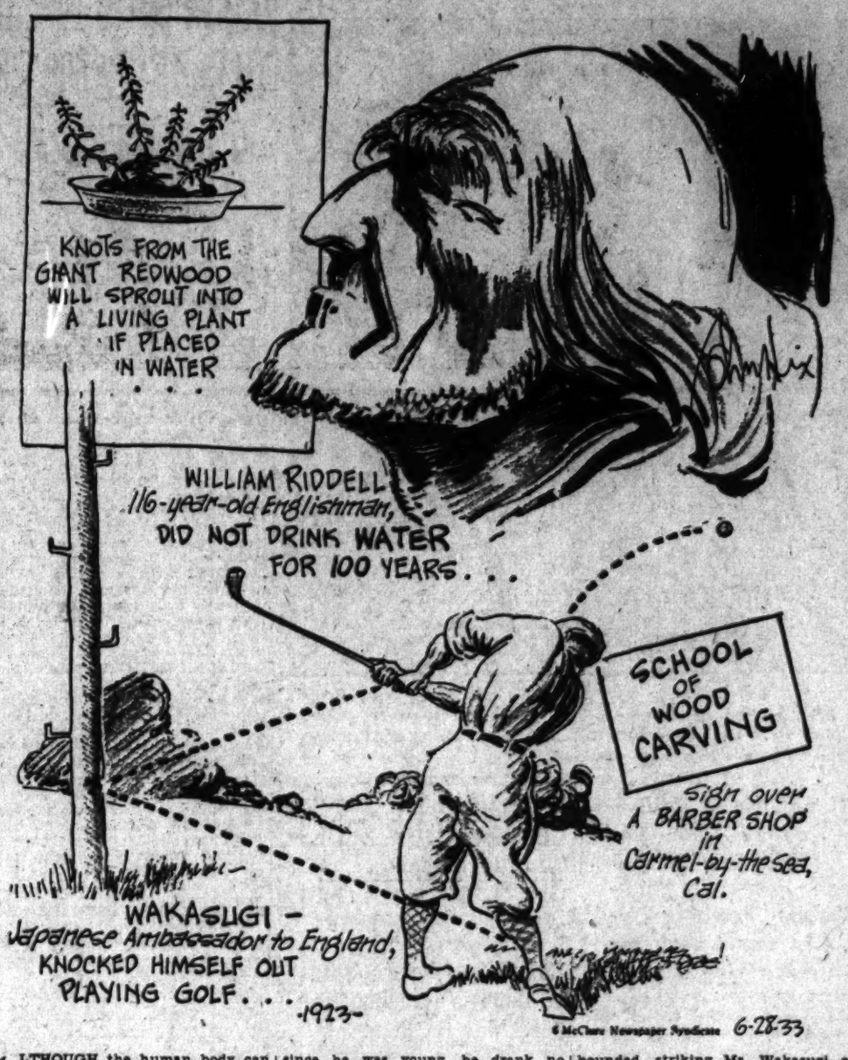
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix
For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



ALTHOUGH the human body can not go without water in some form, it is possible to live indefinitely without drinking water as such. That is to say, the amount of water in milk, beer, or even in fruits and vegetables can be utilized by the body if a person drinks no water. Some animals that feed on vegetation containing a high proportion of water never drink water.

Such was the case of old William Riddell, who died when he was 166 years old. For more than a century, since he was young, he drank no water. With him the dislike, even fear, of water was probably due to some strange mental quirk.

According to Dr. Logan Clendening, author and medical authority, Riddell early in life developed a dislike for water—and a taste for brandy.

Golf ordinarily is a game without much risk to the player unless he gets in the way of someone's ball, but Mr. Wakasugi, Japanese Ambassador to the Court of St. James, knocked himself out with his own drive. He drove the ball into a nearby telegraph pole. The ball rebounded, striking Mr. Wakasugi on the head.

Growing for centuries, the giant redwoods of California still retain their fruitfulness as evidenced by the fact that a knot from one of them will grow without soil or nourishment if placed in water. The knot, or burl, sprouts with long pale green shoots that grow several inches long. One of these strange plants was recently added to the Strange As It Seems studio museum, where it attracts much attention.

Tomorrow—New York's smallest show had the longest run.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

RECEIVER SOUGHT BY STOCKHOLDERS OF PARK SAVINGS

Ultimate Aim Is Statement of Assets and Liabilities of Institution.

A petition, asking the Comptroller of the Currency to appoint a receiver for the unlicensed Park Savings Bank is being circulated among the larger depositors of the closed institution.

As soon as a goodly number of the depositors have affixed their signatures to the petition, it is planned to ask the Comptroller of the Currency to act upon it. It is understood that many of the prominent business men of the Columbia Heights section have signed the request.

The aim of those seeking a receivership is to obtain a definite statement as to assets and liabilities of the bank, so that there may be something of a tangible nature upon which to base any plan for the bank's reorganization or its affiliation with the proposed new Hamilton National Bank.

Bank Affairs Chaotic.

The affairs of the bank have been chaotic since the bank moratorium and the subsequent revelation that Laurence Stunz, former official of the bank who committed suicide, had embezzled about $1,700,000 of the bank's funds.

Dr. Wade H. Atkinson, chairman of the stockholders committee and a member of the board of directors of the bank, said the stockholders believe that through the appointment of a receiver the way would be opened for some effective plan of reorganization.

The bank, which has 14,000 depositors most of whom live in the Columbia Heights section, has been under the direction of a conservator since it failed to receive a license to resume operation after President Roosevelt's bank holiday.

Results of a poll of depositors having the larger amounts at the bank as made public at a stockholders' meeting last night showed: 70 per cent wanted a bank on the same site and were willing to cooperate in either a reorganizatoin or a merger; to another question 55 per cent responded that they favored a newly organized bank, while another large group wanted the bank reopened as a branch of a larger bank.

Directors Plan Poll.

The directors and stockholders of the bank are planning a poll of the 14,000 depositors to get their suggestions for the reopening of the institutions as either an affiliate of the new Hamilton Bank; as a new independent bank, or as a branch of a larger bank.

One of the difficulties now confronting the conservator is the numerous disputes of claims, both for and against the bank, which have come to light since it was disclosed that Stunz had made many unsecured loans and had accepted many worthless notes.

Chevy Chase School Boys Take Up Ancient Art of Training of Falcons

Three Birds Ready for Hunting After Long "Schooling" Period.

Patient Teaching Needed in Preparation for Pursuing Game.

Leaves from Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe" and "Quentin Durward" are being turned back out in Chevy Chase, where about fifteen high school boys have taken up the training of hunting falcons.

This medieval pastime has become almost a lost art in modern times, but James Starkly, 17, of 11 E. Irving street northwest, and Wilbur Mead, 17, of 3239 Rittenhouse street northwest, have raised and trained three broad-tailed hawks from babyhood and have them almost ready for hunting.

The largest of the hawks composing the "Zilch family" has a wingspread of about 3 feet. The birds are beautifully colored, brown and white with spots of red. Two are of the red-tailed type and one has red shoulders.

Their homes are perches in the lovely grounds of Wilbur's home. Each hawk is tied to the perch by a leash attached to straps on the legs.

Although one of the hawks will attack any small animal or bird viciously, they are completely tame as far as human beings are concerned and will not harm a man with their bills.

The birds are not genuine falcons in the sense that they can only be trained to hunt rabbit, squirrel and other animals on the ground. A falcon or duck-hawk is somewhat larger and will attack birds in flight.

The boys found the hawks beyond Rockville on the Poolesville road about two months ago, when they were just nestlings, and have trained them carefully since. They have now reached full growth.

Two methods are used in the early stages of training the birds to attack game. They are known as the "fist" method and "lure" method.

In the fist method one of the boys persuades the hawk to swoop at a piece of meat or a dead sparrow held in his fist, increasing the distance gradually.

A bright object attached to a piece of string is used as a "lure" in the other method. This is swung around to attract the bird's attention, and he is trained to swoop at it when it strikes the ground.

When the boys eventually start hunting with the hawks, one of these methods will be used to bring a bird back to roost after it has been turned loose from the leash to make a kill.

Their sharp claws present the most danger to a man and the boys wear heavy gloves on the hands, with which they handle the pets.

MELTING ICE LEADS TO FINDING OF BODY

Mrs. Nicolaides Died on Bed, With Fan in Hand, Heart Attack Victim.

A cake of ice slowly melted at the apartment door of Mrs. Louise Nicolaides. A group of residents in the building at 1915 K street northwest, late yesterday gathered in a hallway outside her apartment. Conversation was carried on in whispers.

A man pushed his way through the crowded hall and inserted a key in the apartment door. He was Robert J. Allen, manager of the house. The crowd pressed forward. Allen entered. In a bedroom, seated on the edge of a bed with a fan in her hand was Mrs. Nicolaides. She was dead.

An Emergency Hospital physician said death came more than 48 hours before. Neighbors recalled that the elderly woman—she was 68—had not been seen since last Sunday.

Police called her son, P. J. Nicolaides, a Washington attorney, of 3915 McKinley street northwest. He said his mother apparently suffered a heart attack brought on by the heat.

Mrs. Nicolaides operated an antique shop at 918 Seventeenth street northwest. She left there as usual at closing time Saturday. She lived alone in the apartment.

Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald ordered the body removed to the Morgue. An autopsy will be performed to determine the exact cause of death.

Mrs. Nicolaides was born in Saratoga, N. Y. She had lived here for more than 45 years. Besides her son she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Atalanta Homer, of New Hampshire, and another son, Kimon, of New York City.

Arthur Carr Bequeaths Bulk of Estate to Wife

Arthur Carr, prominent real estate operator, who died at his residence, 5053 Massachusetts avenue northwest, several days ago, left the bulk of his $77,424 estate to his widow, it was disclosed in District Supreme Court yesterday when his will was filed for probate.

Real estate assessed at $42,792 and personal property valued at $34,632 comprised the estate. The four children who survive Mr. Carr are given $2,000 each. They are William A., Oliver T., Robert B. and Grace L. Carr. Stock in the Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty corporation was left to Esther Stern, Mr. Carr's assistant.

Gotwals Reopens School Site Deal

Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals yesterday afternoon reopened negotiations with representatives of Johnson & Wimsatt, Inc., regarding the purchase of the site of the Jefferson Junior High School as a result of the action of the District Court of Appeals in upholding the right of the District Commissioners to abandon condemnation proceedings against the land.

Unless the deal is consummated before Saturday, it will be delayed until Congress reconvenes, and the authorized construction of the school will probably be stricken from the public works list to be submitted to the National Recovery Administration. Because of prolonged litigation over the purchase, the District has but $75,000 left to purchase the remainder of the site.

Commissioner Gotwals said that he has made what he considers a fair offer to buy the 19,000 square feet unowned by the District in the block bounded by Seventh, Eighth, H and I streets southwest. While this block does not cover the original site contemplated, it will be adequate for the school construction, Maj. Gotwals said.

Curley Club Sets Dates for Retreat

Using the Holy Year as a motif, the Curley Club of Washington will hold its annual spiritual retreat at Manresa-on-the-Severn, overlooking the Naval Academy, at Annapolis, from July 28 to July 30. The Rev. Ferdinand Schoberg, S. J., will conduct the services. More than 60 members of the club will take part in this spiritual exercise.

Because of the significance of the retreat this year, it is not limited to men of the Curley Club, but is open to Catholic and non-Catholic men in general. Headquarters for registration have been established by the Curley Club at the Continental Hotel.

Francis Anthony McCann, secretary of the Washington Holy Name Union, has been appointed general chairman of the Curley Club retreat committee. Mr. McCann is being assisted by Roland Joseph Hyland, John L. Donnelly, John B. Townshend, William E. Exner, James P. O'Connell, Silvio H. Poli, William J. Boyd, A. J. Agricola, Luke O'Reilly and Joseph Mitchell Day.

ANALYSIS OF ASSETS OF BANKS IS NEAR

8 of 13 Buildings Used by Units in Hamilton Plan May Be Retained.

Analysis of assets of eight restricted local banks forming the proposed Hamilton National Bank of Washington, is practically completed, Edwin G. Graham, selected president of the prospective institution, said last night, following a meeting of the new bank's organization committee. Mr. Graham reminded, however, that considerable time may be required by the conservators of these institutions in adjusting their assets for transfer to the new bank. Eight of 13 buildings used by these banks may be retained as branches of the prospective institution, it was announced following the meeting.

While the subcommittee on branches for the new bank has not decided finally whether all of these can be held, it now contemplates holding, if possible, the following buildings as branches, in addition to the main office of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., at Fourteenth and G streets northwest, which will be the main office of the coming Hamilton National Bank: Three of four branches of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., one at Dupont Circle and Connecticut avenue, one at Twelfth and Newton streets northeast, in Brookland and a third at Twentieth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

List to Be Given Up.

The remaining five, retention of which is now contemplated, are the banking houses of Potomac Savings Bank at Wisconsin avenue and M street northwest, in Georgetown; Northeast Savings Bank at Eighth and H streets northeast; Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank at 2027 Rhode Island avenue northeast; Seventh Street Savings Bank at Seventh and N streets northwest, and United States Savings Bank at Fourteenth and U streets northwest.

The committee has decided definitely to relinquish the following five buildings of banks committed to the Hamilton National Bank plan: The main office of District National Bank at 1406 G street northwest; its two branch offices at 939 Ninth street northwest and at Connecticut avenue and K streets northwest; the branch office of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., formerly the banking house of Merchants Bank & Trust Co. at Fifteenth and H streets northwest and the banking house of Washington Savings Bank at Tenth street and Grant place northwest.

Claim Filing Slow.

It was reported yesterday that depositors of Commercial National Bank, in receivership, may expect an earlier initial dividend if a sufficient number of them file their claims as soon as possible. Filing of claims has been slow under the 90-day limit announced June 1, but if the response is prompt enough to increase the amount of claims to 70 per cent of the claimants, it is believed, arrangements may be made to pay a first dividend then.

The Washington Board of Trade has purchased $1,000 stock in the new bank, it was announced last night following a meeting of the executive committee of the board.

The board also adopted a resolution expressing confidence in the stability of the bank and pointing out the desirability of united effort as a civic duty on the part of Washingtonians to get the bank open and to release the $10,000,000 frozen assets. This will benefit the entire city as well as the hundreds of depositors whose money is tied up in the closed banks.

Beverly Hills Kiwanis Club Joins Washington

Word was received in Washington last night that the Beverly Hills, Calif., Kiwanis club had been "annexed" to the Capital district, comprising the District of Columbia, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

The "annexation," however, was only an expression of appreciation by the Capital district to the Beverly Hills club, which acted as host to the delegation during the Kiwanis convention in Los Angeles. Edwin H. Hill, governor of the Capital district, presented the scroll of membership to Wiley N. Caldwell, president of the Beverly Hills club.

GOTWALS PROPOSES D. C. PUBLIC WORKS TO COST $22,000,000

List Submitted to Commissioners Before Going to Recovery Board.

A list of public works which would cost $22,000,000 to construct was completed yesterday by Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals and submitted to his associate Commissioners for approval before being forwarded to the National Recovery Administration.

The list, which has been in preparation for several weeks, includes virtually all the major projects heretofore published, including the two units of the Municipal Center and the Michigan Avenue Viaduct, which has not been mentioned before, over the Baltimore & Ohio Railway tracks. The latter would cost $400,000.

The Municipal Center is by far the largest project on the list, calling for expenditure of approximately $10,000,000 in addition to the $500,000 now available. Postponed on account of drastic reductions in District revenue, the Municipal Center would relieve the congestion of District courts and the Police Department as well as ultimately replace the present District Building.

Just how many of the projects may be approved by Administrator Hugh S. Johnson is conjectural, however, in view of the inability of the District to raise 30 per cent of the construction costs to meet the Federal Government's 70 per cent donation.

Should the administration consider some of the structures Federal projects, however, they could then be financed 100 per cent by the recovery fund.

Bank Stock Investment Is Denied to Receivers

Justice James M. Proctor, in the District Supreme Court, yesterday declined to authorize the receivers for the Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., to invest $20,000 in the stock of the proposed Hamilton National Bank.

The receivers, Maj. Julius I. Peyser and Joseph P. Tumulty, petitioned the court for instructions as to whether they had the authority to make the commitment. The money is now tied up in the District National Bank.

Citizen Group to Advise Police Chief Is Favored

Favorable reaction has been received by Superintendent of Police Ernest W. Brown to his proposal to create an advisory committee of citizens to aid him in current administrative problems, he announced yesterday.

Numerous civic leaders, he said, have called him and indorsed the idea. Several names already have been suggested, he said. His plan will be submitted to the new District Commissioners to be appointed by President Roosevelt.

7 Churches Plan Gathering Today

Seven Episcopal churches of Washington and nearby Maryland will hold a reunion today at Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach. One thousand children and more than 500 grown folks will attend the outing, leaving this morning by special train from the District Line station of the Chesapeake Beach Railway.

A baseball game between Sunday school teams, foot races and freak races of all kinds are on the athletic program arranged by Chairman Carl Cole and R. S. Clark. Swimming in the Seaside pool and dancing at night in the beach ballroom for the adults are included in the festivities.

The churches represented include: St. Mark's, Grace of Georgetown, Emmanuel, Good Shepherd, Trinity of Marlboro, St. John's of Oxon Hill, and St. Barnabas of Oxon Hill. Special buses will transport the children from the train to their homes.

$100 Is Necessary To Claim Vessel

She still lies deep, does the good ship J. J. Underhill, and her skipper, Capt. Asa Ketcham, must produce $100 within 30 days or lose her.

She sank again Saturday for the third time in less than a week. At Gravelly Point, her two masts can just be seen above the Potomac. Salvage charges of the United States Engineer's office will have to be met before Capt. Ketcham can again call her his own.

Twice the old boat sank, and twice she was raised. The third time was too much. Her hull battered by hidden piles in the river, the J. J. Underhill remained at the bottom, where she stays while her captain vainly attempts to procure funds again to put her in commission.

Northeast Business Men Hold Annual Outing

The Northeast Business Men's Association held their annual outing yesterday at Chesapeake Beach. About 150 members of the association attended.

William Ward, John Papas, John Deane, and Frank Razee were in charge of the arrangements.

Nurse Recalls Memories Of Tending Wounded in '61

MRS. AMELIA HARRIS,
who as a girl in her 'teens, tended the wounded at the first battle of Bull Run. Shown with her is her great-grandson, Russel Thompson.

Mrs. Amelia Harris, 88, Then Bride, Saw Battle of Bull Run.

The guns at Bull Run have ceased echoing these many years, but the cries of the wounded of both North and South still echo and bring tears of memory to the eyes of a Washington woman interviewed by a Post reporter yesterday.

She is Mrs. Amelia Harris, 88. A resident of Falls Church when the war broke out, Mrs. Harris was also a young bride, though in her 'teens. As word came of the first Federal offensive, Mrs. Harris and her family fled to Culpeper. Her young husband went with the Confederate forces.

Soon word came to Culpeper of the impending battle at Bull Run. Hurriedly Mrs. Harrison, accompanied by a sister, made her way to the scene of probable strife. Bandages and lint, arnica and all the other first aid paraphernalia of that day she carried in quick acquisition.

Mrs. Harris arrived at the field of battle as the first rattle of musketry broke out. From then on she and her sister labored unceasingly. Whether the fallen figure wore the blue or the gray made no difference.

Later in the war, Mrs. Harris' husband was wounded at the battle of Chickahominy Swamps, near Richmond. There she went and nursed him back to health. After the war she became a practical nurse. She still maintains her ability at this.

Mrs. Harris lives at 200 First street southwest.

LACK OF TEACHERS FOR DISTRICT SEEN

Cut in Appropriation and Resignations May Cause Shortage in Schools.

Now, it appears, there's a possibility of there not being enough teachers to teach District children next year.

But don't rush, prospective pedagogues, until you hear all Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou has to say.

A few weeks ago school officials were wondering how the school system could be operated next year on a reduced appropriation of $90,000 without dismissing some of the teachers.

Hours of labor resulted in formulation of a plan which protected all teachers in good standing. In connection with this program a survey was made to determine how many married couples were employed; that is, teachers who have husbands or wives employed in the school system or elsewhere in the Government service.

Dr. Ballou revealed yesterday that so many teachers were dropping out so that their husbands in the Government could hold their jobs that there is an actual possibility now that there will be a shortage of teachers. The superintendent also said that there is a possibility that new positions will be created in September to take care of special courses.

However, the superintendent added, it is too early yet to rap on the door of the School Employment Bureau.

Police Asked to Find Four High School Boys

Police were asked to search for four Washington high school boys who are believed to have left their homes yesterday for a camping trip in the vicinity of Baltimore.

They are Charles Dempsey, 15, of 1214 D street northeast; Gardner Miller, 14, of 1213½ D street northeast; Randall F. Diggs, 15, of 1241½ D street northeast, and Harold Herbert, 15, of 1221 D street northeast.

St. Elizabeth's Patient Is Returned to Hospital

She fled to the home of her parents in Falls Church, Va., clad only in night dress. She has been an inmate at the institution since February, 1932.

LIGHTNING IS FATAL TO CAPITAL WOMAN

Bolt Throws Power Plant Into Darkness; Rain Causes 11-Degree Drop.

A lightning bolt took a woman's life here yesterday as she wrestled with a stubborn window to shut out the driving rainstorm that swept with tropical fury across a wide District belt late in the afternoon.

Another bolt of lightning ricocheted from a trolley wire to a light wire at the large Benning power plant of the Potomac Electric Co., bringing darkness in the grounds for the night and almost crippling the plant. A destroyed switch was the only tangible damage.

The deluge broke the heat wave that swathed the city and in doing so transformed many streets into miniature rivers as sewers were swamped with the power of the sudden flood.

The woman killed by the lightning was Lily Harley, 38, Negress, of 1818 Gainesville street southeast. She was attempting to close a window on the second floor of her home.

The bolt first tore away several feet of planking from the eaves of the Harley home. It then ripped straight downward and into the window where the woman was. Then, with malevolent agility, the bolt struck and slightly injured Bernice Harley, 16, daughter of the woman killed.

The lightning then zigzagged through the Harley household, spreading terror and shaking down plaster in several places. Finally it spent itself, leaving the group of Negroes in the house shuddering and terror stricken.

Neighbors rushed in, hurried the stricken girl to Providence Hospital where she was declared only slightly injured. Fire apparatus and a Casualty Hospital ambulance hurried to the scene, too late to do anything for the Harley woman.

Fifth and Ingraham streets northwest, plaything of rainstorms in the District, escaped a flood yesterday as the freak summer weather tantrum swept the city. In that sector only a slight patter of rain wet the streets.

Roads in the outlying northeast and southeast sections were badly affected by the rain. In several sections in the Good Hope Hill area of Anacostia, concrete highways buckled as rain played havoc with surrounding turf.

The hot, dense temperature of 85 before the storm took a sudden drop to 74 afterward. Weather prophets indicated more showers for later in the night.

WASHINGTON CRIME AT LOW EBB DURING LAST FEW MONTHS

Unusual Decrease Credited Partly to Efficiency of Police Radio System.

One of the lowest ebbs in the history of crime in this city has been enjoyed by District residents for the last several months, Inspector Lewis I. H. Edwards, assistant superintendent of police, said yesterday following a review of statistics covering the present fiscal year.

A report which is now being prepared for this year, ending on Friday, indicates that there has been a gradual decrease in crimes and an abrupt drop during the last few months.

The only great increase in arrests were on charges of drunkenness, which during the months of April and May took an unprecedented jump. The arrests during the two months which saw the return of beer totaled 3,094 in comparison to 2,702 arrests for drunkenness during the corresponding months of 1932.

Police Radio Credited.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, stated that the unusual decrease in crime was in part due to the efficiency of the radio communication system.

Fewer complaints against policemen for dereliction of duty have been received than ever before, he asserted. There has been a marked falling off of trial board cases, he added. Although the decrease in appropriations for the department will hamper further improvements in police service, Maj. Brown said that every effort will be made to continue the decrease in crime.

Three Murders Still Open.

All but 3 of the 73 murders committed in Washington during the last fiscal year have been closed. In each case the murderer has been named by a coroner's jury but has eluded arrest.

The murders still open on police records are that of Policeman George W. Shinault, who was shot August 14, 1932; James P. Morgan, 51, of 3629 Jocelyn street northwest, who was shot as he was leaving his home on September 29, 1932, and Mary Rankin, 37, colored, who was shot January 14, 1933.

Traffic deaths also have shown a marked decrease during the last six months. Forty deaths have been recorded since January 1. Only two deaths due to traffic occurred to date during this month, a record unequaled for the last year.

D. C. Court Gives 15 Divorces in 3 Days

Fifteen divorces have been granted in the District Supreme Court in the last three court days. Five more are scheduled to be tried before Justice F. Dickinson Letts today, so that the number may reach an even score by the time the courts recess tonight.

The reason for the unusually large number is that cases that have been on the dockets for a long time are being cleared up before the present term of court is concluded Friday. On that date the courts go into the summer recess, not to return until September.

In every instance the complainants were awarded either interlocutory decrees or final decrees for absolute divorce.
